Guest TV Star Completes Assembly Slate Tomorrow

"The World of Cilli Wang" will be presented in the last all college assembly of the semester tomorrow at 10:40 a.m., instead of the regular 9:30 a.m. schedule, according to A. L. Pugsley, chairman of Assemblies and Forums committee.

Miss Wang is the celebrated Viennese satirist who received praise in this country in her first tour here last year.

Miss Wang is 4-feet 9 1/2 inches tall and her name is pronounced "silly." On tour, she carries over 500 pounds of equipment which she designed and made herself.

These include a seven-foot giraffe, a vast flowering plant, a bird, a fish, and a motley of double figures that make her into a visibly split personality. Her program runs from the comic to the serious.

As a guest star for George Gobel and the Ed Sullivan TV shows, she was enthusiastically received.

Thursday's usual assembly class schedule will not be maintained, but the following schedule will prevail. All 8 a.m. classes will meet from 8-8:30 a.m.; 9 a.m. classes from 8:40-9:10 a.m.; 10 a.m. classes from 9:20-9:50 a.m.; and 11 a.m. classes from 10-10:30 a.m.

The assembly will not be broadcast.

State Officials Plan Action on Wage Cut

With a wage cut facing approximately 350 maintenance employees here and at Kansas university, K-State workers and administration management are adopting a "wait and see" attitude toward possible action by the state legislature, which convenes January 13.

State Atty. Gen. John Anderson, in an opinion requested by Gov. Docking, ruled prevailing wage scales paid until December 31 to maintenance men at K-State and KU were illegal. He said the jobs came under civil service pay scales.

Maintenance men have been paid on wage scales designed to compare with similar jobs in the Manhattan and Lawrence areas, rates which are from 5 to 35 cents an hour higher than civil service rates, and about 70 per cent of minimum union scale.

Kansas State Business Manager Daniel Beatty said yesterday, "People here are waiting to see what action the legislature will take," and he noted workers are not quitting.

Beatty said both Manhattan and Lawrence have considerable demand for skilled labor, making tighter labor conditions, and if pay scales remained at the civil service level his department would find it difficult to maintain the present staff of maintenance men or to hire more.

Skilled employees such as plumbers, steamfitters, and electricians made $1.79 an hour, now will get $1.47 an hour under the civil service scale. A K-State spokesman said the change would mean wage reductions of from $150 to $800 a year depending on the job. Other state schools and institutions have civil service rates.

Senior Day Activity Set For Saturday Evening

During the course of time everyone has his day, and on Saturday senior students will be recognized at Senior day. Actually it is a Senior night as the activities are planned to begin at 7:30 p.m., at the Kansas State-Colorado basketball game.

Senior students will have a special reserved section at the game. They may be admitted to the section by having both their activity tickets and tickets to the game. The section will be reserved until 7 p.m., then it will be opened to any student until the section is filled.

After the game, Matt Betton and his band will play for an all-College dance in the Union grand ballroom beginning at 9:30 p.m. Admission to the dance will be one dollar a couple.

Seniors attending the dance may sign cards, one of which will be drawn at the intermission. Winner of the drawing will receive a $75 lifetime membership in the Kansas State college Alumni association.

Seniors, who register at the dance, will be able to purchase memberships in the alumni association at a discount of 20 per cent for the first year. These memberships will be sold in the Union lobby from Monday through Wednesday.

Dance ticket stubs will entitle senior girls to an extended 30 minutes of closing hours. Girls must have their ticket stubs to present at their housing quarters, said Mel Eaton, SED Sr, class vice-president.

Catalogues, Schedules On Sale at Union Desk

The General Catalogue for 1959-60 and the second semester line schedules are now on sale at the Union information desk, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar. The catalogues will sell for 60 cents and the schedules for 25 cents.

New Advisement System Proves Satisfactory—Department Heads

The new advisement system, which emphasizes advisement before registration, has been very successful so far, according to representatives of the four schools using the system.

The advisement system replaced the pre-enrollment system, which was discarded because of unsatisfactory results during the past year.

Clyde Mullen, assistant dean of agriculture, said the system has worked out remarkably well. "The advisers have been very co-operative," he added.

The system has been especially effective in the School of Arts and Sciences. Orval Ebberts, assistant dean, reported that 80 to 90 per cent of the Arts and Sciences students have already taken advantage of the plan.

Richard Potter, assistant dean of engineering, said the new program has worked perfectly. "The advisement is being taken care of in our individual departments," he added.

"The new system proves the students take a healthy interest in their college work," said Martha Kramer, assistant dean of home economics.

Three Government Grants Renewed to Back Research

Three governmental agencies have renewed grants to K-State totaling $35,100. The awards are for basic research being conducted in the Kansas agricultural experiment station under Clifford C. Roan, K-State entomologist.

The renewals, announced by Glenn H. Beck, director of the experiment station, include $8,300 from the Atomic Energy commission; $13,000 from the Department of the Army; and $13,800 from the Public Health Service.

The AEC grant is for use of radioactive tracers to help determine how insecticides will insects.

The Army study is concerned with the nature of resistance of insects to insecticides. This is a problem of serious proportions throughout the world, particularly with insects which spread human disease.

K-State's Third Largest Mid-Year Class Awaits Nearing Graduation Exercises

Names of 459 candidates for degrees at January commencement exercises have been announced by E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

This will be the third largest mid-year class in history at Kansas State college. Only at mid-year commencements in 1950 and 1951 were more degrees granted—more than 500 each year. Last year K-State conferred 373 degrees at mid-year.

The January commencement exercises will be at 10 a.m. Saturday, January 24, with President McCain bringing the charge to the class.

This year the list of candidates for degrees includes 368 for the bachelor of science, 6 for

Mercury, Capital K-State's Mouthpiece

WE NOTICE THE Manhattan Mercury editor and the Topeka Daily Capital sports editor were taking a few potshots at the Collegian during the holiday vacation. Our "irresponsible" actions in the football squad-Bus Mertes problem seem to have rubbed these people the wrong way.

We had plenty of time during vacation to sit back and survey the situation. At first it looked like we were being criticized for our handling of the dissension. But it soon became apparent that this wasn't the gripe. In actuality, we are being condemned for bringing the problem to light.

IT HAS BEEN SUGGESTED the Collegian be censored for its "brashness." In such a case, a third party would determine what news we could offer the readers. This would undoubtedly limit reporting to only those events which would reflect positively on campus life. In other words, the bad things would be ignored completely. You would be presented a "dream" world of perfect harmony, here at ol' K-State. The effects of this censorship should be evident.

But a more unethical practice is that where the censorship is a part of editorial policy. Here the editor himself keeps news from the readers. He deprives them of their right to know by not giving them the news to which they are entitled.

The Capital and Mercury, we believe, would never have printed the dissension story on their own initiative. Their first action was condemnation of the Collegian and defense of Mertes. This is their privilege. But we wish they would fulfill their obligation to their readers as well.

MERTES HAS BEEN GIVEN a vote of confidence by the Athletic Council and will be here another year. We'll wish him and his squad good luck and sit back to wait for next season's developments.

As "irresponsible" as it is, we are glad the situation is out in the open.

Perhaps we have sought out the 'truth' no matter who it has hurt. Maybe like our more mature journalistic friends we will gain experience. With this will come understanding and the appreciation of both sides of a problem. Then we too can sit back, not letting the readers know what is going on, and have the problem ferment.—GEM

World News USSR Claims U.S. Rejected Space Venture

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER
Moscow—The Russians, confident their "Mezhta" rocket soon will become the sun's 10th planet, berated the United States today for refusing to cooperate with the Kremlin on space control.
The anti-American attack, broadcast by Radio Moscow, hinted that the United States might have shared the honor of getting the new planet into space but turned down the chance.
Radio Moscow said the rocket launched Friday was "the mightiest in the world," but added that Russia "is not trying to intimidate anyone with it."
"With its obvious superiority in rocket building and in preparing for the jump into interplanetary space, the USSR nevertheless offered the USA at the last session of the UN General Assembly to join with other powers in a program for using cosmic space for peace," the broadcast said.

Senators Cast Lots
Washington — Alaska's two new senators participate today in an American ritual that hasn't been performed in 47 years.
In the presence of the full senate, Ernest Gruening and E. L. (Bob) Bartlett will draw lots to determine the length of their terms.
Under Senate rules, approximately one-third of the Senate membership must stand for reelection every two years, which necessitates differing terms for Gruening and Bartlett.

Reds Begin Retaliation
Taipei—Communist shore guns hurled saturation barrages at the Quemoy outpost islands today, reopening the "war of the Formosa strait," the Chinese Nationalist Defense ministry announced.
The Ministry said the bombardment, threatened in retaliation for the reported killing of a number of children by a Nationalist bombardment, started at 2 p.m. and went on for at least two hours.

Safety Factors Listed
Topeka — Jack B. Jenkins, superintendent of the Motor Vehicle department, yesterday listed three factors that influenced this year's Kansas traffic death toll of just 549, lowest since 1950.
The factors, he said, were better enforcement and safety education, the new safety responsibility law, and highway improvements which gave "better sight distance, smoother and wider surfaces and more gradual curves on the roadways."

THE DATING SEASON

I have recently returned from a tour of 950,000 American colleges where I made a survey of undergraduate dating customs and sold Zorro whips. I have tabulated my findings and I am now prepared to tell you the simple secret of successful dating.

The simple secret is simply this: A date is successful when the man knows how to treat the girl.

And how does a girl like to be treated? If you want to know, read and remember these four cardinal rules of dating:

1. A girl likes to be treated with respect.

When you call for your girl, do not drive up in front of the sorority house and yell, "Hey, fat lady!" Get out of your car. Walk respectfully to the door. Knock respectfully. When your girl comes out, tug your forelock and say respectfully, "Good evening, Your Honor." Then offer her a Marlboro, for what greater respect can you show your girl than to offer Marlboro with its "better, makin's," fine flavor and new improved filter? It will indicate immediately that you respect her taste, respect her discernment, respect her intelligence. So, good buddies, before going out on a date, always remember to buy some Marlboros, now available in soft pack or flip-top box at your friendly vending machine.

2. A girl likes a good listener.

Do not monopolize the conversation. Let her talk while you listen attentively. Make sure, however, that she herself is not a good listener. I recollect a date I had once with a coed named Greensleeves Sigafos, a lovely girl, but unfortunately a listener, not a talker. I too was a listener so we just sat all night long, each with his hand cupped over his ear, straining to catch a word, not talking hour after hour until finally a policeman came by and arrested us both for vagrancy. I did a year and a day. She got by with a suspended sentence because she was the sole support of her aged housemother.

3. A girl likes to be taken to nice places.

By "nice" places I do not mean expensive places. A girl does not demand luxury. All she asks is a place that is pleasant and gracious. The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, for example. Or Mount Rushmore. Or the Taj Mahal. Or the Bureau of Weights and Measures. Find places like these to take your girl. In no circumstances must you take her to an oil-cracking plant.

4. A girl likes a man to be well-informed.

Come prepared with a few interesting facts that you can drop casually into the conversation. Like this: "Did you know, Snookiepuss, that when cattle, sheep, camels, goats, antelopes, and other members of the cud-chewing family get up, they always get up hind legs first?" Or this: "Are you aware, Hotlips, that corn grows faster at night?" Or this: "By the way, Loverhead, Oslo did not become the capital of Norway till July 11, 1924."

If you can slip enough of these nuggets into the conversation before dinner, your date will grow too torpid to eat. Some men save up to a half-million dollars a year this way.

Cat-Buff Game To Top Big 8 Action

Things really get rolling in the Big Eight basketball race this Saturday, as all teams play their second loop games. K-State, Colorado, Kansas, and Oklahoma won their openers Monday night, beating Iowa State, Nebraska, Oklahoma State, and Missouri, respectively.

K-State meets Colorado at Manhattan Saturday in what figures to be the top loop contest. The Wildcats topped the Buffaloes 66-65 in the finals of the Big Eight Pre-season tournament in Kansas City December 30, after Coach Sox Walseth's crew had lead most of the second half. Colorado had a seven-point lead with just seven minutes to go in the game.

Colorado is sparked by 5-10 guard Gerry Schroeder, who was a unanimous selection to the tournament all star team. Schroeder scored 28 points in the finale, most on long jumpers from outside.

Don Walker, 6-6 center, carries most of the Buff rebounding chores, and is a good ball handler. He possesses a good hook, and is a fast man under the boards who often slips in for layups.

The Buffs topped Oklahoma and ran past Nebraska to reach the finals against the Cats in the tournament.

K-State will risk its 3-4 national rankings against the Coloradoans, who will carry a 7-4 record into the game. The Herd dropped a 67-46 decision to Iowa, and then dropped highly-regarded Washington twice, 70-63, 69-51. Montana university and the Air Force were defeated, 86-55, and 52-44, before the Buffs dropped a pair to UCLA, 48-58, 54-56.

In other action, Kansas meets Missouri at Columbia, Oklahoma State invades Nebraska, and Oklahoma plays at Iowa State.

Two days later, Monday, January 12, all teams again will play. Kansas plays at Iowa State, Oklahoma will be at Manhattan, Oklahoma State visits Colorado, and Nebraska hosts Missouri's Tigers.

SOPHOMORE FORWARD Jerry Johnson saw quite a bit of action in the Iowa State game at Ames Monday. He scored three points as the Cats won, 59-56.

BILL GUTHRIDGE, junior guard, has appeared in five ball games for the Cats this year, spelling starters Don Matuszak and Sonny Ballard. He has a two-point average.

Top-Ranked Kentucky Downed by Vandy

By UPI

Unranked Vanderbilt and an unsung but hot-shooting little Hoosier proved to be the undoing of previously unbeaten Kentucky.

It all happened at Nashville, Tenn., last night when Vanderbilt handed top-ranked Kentucky its first licking in 12 starts this season, 75-66, for possibly the biggest upset of the basketball campaign so far.

Jim Henry, a new Albany, Ind., native who barely stretches six feet, was the man chiefly responsible for Kentucky's first loss since last February 24.

Henry, whose chief hobby is tropical fish, also collects points and the 29 he came up with last night were enough to snap a Wildcat winning streak which had extended to 16 games over two seasons.

Kentucky, last year's NCAA champions, fell behind early, stayed ice cold throughout the first half and never was able to catch up. The inspired Commodores, who had won five games and lost five until last night, walked off the floor with a 41-27 lead at half-time and then came back to run up a 17-point lead in the second half.

Held in check by a man-to-man defense, the Wildcats rallied late in the second half to cut Vandy's margin to six points, 70-64, with three minutes to go, but the Commodores never let them get any closer.

Kentucky looked sluggish all night, connecting on only 23 of 81 shots for a sub-par 28.5 per cent average. Billy Lickert was the Wildcats' high scorer with 14 points.

The victory was only the 13th for Vanderbilt over Kentucky in their series which goes back to 1912. During that time, the Wildcats defeated the Commodores 55 times.

Second-ranked North Carolina State also suffered quite a scare before coming on to down Virginia, 73-68, for its 10th victory in 11 games.

Brennan, Graham Being Considered For Florida Post

By UPI

Terry Brennan and Otto Graham today were being considered as possible successors to Florida State university football coach Tom Nugent.

Nugent, who guided Florida State to one of its best seasons in school history this fall, signed a four-year contract yesterday as head coach at the University of Maryland.

But Tallahassee attorney W. G. Starry, president of the local boosters club, said: "I personally doubt we could pay enough to get either one."

Pettit Nears 1000 Points For St. Louis Pro Five

B UPI

Bob Pettit's golden touch promises to make him the first man to reach the 1,000-point mark in the National Basketball association this season.

Pettit, who set a Garden rebound record of 35, scored 17 of his points in the first half as the Hawks took a 49-37 lead. St. Louis opened an 83-67 bulge after three quarters and coasted the rest of the way. Veteran Vern Mikkelsen paced the Lakers with 17 points.

Pettit raised his league-leading total to 979 last night as he poured in 35 points to lead the St. Louis Hawks to a 112-95 victory over the Minneapolis Lakers in the opener of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader. New York trounced Syracuse, 118-108, in the nightcap.

In a Philadelphia twinbill, the red-hot Boston Celtics knocked off Cincinnati, 109-95, and Detroit nipped Philadelphia in the last seconds, 107-105.

Sports Column

By Don Veraska

After seeing all Big Eight basketball teams at the Big Eight Pre-season tournament in Kansas City over the holidays, we agree with the consensus that the conference shows better balance this year.

But with the exception of Colorado, perhaps, none of the teams seemed as strong as last year. The Big Eight could just be having an off year as far as talent goes. Consider, for instance the 30-27 record that the loop compiled against non-league foe before the tournament this year. K-State had a 6-1 mark, but the Wildcats were the only team more than one game over the 500 mark. Colorado, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Oklahoma State had 4-3 marks, Iowa State was 3-4, Missouri was 3-5, and Kansas was 2-5.

Compare that with the glossy 34-13 non-league record compiled by the seven members of the conference last year before the holiday. K-State and Kansas were both undefeated with 7-0 marks; Oklahoma had a 5-1 record; Missouri had a 5-2 mark; Iowa State had won four and lost two; Nebraska had won four and lost the same number; and Colorado was the only conference member with a losing record—2-4. And Oklahoma State, which wasn't eligible for the loop crown last season was on the way to a 21-8 season record.

Last year, the Big Eight was almost a unanimous selection among sportswriters for the honors of being the toughest conference in the nation. This year, the Southeastern conference, with Auburn, Kentucky, and Mississippi State; the Atlantic Coast conference, with North Carolina State and North Carolina; and the Missouri Valley conference, with Cincinnati, St. Louis, and Bradley, all could be considered tougher than the Big Eight.

Graduations, drops, and professional basketball or baseball have all cut down on the relative strength of the loop this season. But a lot of good sophomores and juniors, should by next year substantially strengthen the Big Eight basketball situation.

Kentucky Leads in AP Poll; K-State Slips to No. 4 Spot

The top 10 teams in the Associated Press major college basketball poll underwent a thorough shuffling, but for the third straight week the Kentucky Wildcats retained their No. 1 rating.

Kentucky ran its streak to 11 straight with victories over Navy, Illinois, and Georgia Tech last week. It was rewarded with 81 first-place votes and a total of 1,245 points.

North Carolina State jumped three notches into second place following victories over previously-unbeaten Cincinnati and Michigan State in the Dixie Classic.

The Wolfpack received 30 first-place votes and 1,115 total points. They have won nine games against a single defeat, suffered at the hands of K-State.

North Carolina, which also whipped Cincinnati, moved up from fourth to third. The Tarheels were given four first-place votes.

K-State, despite winning the Big Eight tournament, received only two votes for the top spot and slipped from third to fourth.

Michigan State followed a loss to North Carolina State with a victory over Indiana and jumped two notches into the No. 5 spot.

Climbing from ninth to sixth was Auburn, following convincing victories over Florida State and Mississippi State. The undefeated Tigers were the first-place choice of four of the sportswriters and sportscasters who make up the poll.

Cincinnati dropped from second to seventh following its double-defeat. The Bearcats also received four first-place votes.

Northwestern slipped from sixth to eighth despite victories over Notre Dame and Iowa. Bradley climbed from 10th to ninth after trouncing Drake.

The top 10 was rounded out by St. John's of Brooklyn, which has won nine of 10 starts.

Wildcat Swimmers To Meet Ft. Hays In Saturday Action

K-State's swim team travels to Hays Saturday for a contest with the once-beaten Ft. Hays State swimmers.

The Wildcat tankmen have one victory, a 56-29 decision over Pittsburg State, while Ft. Hays State has suffered a 66-19 loss to Nebraska.

Swim coach Bill Thrall does not expect much trouble with Ft. Hays since he says K-State and Nebraska rank close to each other in strength this season.

Ft. Hays State will be led by Marvin Giersch and Lloyd Kefler who swam well against Nebraska. Giersch swam for K-State as a freshman before he transferred to Ft. Hays State.

The Wildcat coach said he expects a good performance from at least four K-State swimmers—Jerry Fitzgerald, Jim Mariner, Allen Rader, and Tom Coblentz.

The tentative Wildcat lineup:

410 yard medley relay—Jim Mariner, Allen Rader, Jerry Fitzgerald, and Dave Leavengood.

220 yard freestyle—Tom Coblentz, Chuck Englund.

60 yard freestyle—Gordon Harper, Craig McNeal.

Diving—Dallas Chestnut, Dave Noblitt.

200 yard breaststroke — Chuck Englund, Jerry Fitzgerald.

100 yard freestyle—Gordon Harper, Craig McNeal.

200 yard backstroke—Jim Mariner, Dave Leavengood.

400 yard freestyle relay—Gordon Harper, Jim Mariner, Chuck Englund, and Dave Leavengood.

Hydraulic systems are being used at an ever-increasing rate to power and control mechanisms in nearly every field. Cessna's Industrial Products Division is one of the fastest growing manufacturers of hydraulic components for Industrial and Farm Equipment use. Your future can be bright as a design engineer with Cessna if you are qualified. Cessna needs engineering graduates with up to five years experience — young, vigorous engineers with fresh ideas who want to grow with a growing organization. Investigate the advantages of working for Cessna where the Design Engineer can follow his design from concept, through testing and into production. Work without the frustration of the red tape that hampers the engineers work in many of the very large organizations. Unbeaten Whiskey Stacker At Long Last Gets Match

By UPI

Gene (Ace) Armstrong was, for a time, a middleweight Floyd Patterson.

He had the same manger. And, with Cus D'Amato battling the International Boxing club hierarchy, Armstrong didn't fight very often.

Without going into the merits of D'Amato's case against what he refers to as the boxing octopus, Armstrong is happy to report that all has changed since he broke away from the Patterson camp and signed a new manager.

For the slender man who was a television sensation last summer when he defeated Rory Calhoun is back in business at Madison Square Garden on Friday night against Eddie Dixon, the Newark policeman. It is the classy Armstrong's first go since the Calhoun bout.

It is an important fight both to him and the 25-year-old Dixon. Armstrong stacks cases in a liquor plant for $108 a week and has his eyes on the big purses upstairs. Now willing to take on all comers, he figures it is time to make his big move.

"I'm not interested in fights outside the ring," says Armstrong. "All I want to do is fight inside it."

He can fight, too, as he proved against Calhoun in one of the year's best fights. For Armstrong is a sharp, punishing fighter in the classic mold. He moves with the grace of the old heroes instead of the lumbering bulliness of the modern era.

Snog's New Year Resolution; Quit My Non-Smoking Habit

By ALICE HASTINGS

Written with a bold flourish, the single resolution of Sigurd Snog, BPL Jr., is taped onto the left lower corner of his desk: "I resolve, once and for all, to break myself of the habit of non-smoking."

They said it couldn't be done, but Snog is a man who thinks for himself. "I owe it to myself to live modern," he declared. "Anybody but a cube would have cured himself of non-smoking at my age."

He admits that for years he has resisted the efforts of his friends to help him stop non-smoking. But New Year's was his big red letter day, and he decided to join the circle of those who had overcome the non-smoking habit.

Snog will be glad to be free of the guilt-complex he has developed over non-smoking.

"When I think of all the free cigarettes that are given away to college students—even free cigarette lighters for empty cartons, I know how wrong I've been. To think of the free offers I've turned down while my parents sacrifice for my education."

Snog has definitely put smoking into his smile. He sits and dreams about the look of pride on his mother's face as she sees him broken of non-smoking for the first time.

Half-time at the basketball games will have a new significance for Snog. Instead of digging at his eyes with his fists and trying to dodge the blue breath of his neighbors, he will send his own little cloud into the face of the attractive coed behind him. Who knows? Perhaps, she will notice him?

Now he will be able to share in the feeling of "togetherness" at the half. He will be proud that he is supporting the team as they run back from their dressing room and into the blue haze that's pure pleasure.

With an induction physical examination coming up in about a year, Snog feels that he can't begin too soon to break his habit. He sometimes has nightmares about having to take a physical at once.

He dreams that the army doctor probes his lungs with a mirrored tool and then sneers to the nurse, "Did you ever see such a pair of baby-pink, uncongested lungs?"

They said it couldn't be done, but puff by puff, Sigurd Snog will stop his non-smoking completely before 1959 has ended.

'Mister Demo' Again Holds Top Position

By UPI

He is known in some quarters as "Mister Democrat" or "Mister Sam."

But most of the public knows Sam Rayburn as speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives. He has been given the job again at the age of 77.

Rayburn has led the Democratic party in the House since September 16, 1940, but his activities as speaker are relatively new when placed alongside his 45 years of service in Congress. That's quite a record for a country boy, born in the hills of Tennessee and reared on a cotton farm in Texas.

Politics is Rayburn's lifetime work. He campaigned by horseback to win election to the Texas legislature at the age of 24. Seven years later—in 1913—he came to Congress and he's been there ever since.

He spends most of his time when Congress is not in session on his 400-acre farm near Bonham, Tex., not far from the original 40-acre family homestead.

Rayburn is used to the hard work that comes with the job as speaker. He worked his way through East Texas Normal college sweeping floors at $3 a month.

Now he earns $45,000 a year and rides around in a chauffeured limousine that comes with the job.

Rayburn's trademark is his bald head, and his scalp serves as a political barometer—if flushed, the danger signal is showing.

He displays few of the classic characteristics of his profession as a politician. He is shy, quiet spoken, but he can wield a wicked gavel over a sometimes unruly house.

His relaxed leadership is considered one of the reasons for his success, because he does not scatter his shots or waste his ammunition on minor matters. When he does jump into the fray, the cry goes up through the lobbies and corridors, "Rayburn's up," and Democrats and Republicans alike hurry into the chamber to hear him.

Rayburn was married in his 20's, but the marriage ended in divorce after three months. He never has re-married.

He is one of the few congressmen who have the trust of both the northern and southern wings of the party, and his leadership has been credited with preserving party unity in the past.

That talent is expected to be tested to the full this session.

Halleck Is House Leader After Series of 'Almosts'

By UPI

Charles A. Halleck has seen his political fortunes dip and rise in recent years.

Right now they are going up again. He outmaneuvered one of the savviest old pros of all—Joseph W. Martin Jr.—to walk off with the job of House Republican leader.

But Halleck can look back on a series of "almosts" dating from 1948 when he believed he had received the nod as GOP vice presidential candidate. Then, in a period of four years, moves to boom Halleck for House GOP leader collapsed twice.

Short, peppery Charlie Halleck—politician, lawyer, soldier, fisherman—was born 58 years ago in Jasper County, Ind. He attended the public grade schools and high school in Rensselaer, Ind., and then he went to war.

Halleck entered the infantry as a private. He became an officer before World War I ended. Flu stopped him from going to France, and by the time he recovered the war was over.

Halleck then entered Indiana university, graduated with honors in 1922, and received a law degree two years later. The same year he was elected to the first of five two-year terms as prosecuting attorney of Jasper County Circuit court.

He married Blanche White of Indianapolis, Ind., in 1927. Their twins—Charles and Patricia—were born two years later.

He now has seven grandchildren.

Over the years, Halleck also has acquired a few side interests: A little fishing, a little hunting, a little backyard cookery. But his wife says his reading is mostly devoted to "many newspapers."

Halleck first ran for Congress in 1935 in a special election. At that time he was the only Republican congressman from Indiana. He has been reelected to every Congress since then.

House Republicans elected him to their leadership in 1947. But the role actually meant playing lieutenant to Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts who reigned over both the Republicans and the House as speaker.

Halleck in 1953 thought the White House was backing him to unseat Martin, but he received no White House support. Again Martin assumed the top House post as speaker with Halleck as his lieutenant in the role of majority leader.

Two years ago insurgent Republicans once more approached Halleck, urging him to attempt to unseat Martin. But at the end the support thinned and Martin was reelected to the leadership.

And even this year nearly became another "almost" for Halleck. It took two ballots for him to defeat Martin by only a scant majority.

Afterwards, a photographer asked him to grin. He refused.

"I don't want to look too gloating," he said.

WILLIAM F. BLOOMFIELD, B.S.I.E., LEHIGH, '53, SAYS:

"Join me for a day at work?"

Bill is Plant Service Supervisor for New Jersey Bell Telephone Company at Dover. He joined the telephone company after graduation, has held many jobs to gain valuable experience. Now he has three foremen and 32 craft people working for him. "It's a challenging job and keeps me hopping," says Bill. "See for yourself."

"8:30 a.m. With my test bureau foreman, I plan work schedules for the coming week. Maintaining equitable schedules and being ready for emergencies is imperative for good morale and service."

"9:10 a.m. The State Police at Andover have reported trouble with a mobile radio telephone. I discuss it with the test deskman. Naturally, we send a repairman out pronto to take care of it."

"11:00 a.m. As soon as things are lined up at the office, I drive out to check on the mobile radio repair job. The repairman has found the trouble—and together we run a test on the equipment."

"1:30 p.m. After lunch, I look in on a PBX and room-phone installation at an out-of-town motel. The installation supervisor, foreman and I discuss plans for running cable in from the highway."

"2:45 p.m. Next, I drive over to the central office at Denville, which is cutting over 7000 local telephones to dial service tomorrow night. I go over final arrangements with the supervisor."

"4:00 p.m. When I get back to my office, I find there are several phone messages to answer. As soon as I get them out of the way, I'll check over tomorrow's work schedule—then call it a day."

"Well, that's my job. You can see there's nothing monotonous about it. I'm responsible for keeping 50,000 subscriber lines over a 260-square-mile area in A-1 operating order. It's a big responsibility—but I love it."

Bill Bloomfield is moving ahead, like many young engineers in supervisory positions in the Bell Telephone Companies. There may be opportunities for you, too. Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus and get the whole story.

Colsons Pay Four Tuitions at K-State

By GARY VACIN

Several members of one family often go to the same school, but it is unusual when four of them attend college at the same time.

This is the case of Ted, Tom, Fred, and Jean Colson, who are students at K-State this year. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Colson of Hillsdale.

A scholarship led to their coming here. Ted, the oldest, was considering going to St. Benedict's, Atchison, until he received a Kroger scholarship to K-State through his 4-H work. The rest of the family followed in his footsteps.

"We were all real close at home," said Ted, "and we thought it would be nice to attend the same school."

Fred said the family lives only 40 miles from Kansas university. "But we decided on K-State because we had so many friends here."

Ted, who is majoring in dairy manufacturing, plans to graduate this month. He will then be employed as superintendent of the College creamery and also teach some dairy courses.

"I plan to take a few courses on the hill and get a business degree also," he said.

Tom is studying architectural engineering and will graduate next January. He then wants to work in an engineer's office.

Fred is in his second year of architecture and would like to work in the designing field after he finishes school.

A freshman, Jean is majoring in home economics with a teaching option. However, she is thinking of changing curriculums.

"I would like to get a major or minor in interior decorating and start out in that," she said.

Ted has been married for five years and has two children. He lives in a trailer house at North Campus courts. Fred and Tom live together in a private home. Jean is a resident of Southeast hall, where she works on the switchboard.

The three brothers all work for Chappell's Creamery and played for the same intramural basketball team.

"I enjoy going to school here," said Jean. "It makes me feel at home to have three brothers around. They sure come in handy at times."

Tom also thinks it is great to attend school with his family. "And there may be more," he said. "We have a younger brother, seven, and a sister, four, who will also probably come here."

Wage Slash Hurts KS, KU Employees

K-STATE AND KANSAS UNIVERSITY may be faced with a exodus of about 350 maintenance workers unless the Legislature, which convenes January 13, decides to rescind a cut in wages these employees took as of January 1.

Before the first of the year, these electricians, plumbers, steamfitters and other maintenance men were being paid "prevailing" rates existing in those communities for comparable jobs. The rates were about 70 per cent of minimum union scales, but 3 to 35 cents an hour higher than civil service scales.

These prevailing wage rates were first set up in 1947 for "casual common laborers." They were to be paid on an hourly basis at rates equivalent to the "going rates" for like work in the communities where the work was to be done. Later the prevailing rates were extended to skilled foremen and certain unskilled classifications.

THE STATE FINANCE COUNCIL in 1957 disapproved prevailing wage scales and directed they be discontinued by July 1, 1958. By resolution, however, the council last summer extended the schedule until December 31.

The Board of Regents requested the council to extend it again, but the council refused. State Atty. Gen. John Anderson ruled the old civil service board had no authority to set up the prevailing wage rates in the first place.

Anderson also said civil service employees receive benefits outside workers don't. "Civil service wage and salary schedules provide, in some cases, lower salaries and wages than might be earned in the labor market, but the holders of civil service benefits enjoy job security, conditioned upon efficient discharge of their duties, compensatory time-off, regular paid vacations, and other advantages which must be considered as increments to the financial remuneration."

"The order was observed by the Social Welfare department and the other three state colleges," said Governor Docking, who is chairman of the State Finance council.

"The 126 state agencies other than the two educational institutions are getting along under the civil service range. I think it may be time to make it universal," he added.

HOWEVER, ADMINISTRATORS of the two schools and the Board of Regents are still hoping the Legislature will act to restore prevailing wage rates. They point out that competition for employees is less keen in towns where the other state schools are located.

We, too, hope the Legislature will do something about providing "livable" wages for these workers. Substandard wages for work at K-State and KU may cause men to quit and move on in search of better jobs, throwing college maintenance into a turmoil.

Perhaps Anderson was right in stating the prevailing wage rates should never have been set up in the first place, but you will have trouble convincing men who have to support families that pay they have been getting for over 10 years should now be cut.—GEM

Girls Squatty, Tweedy—Cal Paper

A MISCELLANEOUS STORY regarding women's fashions appeared recently in the Daily Californian. "Ladies, do you have thick pedestal-like ankles? Do you when strolling gaily down the avenue, present to the world the graceful silhouette of a 5th avenue bus? Do old ladies pat your head and old men give you dog biscuits? Congratulations, you have arrived. You have "IT"—that collegiate look for this year of gracelessness 1958-59. Yes, men, there she is—the girl of all our dreams. Squat, tweedy and unattainable. (News item: 27,000,000 American men are violently allergic to wool.) Dazzled by her glory—from headache band exposing her cauliflower ears to her heavy wool or (in the great American tradition of freedom of choice, whoopee) long black stockings—we modestly cast our eyes downwards and are struck by her feet. Memo to secretary: find out if health insurance covers such contingencies.) Now you too, ladies, can get your filter-tipped feet in either soft pack or flip-top box. (Send two box-tops and social security number, kiddies, and get, absolutely free, a prechewed pair of full fashioned sneakers. They come in three flavors—chocolate, vanilla, and mock ravioli).

THE HEADLINE which topped the two and one-half page final schedule in the Indiana Daily Student read "Eat, Drink, and Be Merry, for Tomorrow You May (Will) Die."

DeGaulle Becomes President, Promises Return to Greatness

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Paris—Gen. Charles DeGaulle, 67, took office today as first president of the Fifth republic and pledged himself to restore France to its past glories.

DeGaulle the general became "Monsieur le President" in a solemn ceremony at the presidential Elysee palace, where he assumed such great powers that the future of France itself now rests on his shoulders.

His stirring inaugural speech hit the note of glory and conviction in the destiny of the French nation which is the mystical credo of the tall, angular, uncompromising man.

DeGaulle succeeded President Rene Coty, last of the nearly-powerless presidents of the defunct Fourth republic. The Fourth republic was swept out of existence by a nation which rebelled against a political instability that sapped France's place as a great power.

"Destiny of France," DeGaulle said while 21 artillery guns boomed out to a waiting nation the news that he had become president. "These words evoke the heritage of the past, the obligations of the present and the hope of the future."

Local Girl Makes Good

Tatebayashi, Japan—This city of 60,000 gave a wild welcome today to a hometown girl who has become the national idol, the next empress of Japan.

Michiko Shoda, the attractive daughter of a flour mill executive, returned to her home town of Tatebayashi today for the first time since the announcement last November of her engagement to Crown Prince Akihito.

Four thousand persons, including teachers and classmates of the local primary school which Miss Shoda attended, greeted her at the railway station and crowds lined the streets to the home of her uncle.

'Business' Colleges Hit

Kansas City—Some American college were accused yesterday of operating as business enterprises and not schools of higher learning.

Theodore A. Distler, executive director of the Association of American colleges said at the group's 45th annual meeting that:

"The American people have not in general looked to higher education for the production of gentlemen of culture. They have tended to suspect culture and distrust the concept of a gentleman."

"Education has been widely touted and generally accepted as the road to wealth and power, comfort and prestige. Even in the present crisis, the arguments on both sides have been mainly concerned with the material results of education: our standard of living, our military strength, our national security."

Space Secret Revealed

Berlin—East German university students yesterday were told the real reason the Soviet moon-ik penetrated farther into space than American moon rockets.

"The philosophy of the working class, dialectic materialism, formed an important part of the fuel of the Sputniks of the moon rocket," mathematician Dr. Klaus Swelling wrote in a Communist weekly newspaper.

Statehood Outlook

Washington—Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D. Wash.) predicted today that the new 86th Congress will grant statehood to Hawaii.

Jackson, chairman of an Interior Subcommittee on Territories, said Alaskan statehood paved the way for Hawaii and "the make-up of the new Congress strengthens the outlook."

He said he would join in sponsoring a Hawaii statehood bill identical to the one approved by the committee last year. He said hearings on the measure should be relatively brief because "the facts are well-established."

Docking Inaugural Set

Topeka—Gov. George Docking, to be sworn in with other state officials in inauguration ceremonies Monday, said today he hopes to deliver his opening message to the Legislature January 15, following with his executive budget message on January 26.

The 165 members of the legislature will open a three and one-half month session Tuesday.

Docking said he will not reveal much of his budget recommendations in his welcoming address. He said his budget will be tight.

"Some agencies may not get a raise, in fact, some may get cut," he said.

Atomic Drilling Predicted

Dallas—A Bureau of Mines official predicts that atomic explosions will be used to release oil from rich shale deposits within a few months.

Richard M. Gooding, assistant chief petroleum engineer for the bureau, outlined a plan for atomic tests at a meeting of oil and gas company representatives and Atomic Energy commission officials which ended here yesterday.

Gooding said the cost of the first experiment probably will be shared half-and-half by private industry and the federal government.

Gooding said the initial experimental atomic shot would be set off in Buchanan county, Colo. The shot is expected to indicate the usefulness of extracting oil economically from vast shale deposits in the western section of the country.

TUNEFUL HOBBY—Mike Robinson, Phy Fr, looks over a hi-fi record he recently purchased for his extensive collection. Robinson, who is an avid member of the growing fraternity of "hi-fi addicts," says he is partial to jazz, but likes almost any kind of good music.

Best High Fidelity Sound Depends on Good Amplifier

The amplifier is one of the essential links in the over-all high fidelity system, according to Dale V. Jones, associate professor of English.

The function of the amplifier is to take the small electrical signal from the phonograph pick-up and increase its strength so that it can supply power to operate a set of speakers, he said.

The electrical signal that results in sound covers a wide range in terms of the number of octaves represented, stated Jones. The actual number of cycles ranges from 20 to 20 thousand per second.

The difference between a good and bad amplifier is in the amount of distortion of the original signal that is produced. There are several common types of distortion.

The first type is frequency distortion. The electrical signals do not come out in the same relative strength as they went in. Certain tones are over-emphasized while others are under emphasized, said Jones.

Harmonic distortion, the second type, means that new tones not in the original signal will be produced.

The third type, inter-modulation distortion, occurs when the amplifier confuses the signals, and one distorts the other.

These distortion factors along with several others are true of any phonograph, either monaural or stereophonic.

The amplifier is one part of the system where a do-it-yourself fan can save money, said Jones. Kits are available that are easily assembled by anyone with normal mechanical ability. Amplifiers ranging in price from $40 to several hundred dollars are available in kits that will save the buyer up to 50 per cent. The equivalent of a $60 amplifier may be purchased in a kit for about $30.

In table and console models where the amplifier is out of sight in a cabinet, many manufacturers save money by installing inexpensive units, Jones said. This is done because the buyer rarely sees what he is getting.

Often 50 per cent of the cost is in the cabinet alone. He pointed out there is no reason to blame the manufacturer, since the public demands nice cabinets for their record players. The manufacturer must save money somewhere if he is to make a profit.

East Germany Plans New Berlin Blockade

By UPI

Berlin—The East German government notified Russia officially today it would accept control of all Berlin's lifelines and force the Western powers to negotiate with it for permission to supply their forces here.

A note handed to Soviet Ambassador G. M. Pervukhin said East Germany would take over control of the land and air routes running to the city through East German territory. The note was in answer to a Soviet note of November 27 proposing West Berlin be made a free, demilitarized city.

The Western right of access to Berlin is based on four-power agreements with the Soviets. If the Russians go through with their threat to abrogate these agreements, the Western powers will have no right to cross East Germany to get to the city.

Defending IM Team Champs Drop in Semester Standings

Beta Theta Pi and Scholarship House were the leading teams in the Fraternity and independent division respectively, for the first semester of intramural play, as defending team champions Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Jr. AVMA each slipped to fifth place in its division.

The Betas hold a slim 10½ point lead over second place Pi Kappa Alpha, 361-350½, while third place Delta Tau Delta, fraternity basketball champion, is third with 309 points. The Sig Alphas, with 298½ points, are just 3½ behind fourth place Phi Delta Theta.

In the independent division, Scholarship House, playing for the first year, has 270 points, 10 ahead of the No. 2 independent entry, House of Williams. West Stadium is in third place, where it finished last year, with 238½ points; the Rebels are fourth with 201 points; and defending champion Jr. AVMA trails with 194½.

Twenty-two teams are entered in fraternity intramural play, and 37 are playing in the independent division.

ONE MIGHTY BIG little reason for K-State's 10-1 record and high national ranking is Wildcat guard Don Matuszak. The 6-0 senior is the third-high scorer on the squad with 111 points for a 10.1 average, and possesses the highest field goal percentage on the team—44 per cent. Matuszak was named by sportswriters and broadcasters to the pre-season tournament all-tourney team along with Bob Boozer.

Dayton's Flyers Rebound With Win over Duquesne

By UPI

The Dayton Flyers have finally come out of their slump with the kind of rush they hope to turn into a springboard for their eighth appearance in the National Invitation tournament.

Dayton, which posted a 25-4 record last season and then wound up second in the N. I. T., began the current basketball campaign in spectacular fashion by winning its first seven games.

Then Coach Tom Blackburn's Flyers hit a snag and dropped three in a row to St. John's, Utah and Brigham Young. But the Ohioans suddenly recovered the winning touch last night by defeating Duquesne, 57-47, to make their season record 8-3.

Maryland massacred once-mighty Duke, 64-33, at College Park, Md.

Playing a man-to-man defense, Maryland held Duke scoreless for the first three minutes and the last eight minutes of the game.

Georgia Tech's late-game spurt beat Georgia, 66-62. Georgia trailed most of the way and finally tied the score, but Buddy Blemker and Terry Randall sparked a closing drive that opened a seven-point lead for Georgia Tech with less than two minutes to play.

Wildcat Mat Squad To Open Road Trip

In the first match of a four-match road trip, K-State's wrestling team will face South Dakota State tonight at Brookings. The Cats, with a 1-2 record this season, meet Minnesota State, Minnesota university, and Cornell college, tomorrow, Saturday, and Monday on the road.

The Cats will be without the services of Pat Doyle, who won the conference 157-pound crown two years ago. Doyle, a senior, shot himself in the leg in a hunting accident, and is sidelined for the season.

K-State won its opening match of the season, 24-5 from Ft. Hays State, and then lost to Northern Illinois, 16-12, and to defending NCAA champion Oklahoma State, 26-4.

Coach Warren Williamson's South Dakota State matmen are short of experience, due to injuries. Only two lettermen will start—147-pounder Dick Kuhns, and George Alfredson, 177-pound squad captain.

The lineups:

Huggins	123 lbs.	Bartholomew or Kasuske

UPI 'Player of Year' Award To Cleveland's Jim Brown

By UPI

Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns, possibly the most powerful runner in National Football league history, today was named the professional circuit's "Player of the Year" for 1958 in the annual United Press International poll.

Brown, a 230-pounder who runs through the line with a fullback's power and in the open with a halfback's speed, set an all-time NFL rushing record of 1,527 yards in 1958. He led the league in scoring with 108 points. His 18 touchdowns included scoring runs of 65, 60, 59, 58, 52, 41, and 38 yards.

This performance against football's smartest and toughest defenses earned him 21 of the 29 votes cast by sports writers.

John Unitas, quarterback for the champion Baltimore Colts, was second in the voting with five votes. Bobby Lane, Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback, was third with two. The other vote went to Del Shofner, speedy offensive end for the Los Angeles Rams.

Brown won the NFL rushing crown with 942 yards during his first professional campaign in 1957 and won "Rookie of the Year" honors by a landslide vote for that performance.

In 1958, the former Syracuse all-American showed that his brilliant 1957 showing was merely a warmup. During the past season he shattered the old NFL rushing mark of 1,146 yards set by Steve Van Buren of the Philadelphia Eagles in 1949 by 381 yards.

Brown set an all-time rushing mark although the New York Giants and other clubs discovered midway in the 1958 campaign that they could concentrate on stopping him because Cleveland's passing attack was not top-notch by professional standards.

Brown carried the ball 257 times in 1958, averaging 127 yards per game and 5.9 per carry. His 18 touchdowns tied the season record set by Van Buren in 1945.

Chi Omega Announces Pinning

Skin Care Can Be Made Easy Even in Kansas' Cold Weather

Hey girls! Is your name missing from the lists of those recently pinned, engaged, or married? If it is, perhaps you are not being careful enough to guard against the effects of the cold, damp air and chill winds that are so prevalent now.

The kind of weather we are experiencing is extremely bad for hands and faces. Without proper care, you may wind up with a chapped face and cracked lips. No one needs to tell you that this is not going to add to your popularity.

Start protecting your face by cleansing it with cream at least once a day. Soap and water are fine for removing dirt, but they also take many of the oils out of your face. The cream will leave a slight residue which will help to guard against chapping.

The use of a creamy lotion under your make-up is a big help, too. If your ear lobes turn red when exposed to the cold, try applying lotion to them.

Cold winter weather should signal the end of your use of dry cake make-up. Get a make-up with a creamy base and smooth it all over your face and neck. Be especially careful to cover areas that you cannot shield with your scarf.

Lips are very delicate and chill winds can cause them to flake and crack. This can be painful. A preventive is always better than a cure, so take care of your lips before they reach this sad stage.

Apply a coating of lip pomade each night before you go to bed. In the morning, use some of your creamy make-up under your lipstick. It should go without saying that you will abandon any type of lipstick that is drying. A creamy type is much better.

Frosty weather can ruin a lovely pair of hands. Use lotion frequently—before you go out, at night, and during the day whenever you have a chance.

Next to lotion, hands' best friends are gloves. Never venture outside in cold or windy weather without some type of gloves.

Cold, damp air can create havoc with legs, too. If your legs are rough and red, or you have dry, flaky skin in general, add some bath oil to your tub water. After your bath, rub in well some type of cream or lotion.

The tights or leotards that are so popular on campus now are an ideal way to protect your legs. After all, legs deserve the same kind of care your hands receive.

Remember to cover your hair also. Those curls are just as fragile as your face. If you want your hair to be soft and easy to manage, don't force it to battle those cold winds.

Some girls have trouble with their eyes "tearing" in cold, windy weather. If your eyes smart and water, try bathing them in a commercial eye lotion.

Most cold weather mishaps can be avoided if you remember two simple rules. (1) Bundle up well. Always wear a scarf and gloves when you go out. Winds can ruin hair just as easily as they can chap hands.

(2) Apply lotions and creams as often as necessary. Don't wait until your skin is peeling off before you do something.

By taking a little more care of skin than usual, perhaps your name will soon be in the society columns linked with some handsome man's name. At any rate, good luck.

ENGINEERS

Hydraulic systems are being used at an ever-increasing rate to power and control mechanisms in nearly every field. Cessna's Industrial Products Division is one of the fastest growing manufacturers of hydraulic components for Industrial and Farm Equipment use. Your future can be bright as a design engineer with Cessna if you are qualified. Cessna needs engineering graduates with up to five years experience— young, vigorous engineers with fresh ideas who want to grow with a growing organization. Investigate the advantages of working for Cessna where the Design Engineer can follow his design from concept, through testing and into production. Work without the frustration of the red tape that hampers the engineers work in many of the very large organizations. Plan to talk with the Cessna Engineer who will visit our campus January 9, 1959 and learn of your opportunities with Cessna. Contact the Placement Center at Kansas State College for an appointment.

A program of supreme importance to anybody who ever buys classical records

The RCA Victor Society of Great Music

UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE Book-of-the-Month Club

... its common-sense purpose is to help serious lovers of music build a fine record library systematically instead of haphazardly ... under reliable guidance ... and at an IMMENSE SAVING over what they would otherwise pay for the very same RCA VICTOR Red Seal Records

MOST MUSIC-LOVERS, in the back of their minds, certainly intend to build up for themselves a representative record library of the World's Great Music. Unfortunately, almost always they are haphazard in carrying out this aspiration. The new Society is designed to meet this common situation, sensibly, by making collection more systematic than it now is in most cases.

* Because of more systematic collection, operating costs can be greatly reduced. The remarkable Introductory Offer at the right is a dramatic demonstration. It can represent a saving of up to more than 40% the first year.

* Thereafter, continuing members can build their record libraries at almost a ONE-THIRD SAVING. For every two records purchased (from a group of at least fifty made available annually by the Society) members will receive a third RCA VICTOR Red Seal Record free.

* A cardinal feature of the plan is GUIDANCE. The Society has a Selection Panel whose sole function is to recommend "must-have" works for members. Members of the panel are: DEEMS TAYLOR, composer and commentator, Chairman; SAMUEL CHOTZINOFF, General Music Director, NBC; JACQUES BARZUN, author and music critic; JOHN M. CONLY, editor of High Fidelity; AARON COPLAND, composer; ALFRED FRANKENSTEIN, music critic of San Francisco Chronicle; DOUGLAS MOORE, composer and Professor of Music, Columbia University; WILLIAM SCHUMAN, composer and president of Juilliard School of Music; CARLETON SPRAGUE SMITH, chief of Music Division, N. Y. Public Library; G. WALLACE WOODWORTH, Professor of Music, Harvard University.

HOW THE SOCIETY OPERATES

EACH month, three or more 12-inch 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ R.P.M. RCA VICTOR Red Seal Records are announced to members. One is singled out as the record-of-the-month, and unless the Society is otherwise instructed (on a simple form always provided), this record is sent to the member. If the member does not want the work he may specify an alternate, or instruct the Society to send him nothing at all in that month. For every record purchased, members pay only \$4.98, the nationally advertised price. (For every shipment a small charge for postage and handling is added.)

Please register me as a member of The RCA Victor Society of Great Music and send me immediately the RCA VICTOR album checked below, billing me $3.98 plus a small charge for postage and handling. I agree to buy six additional records within twelve months from those made available by the Society, for each of which I will be billed $4.98, the price nationally advertised (plus a small charge for postage and handling). Thereafter, I need buy only four such records in any twelve-month period to maintain membership. I may cancel my membership any time after buying six records from the Society. After my sixth purchase, if I continue, for every two records I buy from the Society I will receive a third RCA VICTOR Red Seal Record, free.

NEWLY-CHOSEN CHIEFS of staff for the spring Collegian, Sharon Totten, TJ Sr, and Hal Mitchell, BA Sr, test the comfort of Collegian executive offices after a Student Pub announcement yesterday named them editor and business manager. Miss Totten has held two staff positions on the editorial side of the student daily and two on the business staff. Mitchell will be serving for the fourth time on the advertising side.

Totten, Mitchell Head Collegian

Sharon Totten, TJ Sr, has been named editor of the Collegian for the spring semester. The selection was announced by the Board of Student Publications.

Hal Mitchell, BA Sr, was named business manager.

Miss Totten was business manager of the Collegian this semester. She gained experience during other semesters at Kansas State as feature editor, exchange editor, and assistant editor on the editorial staff, and as ad salesman and assistant business manager on the business staff.

"I hope to edit a good newspaper," Miss Totten said, "and my interpretation of a good newspaper is one that strives for accuracy, complete coverage, and a thoughtful editorial policy."

"It looks like we're going to have a pretty inexperienced staff, at least to start off with—but I think it can handle the job," Miss Totten said she was not yet ready to name a staff.

Besides her Collegian experience, the new Collegian editor has worked for the Marysville Advocate as a reporter and photographer.

Mitchell is setting a new precedent among Collegian business managers—the coming semester will mark the fourth he has held the position. He was manager during the summer session of 1957 and 1958, and during the spring semester a year ago. His experience includes work as assistant business manager and ad salesman for the paper.

Concert Set For Sunday

The K-State concert band will present its annual concert Sunday in the College auditorium at 3 p.m. Jean Hedlund, K-State director of bands, will conduct the program.

The concert will open with "Sol a Sevilla," by Jose Jordana. Other numbers in the opening group are "The Chocolate Soldier" by Oscar Straus; "Andalucia" by Ernesto Lecuona; and "Elas's Procession to the Cathedral" from "Lohengrin" by Richard Wagner.

Following an intermission, the band will perform "Marche" from "Love of the Three Oranges" by Serge Prokofiev; "Perpetuum Mobile" by Johann Strauss; "Hymn and Fuging Tune No. 1" by Henry Cowell; and "The Fairest of the Fair" by John Philip Sousa.

Robert J. Quinn, assistant conductor, will direct the band for "Marche" from "Love of the Three Oranges." The concert is sponsored by the "Friends of Music." Admission will be 35 cents or the student activity ticket.

Boris Topic Of Lecture This Evening

A well-known Kansas City area lecturer, Irving Levitas will be a guest speaker in All-Faith Chapel this evening at 8:30 p.m. His subject will be "Boris Pasternak—Moses vs. Marx."

Mr. Levitas has been on the K-State campus a number of times. He is director of education of Congregation B'nai Jehudah in Kansas City, and is a graduate from the Institute of Oriental Studies at the University of Chicago.

This program is being sponsored by the Hillel Foundation as one of its Sabbath services.

Also, at 4 p.m. Friday, Mr. Levitas will discuss Pasternak in a seminar hour sponsored by the History, Government, and Philosophy Department in Eisenhower 227. Faculty and students are invited.

More Announcements Available in Kedzie 101

Additional graduation announcements may be purchased in the College Press, according to George Eaton, superintendent. Both folders and booklets are available. Candidates for degrees who ordered announcements and have not picked them up should do so at the earliest opportunity, Eaton said.

Cagers' 10-1 Mark Risked Tomorrow

Off to a winning but shaky start in the Big Eight cage race, Kansas State tomorrow night at Manhattan meets the No. 1 aspirant to the loop championship, Colorado's Buffaloes.

The Buffs gave K-State a real scare before bowing in the finals of the Big Eight tournament, 67-66, after leading by nine points with eight minutes to go in the game.

The Cats slipped by Iowa State at Ames Monday night, 59-56. It appeared early in the game that K-State might have an easy night of it for a change, but hot outside shooting in the second half by the Cyclones prolonged the uncertainty of the decision until the final buzzer.

"We feel Colorado is the top contender for the conference championship," commented Coach Tex Winter. "I can't foresee their losing many games at Boulder, and consequently this game is a 'must' for us. On the basis of what we have seen of the Buffaloes, we'll have to be up or they can very easily knock us off."

Colorado's 57-50 win over Nebraska university at Boulder Monday night gave the Buffaloes a 7-4 overall mark, and a 1-0 league mark, to share the top spot with the Cats, Oklahoma, and Kansas.

"We know we're not the greatest shooters in the world," commented Colorado coach Sox Walseth before the season began, "but we also know that we can play good defense and that we can run and we can battle. We're not going to worry about shooting percentages."

Less than a month later, the Buffs hit a sizzling 52.4 per cent against K-State in the conference holiday tournament.

The cagers from Boulder owe much of this improvement to guards Gerry Schroeder and Russ Lind, center Don Walker, and forward Billy Lewis.

Schroeder, an all-tourney selection at Kansas City, led the Buffs in scoring at the tournament, and hit 28 against the Cats.

Lots on Sale At Lake Area To Students

Lots in the future Tuttle Creek recreation area are now available to students and classified staff members, according to Kenneth Heywood, director of development.

The lots are on sale in three price ranges—$875, $975, and $1,075. No more than two lots will be sold to any one purchaser.

Heywood said that approximately 60 lots have already been sold to faculty members, professional personnel, and alumni.

The land making up the site for the area was purchased recently by the Endowment association. "This means that we are definitely going ahead with the project," said Heywood.

Patience, Understanding Top Trait Wanted for Teachers by Public

WHAT DOES THE PUBLIC want in a school teacher?

According to George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, the No. 1 trait which the public thinks a successful school teacher should have is "patience and understanding."

The Gallup Poll also found that if the general public set the policy, America's school teachers would be given pay increases based on their teaching ability rather than on the length of their service.

Two out of every three adults, the national poll revealed, say teaching ability should be the criterion, while about one adult in every five, or 19 per cent, says pay raises should be based on the length of service. Five per cent of the public thinks both factors should be taken into account.

However, Gallup gave neither the number of people questioned nor any suggestions by these people on how a teacher's ability could be determined.

Gallup said the public, for some time now, has shown an awareness that low pay is one of the major problems of attracting people to the teaching profession and that the public would be willing to dig down into its own pockets to help out on this problem.

A 1955 GALLUP POLL found an "overwhelming" majority of the people saying that higher salaries were the key factor in getting more sorely-needed personnel into the teaching profession.

In the same survey two out of every three adults said they were willing to pay more in taxes if the added revenue were used to raise the salaries of school teachers.

Now if only the politicians elected to represent these people could be convinced of the same thing, teachers' problems would be solved. That is, unless the people found that talking about shelling out more tax money is easier than actually reaching for the billfold.—GEM

Russian Rocket Should Theoretically Come Back to Earth in 154 Years

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER
By United Press International

Moscow—The Soviet cosmic rocket theoretically should return to the earth in 154 years but influences on its orbit around the sun probably will prevent this happening, a Soviet scientist said today.

The Tass news agency quoted scientist A. Sternfeld, an astronautics expert, in an interview published in today's Soviet newspapers.

The first artificial planet should theoretically return to its starting place and meet the earth after 125 revolutions around the sun," Sternfeld said. "This should occur early in 2112 but changes of the orbit rocket under the influence of the moon and the planets preclude the possibility of a collision between the tenth planet and the earth."

Sternfeld has carried out calculations based on the 450 earth days it will take the rocket to orbit around the sun, Tass said.

"Both cosmic bodies will pass within a certain minimum distance from each other," Tass said. "In the next few decades the new planet will be closest to the earth early in 1975. But even then it will be 15 million kilometers (9.3 million miles) away from the earth."

Tass said that although the rocket will return to its own starting point at the end of its first 450 days in orbit the earth will have moved elsewhere in its own orbit by then. It said the rocket then will be further from the earth than the earth is from the sun.

"It will return every time to the area of its start and sooner or later may meet the earth at this point," it said.

Mikoyan to Chicago

Chicago—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan arrives in Chicago today, armed with an invitation to "drop in" at a bus driver's four-room apartment and chat with an average American.

Mikoyan was scheduled to arrive by plane at midway airport at 10:53 a.m. (CST) from Detroit, where his reception last night included a barrage of eggs, snowballs and insults hurled by 500 demonstrators.

A spokesman for Hungarian freedom fighters in Chicago said pickets would greet Mikoyan at Midway and at other stops at the Conrad Hilton hotel and the Chicago club, in spite of a plea by President Eisenhower that he be treated with courtesy.

In Detroit last night, angry pickets threw about a dozen eggs and snowballs at Mikoyan when he emerged from a limousine at the exclusive Detroit club to attend a dinner.

Legal Betting Try

Kansas City, Kan.—A Kansas lawmaker who twice has been unsuccessful in getting pari-mutuel betting legalized in the state, said yesterday he would try again in the new legislative session.

Rep. Joseph M. Mikesic (D-Kansas City) says he would include pari-mutuel betting in a bill to provide legal approval for bingo games.

The bill, he said, will be sponsored by 13 other solons.

Mikesic estimated that pari-mutuel betting would yield Kansas from $5 million to $6 million annually in tax revenues alone.

Besides that, there would be taxes on payrolls at the tracks and from expenditures of tourists.

DeGaulle Troubled

Paris—Charles DeGaulle, France's president for barely 24 hours, found himself confronted today by a new upsurge of trouble in strife-torn Algeria.

The news that one of the biggest battles of the four-year-old war is raging in the Kabyle mountains of east central Algeria spread worry among the more than 300,000 families who have contributed men to France's army in the big "overseas province."

Reports from Algiers said French troops killed more than 300 Arabs in hand-to-hand hill fighting yesterday. French losses, unmentioned in the official reports, were presumed to have been considerable.

DeGaulle has dedicated himself to a policy of negotiating for peace with the Arabs who are fighting France in Algeria, but so far the refugee "government" in Cairo has rejected his overtures.

Disputes over Algerian policy wrecked government after government, under France's 4th Republic, and it is certain to be a key issue in the debate next Thursday on the program of Michael Debre, the 5th Republic's first premier.

Dam Break Kills 100

Zamora, Spain—A giant hydroelectric dam near the Portuguese border burst today, cascading tons of water over the village of Riva De Lago in northwest Spain.

A spokesman for the civil government estimated 100 persons were swept to their death when the wall of water engulfed the village of 500 persons.

Reports reaching Zamora said recent heavy rains filled the Vega De Tera dam to the danger point and that it burst early this morning, flooding the village.

The reports told of bodies, animals and household goods being driven ahead of the surging waters into Lake Sanabria which lies just above the northeastern tip of Portugal.

The concrete dam blocked one of the smaller lakes ringing Lake Sanabria and was one of a network in this area used for supplying hydroelectric power. It was reported undergoing modification at the time it broke.

Mike Todd Statue

Lake Zurich, Ill.—A discarded sketch today was blamed for a rumored plan to build a giant statue on the grave of late movie producer Mike Todd.

The showman's brother, David Goldbogen, denied last night any intention to model a tombstone after one of the movie world's "Oscar" awards.

The only basis for the story, said Goldbogen, a millinery supplies firm owner here, "is that some months ago we asked for a number of sketches about possible monuments for Mike."

Hi-Fi Loudspeakers Can Be a Problem

(This is the third in a series of written under the direction of Dale articles on Hi-fi and Stereophonic record players. The articles are by V. Jones, associate professor of English.)

"In any sound-reproduction system, the unit most likely to be inefficient is the loudspeaker," said Dale V. Jones, associate professor of English and a hi-fi "bug".

The function of the loudspeaker is to exchange the electrical signal into an audio signal thus producing sound.

Jones said that in any sound system it is usually wise to spend 25 to 50 per cent of the total cost on the speaker or speakers and necessary cabinet work.

"As a general rule, the large speaker produces more sound at the bass end than smaller speakers do," he said. "However, the sound in a large speaker is not necessarily better. Quality is more important in a speaker than size."

Two or more speakers are usually better than one, provided the speakers are of the same comparable quality. He said that since distortion of sound is more likely in a multiple system, the speakers must be of the same quality.

In giving information of special importance to do-it-yourself fans, Jones said that one of the best ways to mount a speaker is in a hole in the wall—that is if parents, landlord, or school officials do not object.

Since cutting a hole in a plaster wall would present a problem, one solution is to cut a hole in a closet door and mount the speaker there. A large piece of plywood is good too, but it is not so decorative. This would have to be set up in a corner.

"The simplest method of mounting a speaker," said Jones, "is to build a strong air-tight box, as large as the 'authorities' will permit. A minimum size is two cubic feet with four or six cubic feet being even better."

"Kits for speaker boxes are available as are finished cabinets in which you may put the speaker of your choice," he said. Completed cabinets range in price from $40 to several hundred dollars, with kits costing approximately 50 per cent less.

Some shelf models are available for even less than the others, he said. They are satisfactory except that they produce less bass, he said.

"As in all record-playing equipment the best is to listen and compare. Be sure you are not spending too much of the cost on fancy cabinet work. It is the speaker that counts," Jones concluded.

Regents O.K. New Degrees

The Board of Regents has authorized the College to offer four new doctor of philosophy degrees. They are in veterinary medicine in the Department of Pathology and Physiology, electronics in the Electrical Engineering department, zoology, and chemical engineering. Kansas State now offers doctorates in 20 fields.

The Graduate school has made the biggest percentage gains in enrollment of any school at Kansas State in recent years. Over the past biennium enrollments were up 28 per cent. Another 20 per cent gain was registered in September.

St. Bonnie Record Clean With Decision over Iona

By UPI

There are only four major unbeaten basketball teams in the country but you can take it from the coach of one of them, Eddie Donovan of St. Bonaventure, that his team won't be able to "go all the way" to a perfect season.

"Certainly not—not the way we're playing," said Donovan after the Bonnies easily gained win No. 7 of the season last night, 68-54, over Iona college.

St. Bonaventure, ranked 17th nationally, was one of three high-ranked teams to post wins. Fourth-ranked North Carolina overcame "deep freeze" tactics to beat Wake Forest, 44-34, and 11th-ranked West Virginia downed Penn State in overtime, 80-81.

Sophomore Tom Stith led St. Bonnie to its victory at New York's Madison Square Garden with 19 points and 10 rebounds, but both he and the Bonnies, whose starting team was composed entirely of players from New York City, failed to impress New Yorkers who turned out to see their return home.

Besides the Bonnies, the only other unbeaten major teams in the nation are Auburn, (9-0), Villanova, (8-0), and Boston university, (6-0).

North Carolina's victory at Chapel Hill was the ninth in 10 starts for Coach Frank McGuire's latest bunch of "Yankee Tarheels" and moved them into a tie with North Carolina State for first place in the Atlantic Coast conference at 4-0. Wake Forest's slowdown produced a game in which no basket was scored for the first six minutes.

Jerry West and Bob Clousson scored six points each in the overtime period to carry West Virginia to its 10th win in 13 games after Penn State held the Mountainers to a 71-71 tie in regulation in the game at University Park, Pa.

Shooting Ability, Defensive Play Wins Ballard Starting Role—Tex

By GARY VACIN
Collegian Asst. Sports Editor

"Sonny Ballard is a fine athlete as well as a great competitor. He excels at anything he takes up."

These are words of Tex Winter, K-State head basketball coach who recently inserted Ballard into the starting lineup of his Wildcats, presently ranked third and fourth in the major national basketball polls.

"Ballard earned the starting berth on his outside shooting ability and fine defensive play," said Winter. "He will gain confidence and his shooting will improve as the season goes along."

Ballard started his first game for K-State against St. Joseph's at Lawrence three weeks ago and has been in the starting lineup ever since.

"It is hard to pick the best team we have played so far because all our games have been so close," said Ballard. "But I believe I would go along with North Carolina State."

Ballard hit his season's high of 14 points against the Wolfpack last month and did a fine job of guarding Lou Pucillo as K-State handed North Carolina State its only loss of the season to date.

He named Pucillo and Colorado's Gerry Schroeder as the best starting berth this season with his hustling defense and shooting ability.

Walker, a 6-8 senior, has been the cog of the Buff offense from the pivot, and is the team's top rebounder, while Lewis, 6-4 junior is a defensive ace. He was instrumental in holding down Nebraska's Herschell Turner in the tournament semifinals.

K-State has five successive wins over Colorado, and has won 19 of 25 in the overall series. Colorado last won at Boulder in 1956, when the Buffs topped the Cats, 71-53. The Herd last won at Manhattan by a 63-60 score in 1955.

After only a night's rest, the Wildcats will face an equally tough Oklahoma Sooners quintet Monday evening at Manhattan.

The probable starting lineup:

K-State	Position	Colorado
Frank (6-8)	F	(6-6) Olson
Douglas (6-4)	F	(6-3) Lewis
Boozar (6-8)	C	(6-6) Walker
Matuszak (6-0)	G	(6-1) Schroeder
Ballard (6-0)	G	(6-2) Lind

GUARD GERRY SCHROEDER, 6-1 senior, is an offensive standout for Colorado's Buffaloes. He scored 28 points against the Cats December 30 in the Big Eight tournament. He has been a regular the last two years, and set an all-time Colorado record for guards with 304 points last season. Schroeder, along with Bob Boozar was an unanimous choice for the all-tourney team at this season's Big Eight tournament.

guards he has played against so far.

Ballard also praised his teammate at guard, Don Matuszak. "It is a lot easier to play ball when Matuszak is out there," said Ballard. "He is a good ball handler and is very good against a press."

Ballard named Colorado and Oklahoma as teams to watch this year in the Big Eight. "Kansas should also have a good team," he added. "The league is very well-balanced. Everyone is tough."

Thus far in 11 games, Ballard has hit 66 points for an average of 6 points a game. He leads the team in free throw accuracy with 14 of 17 attempts for 82 per cent. He has hit 35 per cent of his field goal attempts and has grabbed 23 rebounds.

Ballard was a three-sport star for Manhattan High school. He was a regular on the basketball team for three years, and led Manhattan to league titles his junior and senior years.

He quarterbacked the football team for three years and helped win a Central Kansas league championship his senior year.

During the track season he earned four letters, winning the state meet in the high jump and pole vault his sophomore and junior years, respectively. He also finished second in the broad jump both years.

Cat Cagers Meet Oklahoma Tonight

By DON VERASKA
Collegian Sports Editor

Safely by Colorado by an 89-58 score Saturday, K-State's nationally ranked Wildcats meet Oklahoma university, unbeaten in Big Eight play, tonight at 7:30 in Ahearn field house.

Coach Doyle Parrack's tall Sooners are 2-0 in loop play, with a 64-59 win over Missouri at Norman January 5, and an easy 56-43 victory over Iowa State at Ames Saturday.

As was the case with Colorado, the Cats have already met tonight's opponent in the Big Eight tournament, and boast a 73-59 win in the semifinals, after the Sooners had toppled Iowa State, 68-65 in first round play.

Oklahoma dropped a 60-43 decision to Nebraska in the third place battle at Kansas City to finish No. 4 in the pre-season standings.

The Oklahoma front line lacks only three inches of matching the Cats' height. Forward Del Heidebrecht is 6-6, forward Buddy Russell is 6-4, and center Jack Marsh tapes in at 6-7. Rounding out the startling lineup is Buddy Hudson, 6-2, and Denny Price, 6-1.

The Sooners, going into the holiday tournament were 4-3—losing 73-64 to Texas Tech in the season opener, dropping 61-52 to Arkansas, before rebounding with an 80-57 win over Iowa, and a 53-45 decision over Minnesota. Oklahoma then lost 59-51 to Southern Methodist, but won 60-50 over Southern Cal, and 57-52 over New Mexico State.

K-State has won 18 of the last 20 games against Oklahoma, with the two defeats coming two years ago. But the Sooners hold a 51-37 over-all record over the Cats. The Wildcats topped Oklahoma, 64-60, at Norman last year, and cinched the Big Eight basketball title with a 68-51 win at Manhattan over the Sooners.

Tex Winter's defending Big Eight champions risk a seven-game winning streak and a 2-0 loop mark against Oklahoma.

The probable starting line-ups:

K-State	Pos.	Oklahoma
Frank (6-8)	F	(6-6) Held'bret
Douglas (6-4)	F	(6-4) Russell
Boozar (6-8)	C	(6-7) Marsh
Matuszak (6-0)	G	(6-2) Hudson
Ballard (6-0)	G	(6-1) Price

Melvin Voigt Named New KS Librarian

Melvin Voigt, a member of the California university library staff has replaced William Baehr as professor of library service and director of the K-State library, A. L. Pugsley, dean of academic administration, announced Saturday.

Currently a Fulbright scholar to Denmark, Voigt will assume his new duties here late this summer after returning from Copenhagen where he is pursuing special research.

Pugsley said Baehr, librarian at K-State since 1943 will remain a member of the professional staff at K-State.

Voigt was a member of the Michigan university library staff from 1935 to 1942, and was director of the library and publications research for General Mills, in Minneapolis from 1942 to 1946. He was also librarian at Carnegie Institute of Technology from 1946 to 1952. Since 1952 he has been assistant director of the University of California library.

Voigt is a past president of the Pennsylvania Library association, a past vice-president of the Special Libraries association, a member of the American Library association, and a member of Phi Kappa Phi.

Boris Pasternak's Book Not Understood—Levitas

Boris Pasternak, Russian author and Nobel Prize rejector of "Doctor Zhivago" is probably asking, "What is the West arguing about? If they really understood my book, they wouldn't like it."

So spoke Irving Levitas, director of education of Congregation B'Nai Jehudah in Kansas City and graduate from the Institute of Oriental Studies at the University of Chicago, in his discussion of Pasternak at a seminar in Eisenhower hall Friday. Approximately 30 people attended the seminar.

Not one great Russian writer has attacked Pasternak for his book, Levitas said. The Russian authorities banned its publication in Russia because they did not want to revive the "Slavophile-Western conflict," should Russia be part of Asia or part of Europe?

The Slavophile attitude stems from the belief that Moscow was destined to be the center of Christianity, and that Russia had a unique mission for which she should remain uncontaminated by the West.

It took the mood of the Greek or Russian Orthodox church, Levitas explained. Essential to conquering the world are humility and self-abnegation, the ability to withstand pain. "Consequently, you must expect, in the conquest of the world, to be cruel and to be treated cruelly," he said.

The impact of Napoleon, "the most important man in the last 500 years of history," forcibly introduced certain Western ideas into Russia. These lay dormant until Marx began to be translated into Russian.

In the West, Levitas pointed out, Marxism was only economics. In the East, it became a religion.

Pasternak had studied in Italy and learned Western ideas. With Stalin's purge, he retired from creative writing and devoted himself to translation. "The victory of Stalin was the victory of Slavophilism, once and for all," Levitas commented. Because Stalin accepted no other value than self-abnegation, he could be most brutal.

Pasternak seems to recognize this victory of Slavophilism in "Doctor Zhivago," Levitas said.

Pasternak says that the denial of Western tradition has destroyed whatever hope the Revolution had, but, perhaps, it was because the Revolution contained the seeds of its own destruction.

He is convinced, Levitas said, that Marxism with all its promises cannot solve the great dilemma of man trying to solve his own problems. The solution he offers is the Christianity of the Greek Orthodox church, that of the "pale Galilean" with its self-abnegation and humility.

PLAY IT COOL. Leading the K-State concert band in its annual performance yesterday afternoon in the Auditorium is Jean Hedlund, assistant professor of music. About 200 people attended.

Gamble Wins Alum Award For Seniors

Bill Gamble, CE Sr, won a lifetime membership in the K-State Alumni association at a drawing which took place during intermission of the all-College dance Saturday night in the Union.

The drawing was open to all seniors attending the dance, which concluded Senior day activities. Approximately 150 couples attended. Music was provided by Matt Betton.

Closing hours were extended to 1:30 a.m. for all senior women who attended the dance.

Approximately 250 seniors sat in a special section reserved for them at the K-State-Colorado basketball game Saturday night. Dale Steffes, BA Sr, and Joe Gardner, BAA Sr, were special cheerleaders for the group.

About 200 women attended a tea for senior women sponsored by the American Association of University Women Saturday afternoon in the Union.

K-State Concert Band Presents Annual Show

The 57-piece K-State concert band presented its annual program before approximately 200 people in the Auditorium yesterday, under the direction of Jean Hedlund, assistant professor of music, assisted by Robert J. Quinn, Mus Gr.

The program consisted of selections ranging from the soft and inspiring "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral, from 'Lohengrin,'" by Richard Wagner, to the loud and rousing type such as John Philip Sousa's "The Fairest of the Fa''," which closed the program.

Perhaps the best received was the overture from "The Chocolate Soldier" by Oscar Straus. This was the longest number in the program.

Other numbers were "Sol a Sevilla" by Jose Jordana; "Andalucia" by Ernesto Lecuona; "Marche, from 'Love of the Three Oranges,'" by Serge Prokofieff; "Perpetuum Mobile" by Johann Strauss; and "Hymn and Fuging Tune No. 1" by Henry Cowell.

Prof Not Tweedy, Character, Just Guy Working for Living

ACCORDING TO A UNIVERSITY of Maryland research team, the average college professor is not the "casual, tweedy character" usually depicted, but just an average guy working to make a living.

A preliminary report by the research team, which spent a year interviewing 1,000 professors, former professors, and associates, says the professors "feel overworked and underpaid, like his job but thinks it should be better; feels unappreciated and often doesn't get along with his boss."

The report claims the average college teacher puts learning and intellectual superiority higher than financial security. "Money is neither the tap root of his troubles nor the crown of his goals."

The study was limited to teachers and former teachers of English, psychology, and chemistry—representing the humanities, social and biological sciences, and natural sciences, the three major areas of college curriculum.

THEY WERE ASKED WHY they became teachers, what they like and don't like about their jobs, and in the case of former teachers, why they quit.

The researchers came up with this picture of the average professor:

"He comes from a middle-income family, is conscientious and careful, hard-nosed and theoretical in his approach to life. He's not the overly friendly type and tends to join very few groups."

The report, touching 158 colleges and universities in 16 southern states, listed three areas in which immediate improvements should be made:

1. More money for salaries, classrooms, laboratories, secretarial assistants and for other things which enable teachers to do their jobs better."

2. Human relations. "... There is an abyss between the teacher and the administrator across which neither can communicate his feelings, ideas, and problems."

3. Individual problems. "Some teachers are in serious conflict about their goals, occupationally, socially and personally. Such conflicts lead, in many cases, to irrational behavior."

RESEARCH, SALARY, independence, recognition, advancement, and security were the six main lacks cited by former teachers as why they quit.

The report said those teachers who stayed on the campus despite drawbacks generally fall into four groups.

Some, faced with the same frustrations and tensions which forced their colleagues to quit, withdraw into a shell and "develop themselves to petunia culture or ship model building."

ANOTHER GROUP REACTS by "fighting City Hall." "They may be found among the faculty club oracles and orators. ... They make careers not of teaching but of trying to be deans without portfolios."

A third group reacts by personal unhappiness and essentially neurotic defenses.

A fourth group is probably the "most typical

... "These individuals do the best they can and make do."

Recommended cures:

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS and deans should make themselves available to teachers.

Vocational counseling: "Many colleges and universities offer this to students. ... It is a wonder that someone has not proposed the same for the faculty."

More research: "It is odd," the report said, "that universities and colleges, traditionally the leaders in generating new knowledge and the source of expert consultants to government and industry ... think they can do without research."

The report also listed additional funds as an "urgent need," but offered no comment or suggestions.

Big Rest Needed After Last Test

THOUSANDS OF EXAM-PRESSED students will be burning the midnight oil during the next few weeks. Afterwards, states an article in a recent issue of Today's Health, they should take a day off to sleep off their fatigue.

Millions of Americans don't get enough sleep, the article says. By becoming overdrawn at the sleep bank they can get into serious trouble.

To test the results of prolonged sleeplessness one volunteer recently kept himself awake for 72 hours. He reported these effects: he became light-headed and detached; voices seemed to come from far away; objects appeared to move in, then back away; he burst into frequent laughter for no reason.

The effects are similar—though milder—says author Theodore Irwin, when we lose even part of needed sleep. Every sleep cheat suffers some damage to his health. Timing and coordination usually suffer first; then hearing and vision. The amount of damage depends on the length of the sleep debt.

MOST SLEEP CHEATS stay up for seemingly strong reasons—the late television show, an exciting movie, a poker party. Some are "moonlighters" who hold down second jobs to pad their incomes.

But for others, less obvious causes are involved. Often these are neurotic. The frenzied man-about-town, for example, may be trying to escape from a painful reality. The stay-up-late housewife may be rejecting sleep because of tensions and anxieties. For such persons, lack of sleep is a symbol of deeper trouble.

Paris—A European statesman attending the Paris conference said he asked U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles how he feels.

"Very tired by evening," he quoted Dulles as replying.

Then Dulles added with a grin, "Don't worry. I have felt that way in the evening for the past 20 years."

Moscow—Former Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, on the "anti-party" group of Kremlin leaders who were ousted from top jobs.

"I supported them and became their partisan and accomplice. Being the chairman of the Council of Ministers (Premier) I not only became their accomplice but also nominally their leader."

Eastham, England—The local Board of Education ordered an inquiry today into complaints that the High Colliery County school is so cold that ink freezes in the inkwells.

Milwaukee, (UPI)—Dr. Jack B. Greene, a physics teacher at Marquette university, gave an hour long examination, and on grading the papers found that a Chinese student, rushed for time at the end, had dashed off the answer to his final question in Chinese. Dr. Kuick Lee, also on the department staff, reads Chinese. He translated. The Chinese student had given a perfect answer.

Milwaukee—The Rev. George Bersch of St. John's Episcopal church tells this story:

His brother Ernest won a goose in a raffle but, unable to summon the courage to chop its head off, chloroformed it.

He plucked it and left the nude bird on the kitchen table while he left for an errand. When he came back the bird had revived and was sitting on a radiator trying to keep warm.

Father Identifies Infant as Baby Kidnapped from Hospital

Compiled from UPI

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

New York—Police and FBI agents today recovered infant Lisa Rose Chionchio and arrested a 43-year-old blonde mother of eight children for kidnaping the child two and a half hours after she was born.

Chief of Detectives James B. Leggett said that Frank Chionchio, 28, father of the missing baby, had identified the child.

Leggett said that Chionchio, a New York Port Authority attorney, recognized a small scar over the left eye of the baby recovered by police. He said he had noticed the scar on his daughter shortly after she was born.

The FBI said the infant's blood type was identical to that of Mrs. Frances Chionchio, mother of the kidnaped baby.

The FBI also said that inasmuch as Mrs. Iavarone did not cross state lines with the baby there would be no federal prosecution in the kidnap case.

The arrest climaxed one of the most intensive hunts in the annals of the New York police department. More than 200 detectives, policemen and policewomen, aided by scores of FBI men, questioned hundreds of persons during the search.

Because of the vague description of the kidnaper, virtually every heavy-set blonde woman in her early 30s became a suspect in the case. Authorities questioned about 10 women answering the description furnished by several nurses who reported they saw such a woman enter and leave St. Peter's hospital about the time the infant disappeared.

Duke, Prince Visit Pub

London—The worst freeze in 12 years coated Britain with ice and snow today. It left a trail of stranded motorists and marooned the Duke of Edinburgh and Prince Charles in a pub.

The Duke and his son, heir to the throne, were forced to spend the weekend at the Pleasure Boat inn, a pub in Norfolk, when a lake flooded the tiny island where they had planned to hunt coot.

Pub owners Mr. and Mrs. Albert Amis said the Duke had a room of his own while the young prince shared a room with two other boys, members of their party. They stayed over Friday and Saturday nights while the local villagers drank as usual at the bar.

"We carried on as if they were ordinary guests," Amis said. His wife said the royal guests ordered from the ordinary menu.

Mikoyan Visits Studio

Los Angeles—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan takes time out today in his goodwill tour to visit a movie studio.

He will tour Paramount studios today where a reception will be held for him after a visit to the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles and a luncheon as guest of the World Affairs council.

Last night, in a discussion of cold war issues he called for a mutual withdrawal of U.S. and Russian troops from Germany.

"If the West does not want to withdraw all its men at once," Mikoyan said, "perhaps it could withdraw one third at first, and subsequently withdraw others in stages."

Reds Ask Refugee Visits

Frankfurt, Germany—The Soviet Union still is trying to get its hands on those Russians and East Europeans who prefer life in free West Germany to suffering under Communism at home.

Hidden deep within the German peace treaty which Moscow proposed this weekend is the following paragraph:

"Germany will support with all its resources the repatriation to their homelands of citizens of the allied and associated powers who were forced by the war into Germany."

If this treaty ever is signed, the Russians could be expected to demand the right to send repatriation commissions into the refugee camps of West Germany to try to sell refugees on the joys of living in Soviet Russia.

'Best Sustained Effort'—Tex

"There weren't really any factors in this game," observed Colorado Coach Sox Walseth after K-State's 89-58 drubbing of the Buffs at Ahearn field house. "This was just K-State's night, and I doubt if anything would have made any difference in the outcome."

Coach Tex Winter called it the "best sustained effort" of the year for the Wildcats. "We didn't have the offensive lull that we usually have. We didn't cool off—there was no cold spell. And being home for the first time in five games was another factor."

He singled out Don Matuszak, who got out of Student Health at 6 p.m. before the game, where he had stayed for treatment of a sore throat, Steve Douglas, who hauled down 12 rebounds, Bob Boozer, the game's leading scorer with 31 points, and Sonny Ballard, who hit well from the outside for seven points, as standouts for the Cats.

"But it was our defense that was the big factor of the game," he added.

The Cats played a 1-3-1 zone defense that held Buffalo ace Gerry Schroeder to five points, and Don Walker to 10—the only Coloradan scoring in double figures.

The Wildcats whipped out to a 5-0 lead Saturday night, holding Colorado scoreless from the field for the first 5:40 of the game. A layup by Matuszak gave the Cats an 11-point bulge, 18-7, with 13:04 left in the first half. The Buffaloes came back to an 18-13 deficit, but a layup by Jim Holwerda, two free throws by Ced Price, two more by Boozer, a jump shot by Boozer, and a jump by Douglas pulled K-State to a 28-13 lead, and Colorado never again threatened.

It was 45-28, K-State at the half, with the hosts hitting 48.3 per cent from the field to 24.1 per cent for the visitors.

The Cats raced to a 59-30 lead opening the second half, and with the subs being substituted liberally in the later minutes of the game, gained the biggest lead of the night, 88-52 with 3:02 to go on a jump shot by Mickey Heinz.

Boozer was high point man with 31 points, followed by Frank, Matuszak, and Price with 10 apiece. Walker was high for the Buffs with 10.

The box score:

K-State	FG-FGA	FT-FTA	RBS	PF	TP
Boozer	11-18	9-9	8	2	31
Frank	5-7	0-1	4	3	10
Douglas	3-7	2-3	12	1	8
Ballard	3-7	1-1	4	3	7

OU, Jayhawk Cagers Undeclared in League

The Kansas Jayhawks and the Oklahoma Sooners won easy victories Saturday night to remain undefeated in Big Eight play. Both have won two straight games and are now tied with K-State for the Big Eight lead.

Kansas had little trouble handling Missouri a 69-62 loss. The Tigers pulled into a 12-5 lead in the first eight minutes of play, but Kansas caught up at 13-13 and built up a 36-26 halftime lead.

The Jayhawks led by as many as 12 points in the second half, and then stalled out the final five minutes for the win.

Bill Bridges led the Jayhawks with 17 points and Ron Loneski and Dee Ketchum each added 11.

Jazz Fans View Films Of Big Name Musicians

By JOHN SHIRLEY

K-State jazz fans were treated to a series of rare films yesterday including the first public showings of the late blues Queen Bessie Smith's only film effort, "The St. Louis Blues," and Duke Ellington in "Black and Tan Fantasy," both of which were made in the late 1920s.

In these films, shown by the K-State Jazz club, viewers saw some of the first efforts by movie makers to utilize sound in motion pictures, efforts which sometimes produced striking results with a hacknied plot.

Bessie Smith in "The St. Louis Blues" plays the part of a scamp-loving figure whose fickle lover returns to dance Bessie away from her tear-soaked beer only long enough to remove a roll of bills from stocking and laugh himself out the door as Bessie pours out the title song.

Duke Ellington's "Black and Tan Fantasy," in the setting of the Duke's Cotton club, is the death story of his dancer girl friend, who in spite of heart trouble dances her last on a mirrored floor—after seeing split images of the orchestra due to dizziness before coming on stage. She lives long enough to hear Ellington play the title song in a striking scene highlighted by performers' shadows, ending as she dies while watching Duke's face grow fuzzy and fade out.

In another film on the program, scenes along New Orleans' Burgundy street are shown to the music of the George Lewis trio. Here the blues, joining with the paintless boards, iron railings and doors, wet streets, rusty fire escapes, and an old woman sweeping the sidewalk, form a vivid melancholy picture.

Ever meet a pessimist?

He sees the world through dark glasses. He just knows that he'll wind up in a job he doesn't like, that he'll be underpaid, that he'll get lost in the crowd. But realistic men know these things depend largely on their own decision in choosing a career.

Realistic men look for companies that provide sound training, advancement opportunities, challenging work, stimulating associates and good pay. These are the fundamentals that insure success and progress in a career.

The Bell Telephone Companies offer these fundamentals to hard-working, ambitious realists majoring in the arts, the sciences, business or engineering. Get the whole story regarding telephone careers. Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus. Ask him about training, advancement opportunities, salary, job security. We think you'll like what you learn.

Cats Humiliate OU With 90-45 Beating

By DON VERASKA
Collegian Sports Editor

Surpassing even its 89-58 rout of Colorado Saturday, K-State's basketball quintet moved one notch closer to a successful defense of the Big Eight title by overwhelming Oklahoma last night at Ahearn field house, 90-45.

Now 3-0 in league play, and 12-1 overall, the No. 3 nationally ranked Wildcats moved out to a 24-4 lead after 10:04 in the first half, and never allowed the cold Sooners to get within 14 points.

Oklahoma didn't score from the field for 5:04 of the game, and by that time it was 7-0, K-State. Bob Boozer scored 18 of his 28 points in the first half, as the Wildcats went to the dressing room with a 37-21 lead.

Fouled by Sonny Ballard in the opening seconds of the second half, Dennie Price sank two free throws to narrow the Cats' margin to 14 points, 37-23. But K-State reeled off 12 straight points, holding the Sooners scoreless for a period of 4:49, to virtually finish Oklahoma's hopes.

Coach Tex Winter cleared the K-State bench with 8:40 remaining, and the Cat second team continued to pour it on. The Wildcats had a 35 point lead at that time, 66-31, and on four buckets by Jim Holwerda and added help by Mickey Heinz and all the other subs, pulled away to a 47 point lead, 87-40.

K-State hit a hot 49.6 per cent on 30 of 64 field goal attempts, while the cold Sooners could only manage 13 of 57 for 22.8 per cent. The Wildcats hit 30 of 42 from the free throw line, compared to 19 of 25 for Oklahoma.

"We've reached a point of playing the way we should be playing," said Winter after the contest. "We're hustling hard and have got the opponents playing our kind of game. This game was comparable to the Colorado game, except that our ball handling was a little ragged tonight."

The Wildcat coach again lauded his reserves. Excluding "sixth regular" Ced Price, the Cat reserves scored 27 points, topped by Holwerda's nine. Bob Graham added five, Mickey Heinz scored six, Bill Guthridge hit for five, and Joe Vader hit one fielder for two points.

"We've got more depth this year than we had at the same time last year," observed Winter. "We've got a real fine second five—in fact a real fine third five too!"

"I expected us to be a little flat," said Winter, "following our big win Saturday. But it's just going to make our task tougher at Norman. All a coach has to do is remind his team what happened at Manhattan."

"In all fairness," he concluded, "they didn't hit well. But our defense probably had something to do with that."

Graduates To Enjoy Increased Salaries

Engineering and science seniors graduating on January 24 should be able to work for companies at salaries from 1 to 5 per cent higher than did last spring's graduating class, according to Dr. Chester Peters, director of the Placement Center.

In non-technical fields, companies have been interested mainly in sales and management training students.

Seniors with above-average grades have been frequently interviewed this semester. Many took off-campus interviews during the vacation, Peters said.

"Not everybody who goes on an interviewing trip brings back an offer," he added.

Many students wives have been invited to accompany their husbands on interviewing trips.

"Companies want to make sure a man will stay on the job, and they point out the advantage of their local communities," Peters said.

Final Week Is Too Late For Student Tutoring Aid

"If students wait until the last minute before recognizing that they are having trouble with a class, it is usually too late," stated Jack Robinson, General Studies assistant professor.

Robinson, who has unofficially helped many students find tutors, suggested that tutors could be of more help if they could work with the students longer.

When students wait until final week to seek help, they discover that most of the tutors are students with finals of their own and have little spare time.

At the present time, K-State does not have a central tutoring agency. Dr. Donald Hoyt, assistant director of the Counseling Center, agreed that there was a need for such an agency.

"At the present time, it is very hard for students who need help to find good tutors. It would be a help to them and also to those who want to earn a little extra money tutoring," he explained.

Dr. Hoyt added that it would also be good experience for those who plan to teach to do a little tutoring now. Most of the active tutors at K-State are students and graduate students.

"One of the first tasks in setting up a tutoring agency would be to canvass the various departments to learn who is interested and qualified for tutoring," said Dr. Chester Peters, director of the Placement Center.

Since salaries are involved, it was the opinion of both Dr. Hoyt and Dr. Peters, that the Placement Center would be the place to establish such an agency.

"We've been delayed in taking any action because of more pressing problems," Peters stated. "However, there will be action in the future on this plan."

Two Voodoo Rods Remain at Large

Two of the 12 poisonous voodoo doll stirring rods sold at the YWCA Y-Mart last November have yet to be recovered, according to W. R. Kirk, administrator of the Riley County hospital.

An earlier report had given the number of dolls sold at the Mart to be 24, but, according to members of the YWCA, only 12 were sold.

Stater Support Low At 1911 Cage Games

"AT THE GAME BETWEEN KSAC and William Jewell Monday, there was a conspicuous absence of the majority of the students of the College. Basketball is on probation this season and if it is to be continued there will have to be a greater appreciation shown or there will be no more games.

"This would be unfortunate for two reasons. First, we have an extra strong team this year and it is always an interesting game that it puts up. The game Monday night was a lively one and close enough to be most exciting. Those who stayed away missed a good game.

Second, next season we wish to make a great showing in the larger conference and on the floor of the new gymnasium. The material that is being developed this season will be the nucleus for a strong team next year and should be encouraged and coached.

"Every student should come out to the next game. Let something else suffer and show a little college patriotism by keeping alive this sport at KSAC.

"The management is losing money on every game. Will you keep them?"

Student support of the basketball team at that time was apparently at a low ebb, even worse than the present support of football.

WE CERTAINLY CAN'T COMPLAIN about the situation now. After two impressive home victories over Colorado, 89-58, and Oklahoma, 90-45, the Wildcats are in a good position to annex their conference crown in four years.

We want to congratulate the K-State fans on their enthusiasm (with the exception of many pep club girls who seemed to choose not to use the seats reserved for them). It's this kind of spirit which adds to school morale—it's the kind of spirit which had been lacking previous to basketball season.

Although many choose to ignore athletics, some even suggesting de-emphasis of athletics, the majority would have to say this would be a pretty drab place without a "cultural" outlet such as intercollegiate sports. Sputnik or no Sputnik, the scholar will never make college life as interesting as the athlete.—GEM

Kansas Legislators Pick Leaders, Lay Party Strategy Groundwork

Topeka—Republicans and Democrats of the Kansas legislature chose their leaders and laid groundwork for party strategy yesterday in preparation for the opening of the 1959 session at noon today.

The legislature will devote most of this week to organizational matters before getting down to the hard core of lawmaking next week.

Republicans in caucus named Jess Taylor of Tribune as Speaker of the House for a second two-year term and agreed to continue in the Senate with the same officers named in 1957.

The Republicans also picked Rep. T. M. (Tim) Murrell of Topeka majority floor leader and floor whip. He got 44 votes to 25 for Rep. John Bower of McLouth.

Democrats, in a caucus at the Kansan hotel, re-elected John O. Adams of Osborne as minority floor leader. They also re-elected Dale Saffels, Garden City, as assistant floor leader and party whip; Paul A. Wolf, Hugoton, caucus chairman, and E. E. Stonecipher, Pittsburg, caucus secretary.

The Democrats demanded a 45 per cent representation on major House committees and said they would take the matter to a floor fight unless it is agreed upon by Taylor. They said Taylor would not give any assurances he would allow equitable assignment to committees.

But Taylor said he plans to appoint 218 Democrats and 286 Republicans to the 486 committee posts. He called that "proportionate representation to the decimal point."

Tender Trap Fails

New York—Police said today they believed that a 43-year-old widowed mother of eight children kidnaped newborn infant Lisa Rose Chionchia in an effort to trap her boyfriend into marriage.

Ironically, authorities said, the alleged plot of the accused kidnaper, Mrs. Jean Iavarone, was designed to get back four of her children who have been placed in orphanages and foster homes because she was considered incapable of caring for them.

They theorized that Mrs. Iavarone, a stout, blonde grandmother who lived alone, had abducted the infant from a Brooklyn hospital nursery two and a half hours after her birth January 2, with the intention of telling an unidentified boyfriend it was their child. Assuming he would agree to marriage, Mrs. Iavarone believed that, with a husband and home, she would be permitted to regain custody of the four children who had been taken away from her, authorities said.

The plot failed, however, when a suspicious woman neighbor—in the 313th telephoned tip on the mystery—led police Sunday to a cluttered one-room apartment in a dilapidated Brooklyn brownstone apartment building. There, only 200 yards from the Brooklyn police headquarters, police found Mrs. Iavarone and the Chionchio baby.

Bible Revision Ready

London—A new English translation of the Protestant version of the Bible's new testament has been completed, the Oxford and Cambridge university presses announced today.

The new version, which is written in line with "native idiom and current usage" of the English language, will go on sale in two years.

Meantime, none of the streamlined passages of the new Bible will be released until the 1961 publication date. A spokesman explained that if any were released now, "we would just be swamped with letters of criticism."

The new Bible is a revision of the revised version of the King James authorized version used by Protestant groups, but not accepted by Roman Catholics.

Reds May Release Pilot

Washington—State department officials said today there were indications Soviet authorities soon would release an American flier held in East Germany since December 3.

At the same time, the U.S. officials promised to continue to press for information on 11 other American airmen who have been missing in Russia since September 2.

The officials said they expected the release in "the reasonably near future" of Lt. Richard Mackin, who parachuted into East Germany after he became lost and his liaison plane ran out of fuel.

A series of U.S. protests to Russian authorities in East Germany have failed so far to secure his release. The Russians contended the matter was out of their control and that American officials must negotiate with East German authorities.

Graham Enters Mayo's

Minneapolis—Evangelist Billy Graham, "urgently encouraged" to have his eye ailment treated as quickly as possible, enters Mayo clinic today in nearby Rochester, Minn.

Graham abruptly cancelled a speech in Dallas, Texas, yesterday in order to fly to Minneapolis where he spent the night at the Curtis hotel.

Graham is suffering from ailment that has caused blurring of vision in the left eye and severe headaches. The condition was described as a swelling of the retina resulting from "excessive work and stress."

In a brief airport press conference in Minneapolis, both Graham and Grady Wilson, his travel manager, admitted they were weary.

"Dr. Graham's condition is the result of mental strain over a period of not only weeks but several years," Wilson. "Dr. Graham said he will do whatever the doctors tell him."

Top Teams Retain Positions In UPI Weekly Cage Ratings

By UPI

Kentucky, North Carolina State, and Kansas State remained 1-2-3 today in United Press International's college basketball ratings but only 27 points separated the three top teams.

The Kentucky Wildcats, 12-1, held the No. 1 spot but lost ground in the ratings in the wake of their first defeat of the season, a 75-66 loss to Vanderbilt. The Wildcats received 13 first-place votes and a total of 296 points.

North Carolina State, 11-1, was only nine points behind with five first-place votes and 287 points. Kansas State, 11-1, was third with 12 first-place votes and 269 points.

North Carolina, 9-1, remained fourth with four first-place votes and 236 points to give the South three of the first four berths in the ratings for the second straight week.

Cincinnati, 8-2, advanced from sixth to fifth with 175 points after handing Bradley its first defeat of the season in a double-overtime game. Michigan State, also 8-2, slipped from fifth to sixth after bowing to Iowa. Auburn, 10-0 this season and victorious in its last 21 starts, advanced from ninth to seventh with a first-place vote and 183 points.

Bradley, 9-1, was eighth with 73 points, Northwestern, 9-2, was ninth with 61 and St. John's (N.Y.) remained 10th with a 10-1 record and 56 points. Northwestern was the other team in the

IS STUDYING NECESSARY?

Once there were three roommates and their names were Walter Pellucid, Casimir Fing, and LeRoy Holocaust and they were all taking English lit. They were all happy, friendly, outgoing types and they all smoked Philip Morris Cigarettes as you would expect from such a gregarious trio, for Philip Morris is the very essence of sociability, the very spirit of amity, the very soul of concord, with its tobacco so mild and true, its packs so soft and flip-top, its length so regular or long size. You will find when you smoke Philip Morris that the birds sing for you and no man's hand is raised against you.

Each night after dinner Walter and Casimir and LeRoy went to their room and studied English lit. For three hours they sat in sombre silence and pored over their books and then, squinty and spent, they toppled onto their pallets and sobbed themselves to sleep.

This joyless situation obtained all through September and October. Then one November night they were all simultaneously struck by a marvelous idea. "We are all studying the same thing," they cried. "Why, then, should each of us study for three hours? Why not each study for one hour? It is true we will only learn one-third as much that way, but it does not matter because there are three of us and next January before the exams, we can get together and pool our knowledge!"

Oh, what rapture then fell on Walter and Casimir and LeRoy! They flung their beanies into the air and danced a schottische and lit thirty or forty Philip Morris and ran out to pursue the pleasure which had so long, so bitterly, been missing from their lives.

Alas, they found instead a series of grisly misfortunes. Walter, alas, went searching for love and was soon going steady with a coed named Invicta Breadstuff, a handsome lass, but, alas, hopelessly addicted to bowling. Each night she bowled five hundred lines, some nights a thousand. Poor Walter's thumb was a shambles and his purse was empty, but Invicta just kept on bowling and in the end, alas, she left Walter for a pin-setter, which was a terrible thing to do to Walter, especially in this case, because the pin-setter was automatic.

Walter, of course, was far too distraught to study his English lit, but he took some comfort from the fact that his roommates were studying and they would help him before the exams. But Walter, alas, was wrong. His roommates, Casimir and LeRoy, were nature lovers and they used their free time to go for long tramps in the woods. One November night, alas, they were treed by two bears, Casimir by a brown bear and LeRoy by a Kodiak, and they were kept in the trees until mid-January when winter set in and the brown bear and the Kodiak went away to hibernate.

"The effects were, on the whole, beneficial..."

So when the three roommates met before exams to pool their knowledge, they found they had none to pool! Well sir, they had a good long laugh about that and then rushed to the kitchen and stuck their heads in the oven. It was, however, an electric oven and the effects were, on the whole, beneficial. The wax in their ears got melted and they acquired a healthy tan and today they are married to a lovely young heiress named Ganglia Bran and live in the Canal Zone, where there are many nice boats to wave at.

"K-State played a great ball game," commented Sooner Coach Doyle Parrack. "I thought this was a better ball club than the one that beat us last year. It's as good looking a team as I've seen."

"We were out-shot, out-defensed, out-hustled, and out-ball-handled tonight," he said. "And that's the story."

"I believe it's the worst beating I've ever had," he added.

Kentucky, Cincy Rally for Wins

By UPI

Kentucky and Cincinnati are still riding high today but only after late rallies on foreign courts.

First-ranked Kentucky rallied from a six-point deficit at the half to score its 597th victory under Coach Adolph Rupp, 85-68, over Tulane at New Orleans last night, while fifth-ranked Cincinnati overcome a five-point margin at halftime to beat North Texas State, 64-56, at Denton, Tex.

Kentucky's victory enabled the Wildcats to go into a three-way tie for second place in the Southeastern conference, and Cincinnati's win kept the Bearcats in first place in the Missouri Valley conference.

Eighth-ranked Bradley defeated Houston, 60-50, while victories by Illinois, Indiana and Michigan threw the Big Ten race into a three-way tie for first place.

Cincinnati, trailing by as much as 11 points, staged a full-court press that tied North Texas State, 49-49, at the end of regulation time and then outscored the Eagles, 15-7, in the overtime. Oscar Robertson had 28 points on seven field goals and 14 free throws, and Ralph Davis added 19 points for Cincinnati.

In Big Eight action, Kansas downed Iowa State, 69-48, Nebraska topped Missouri, 81-69, and Colorado whipped Oklahoma State, 65-42.

New One-Credit Courses To Be Offered in Spring

Students may earn an hour's credit in two new courses being offered next semester. The one-hour courses are tutorials, offered by the philosophy staff, and Music Appreciation, offered over radio for the first time.

The three one-hour philosophy tutorials will be limited in size to eight students each and will meet by appointment. Students desiring to participate in this program should enroll in Problems in Philosophy, line number 1149, and also check with the secretary of the History, Government, and Philosophy department as soon as possible.

Subjects for the classes include matters of interest which cannot be adequately covered in present courses and cannot now be offered in full courses of their own.

Choices next semester: either Kierkegaard's existentialism or Wittgenstein's Blue Books; either causality and the uncertainty principle or Veblen's theory of the leisure class; and Marxism as a philosophy, which has been designated an honors section. In the first two cases, the alternative with the greater enrollment will be taught.

Music Appreciation will be the first course ever offered by Kansas State over radio for credit, although the College has occasionally offered courses and given certificates of completion to those taking part. The course is equivalent to the regular campus course required of humanities students.

Broadcast over station KSAC from 1:15 to 2 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, the course will be offered through the Home Study bureau for extension credit. The regular fee of $8 a credit hour will be charged.

Purpose of this course is to acquaint the listener with composers and their styles, "Listening to Music Creatively," is the text, and more than 100 compositions will be presented during the 16-week course.

24 Couples Will Occupy Jardine Units

Twenty-four married students and their families will be able to move into the completed apartment building in Jardine Terrace February 1, according to A. Thornton Edwards, housing director.

The building contains eight two-bedroom apartments which rent for $67.50 a month, and 16 one-bedroom apartments that rent for $62.50 a month.

The apartments are completely furnished and are done in six different color schemes. Furniture includes all kitchen facilities except cooking utensils and dishes, living room furniture of chairs, lamps, a divan, end tables, and coffee-tables, and complete bedroom facilities.

Families have to furnish linens, dishes, and telephones if they desire.

Finishing touches are being put on the building but progress has been slowed by the recent snow.

Appointments for the apartments have already been made, but Edwards said not all of the appointees have signed to take their apartments. If these students do not accept them, the apartments will go to students at the top of the waiting list.

With completion of the building, only seven buildings are left for construction in the project. All of the units are to be in use by July, 1959. When finished, Jardine will have 19 buildings and accommodations for 456 families.

Applications are now being taken in the housing office for apartments in the rest of the buildings now under construction.

Lassman Elected New IFC Leader

Members of Interfraternity council elected Gary Lassman, EE Jr, president for the spring semester at their meeting last night. Lassman is a member of Beta Sigma Psi fraternity.

Lassman said that he hopes to be able to make the fraternity system here at K-State stronger. "We intend to do this by promoting scholarship, serving the college in the best ways we can and continuing our responsibility to the community as well as all the fraternities," he said.

Interpretive Reading Class To Stage 'Blood Wedding'

"Blood Wedding," by Garcia Lorca, will be presented by the interpretive reading class tonight at 7:30 in the Student Union, according to Carolyn Hunt, instructor of speech.

The play opens as Anita Grimm, speech instructor, prepares for her wedding to Bill Hiett, Sp Sr, bridegroom. Leonardo, the bride's former sweetheart, played by John Sticklen, Sp Gr, arrives at the wedding and he and the bride run away together.

The two families go after the couple in search and the sweetheart and bridegroom are both killed. This leaves the women alone to mourn the loss of the men.

Women are often the tragic figures in Lorca's plays.

The play will be read from scripts and there will be partial staging. The characters will be costumed.

36-Year-Old Is To Head Psych Dep't

Dr. William Bevan, a member of Georgia's Emory university staff for the past ten years, has been named to succeed Dr. A. H. Brayfield as head of the Psychology department.

Dr. Brayfield resigned last July to become head of Department of Psychology at Pennsylvania State university.

An industrial psychologist and scientific consultant, Dr. Bevan's primary fields of interest are perception and physiological psychology. He received his AB degree in psychology from Franklin and Marshall college, Lancaster, Pa., and his AM and PhD degrees from Duke university.

The 36-year-old psychologist worked on a frangible bullet project at Duke in 1944, and was a researcher for the Army.

K-Staters To Register At Animal Industries

Enrollment for next semester will take place in the Animal Industries building, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions.

Enrollment will begin at 7:30 a.m. on January 29 for seniors and juniors going to professional schools. Juniors, sophomores, second semester freshmen, special students, and grad students may enroll starting at 10:55.

Gerritz said there would be ample parking for anyone wanting to drive his car to the enrollment area. Students will enter the building at the southeast door.

The mid-semester enrollment took place in Nichols gymnasium a year ago, but Gerritz said there would not be sufficient room there this year.

Ahearn fieldhouse, which was used for enrollment last fall, is unavailable because of the basketball floor and the bleachers. The enrollment would also conflict with a high school track meet scheduled to be in the Field House.

"MR. STAFF seems to be teaching lots of courses this semester," Elaine Smith, TJ Fr, seems to be saying. She is checking the list of instructors for courses offered next semester which is located just south of the information desk in the Student Union.

UCLA Coeds' Raid Ends Sans Shirts

By Jane Butel

A LARGE GROUP of UCLA coeds staged an unsuccessful raid on the fraternities of Southern Cal recently, as part of an initiation stunt sponsored by the Trolls, a UCLA women's organization. The ruckus started when the Trolls began parading up fraternity row, blowing horns, and shouting at 6 a.m. The fun was short-lived as the awakened fraternity men poured out of their various houses armed with water buckets, garden hoses, poster paint, and other materials on hand. By this time the girls realized they were in a tight spot. Both ends of the street were blocked by males, armed to the teeth. The girls made a last minute rush of the fraternities, trying to steal paddles, trophies, and other furnishings that could be quickly lifted. They met defeat there too, losing a few of their sweatshirts in the process.

THE ARKANSAS TRAVELER is conducting a questionnaire to study alleged abuse of students caught in speed traps. The questionnaire was run at the request of a father of two students, who is starting a campaign to eliminate the practice. His letter read, in part:

"It is a known fact that University students, as well as others, have been subjected to the abuse of authority by county officials in Pope, Johnson, and Franklin counties. . . . It seems they know that the students can't insist on a jury trial because of their inability to return, due to classes. They probably feel they will pay off, as many have in the past, and won't offer any objections by virtue of this. And, many wouldn't want their parents to know."

AT TEMPLE UNIVERSITY, Philadelphia, the girls of Peabody hall are facing an unpopular school rule. The rule, "No kissing allowed in the dormitory, on its veranda or steps, or even within sight of Papa Dorm Guard," leaves the girls with little else to do but shake hands at the end of a date. Rules of this sort had been unsuccessfully invoked at a few of the sororities, but they never withstood the test of time.

A MARRIED ENGINEERING student at Oregon State college recently had something like five finals scheduled for two days. His wife was expecting a baby on one of his examination days. Wonder how he survived? He may not be passing out cigars for his good grades, but he'll probably be happy its all over and done.

THE DAILY TEXAN at the University of Texas recently ran a front page story on the banning of girlie, sex, and expose magazines in Austin by a committee of local men and school officials.

Twenty-five magazines were removed from the newsstands December 31.

The story quoted a local minister as saying "one group of people is attempting to impose its taste upon the rest of the community, not by competition or education, but by suppression of the unwanted point of view."

An editorial in the same Texan said the act was a dangerous threat to taken-for-granted freedom. "When a group of town fathers can take the law into their own hands and make value judgments and enforce 'the law' as they see it for an entire community, we believe it's time to call 'halt' and investigate the circumstances."

"There is such a thing, we would hope, in a 'free' community, as due process of law and due concern for the rights of other people in the community."

The editorial continues, "We condemn your hasty and disrespectful (of other people's rights) actions."

"And we wonder if you can change the reading habits of American maledom with one PTA 'action committee'."

Cuban Rebels Halt Speedy Trials, Defend Killings on Religious Basis

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Havana—The revolutionary Cuban government announced today it was only interrupting—and not ending—the wave of executions of Batista men accused of murdering up to 20,000 rebel sympathizers during the past six years.

In an apparent bow to public criticism abroad the Presidential palace announced the government would halt mass trials and executions until new regulations are fully circulated to the rebel courts. It invited full press coverage when the trials are resumed.

The Cuban people appeared fully in agreement with the revolutionary justice that has taken more than 200 lives. Rebel leader Fidel Castro and Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte issued statements defending rebel action thus far.

The palace source did not say whether future trials would be conducted by rebel officers and militia as in the past. There has been talk that government officials would prefer restoration of civilian courts for further trials.

Agramonte defended the executions and said the executions by firing squads were carried out only when persons were found guilty by a military tribunal and condemned to death. He said such deaths were far more humane than the barbaric treatment accorded revolutionary soldiers captured by Batista men.

He described Cuba as a traditionally Catholic country and said execution by firing squad in the eyes of the Roman Catholic church is not un-Christian or against moral law providing the guilty persons have been allowed to confront their accusers.

Reds Need Industry

Tokyo—Red China's financial and trade organizations have been ordered to step up their efforts to get more consumer goods to the mainland's 650 million persons.

The new China News agency has reported that Communist party workers at a recent National conference were told "to strive with revolutionary enthusiasm" for a greater turn-over in commodities and more commodity production to meet peoples needs.

They were called on to encourage light industry and to promote a more diversified economy in the peoples communes, the rural labor camps that have now absorbed 99 per cent of China's more than 500 million peasants.

Insurance Rates Rise

Topeka—Automobile insurance—both liability and collision and comprehensive—was selling in Kansas at a considerably higher rate today than yesterday.

The cost of liability rose by a statewide average of 17.8 per cent at midnight, and collision and comprehensive rates increased by an average of 7.54 per cent.

State Insurance Commissioner Frank Sullivan had more bad news for owners of the 1959 dream design cars. The wrap-around windshields on those models, valued in excess of $100 a pane, will be subect to an additional charge of from $1 to $3 for comprehensive coverage.

Sullivan said three factors forced the rates up this year: spiraling claim costs, higher medical costs in accident cases, and higher repair bills due to elaborate modern design features.

Prince 'Buys' Bride

Tokyo—Crown Prince Akihto became officially engaged today when he bought his commoner bride for two fish, six bottles of wine and five rolls of white silk.

Chief Chamberlain Kikuo Suzuki, the Prince's emissary, performed the ancient Japanese rite, by presenting gifts to 24-year-old Michiko Shoda at her home. She wore a traditional formal kimono and was attended by her mother and father, a flour mill executive.

The fish, two Tai red snappers, were symbols of good luck and happiness. The sake rice wine also represented future happiness, while the white silk symbolized virginity.

AF Orders Space Probe

Washington—The Air Force has ordered a multi-million dollar development project aimed at rocket penetrations deep into space, probably as far as Mars and Venus.

This was disclosed today with the announcement that Convair Astronautics division of General Dynamics corp. had received a contract to develop an "upper stage" for a modified Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile.

The Atlas has been fired 6,300 miles over the Atlantic test range from Cape Canaveral, and one of the big missiles was put into orbit around the earth on December 18. It is still circling the globe but is expected to burn up in the atmosphere soon.

Convair announced that its new contract called for a seven-million-dollar outlay in the first year but did not reveal the total expected expenditure.

Pep Club's Poor Attendance At BB Games Apalling

Dear Editor,
Kansas State's fiery Purple Pepsters and Whipurs really came out in force for Monday's basketball game with Oklahoma. I hope they don't think they went overboard in their enthusiasm for the team. The pep clubs have a reserved section roped off in the middle of the sideline seats and they failed to fill even the first three rows.

Maybe the members in the two clubs should be forgiven, though, because they were not required to attend since the game did infringe upon the rights of dead week.

Officials finally opened the pep club section when they noticed the greater percentage of the K-State coeds had elected to stay at home and continue with their studies. It was discovered that from K-State's Panhel scholarship winners, there was a total representation of no less than nine at the game. The membership of this noble group is 58 which has seven members in the Purple Pepsters. None of the seven members attended the game. When they were required to attend Saturday's game with Colorado, not one of them missed it.

I only hope the pep club's burning enthusiasm will not flame out, and they will be able to work some of next semester's contests into their cramped study schedule. Sincerely,

Terry Knowles, TJ Soph.

Kentucky Slips in Cage Poll

Once-beaten North Carolina State took over the No. 1 position in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll, replacing the Kentucky Wildcats, who had held the position for three consecutive weeks.

North Carolina State, beaten only by K-State at Manhattan, December 19, scored 48 first place votes compared to Kentucky's 35. The Wolfpack had a total of 1087 points, shading the defending NCAA champions' 1035.

K-State's Wildcats, No. 4, won decisive victories over Colorado and Oklahoma in the last four days, defeating the Buffs, 89-58, and the Sooners, 90-45. The Cats' only loss was a 77-68 decision to Brigham Young, December 15 at Provo.

The Cats are only nine points behind third place North Carolina, which has 813 points.

Kentucky had won 11 straight, but dropped a 75-66 decision to Vanderbilt last week, which was enough to knock the Wildcats out of first place.

North Carolina State won the Dixie Classic in December, then won over Virginia and Duke last week, to bring its record to 11-1.

Auburn, the only undefeated major team, is No. 5 with 11 victories and 774 points, and 14 first place votes. Cincinnati, the leader until it was knocked off in the Dixie Classic by both North Carolina and North Carolina State, is No. 6 with 685 points, followed by Bradley, 332; Michigan State, 344; St. John's, 205; and West Virginia, 181.

The UPI top ten teams through Saturday, January 10.

1. N. Carolina St. (48) (11-1) ..	1,087
2. Kentucky (35) (12-1) ..	1,035
3. North Carolina (4) (9-1) ..	813
4. Kansas State (13) (11-1) ..	804
5. Auburn (14) (10-0) ..	774
6. Cincinnati (4) (8-2) ..	685
7. Bradley (2) (9-1) ..	332
8. Michigan State (8-2) ..	344
9. St. John's (N.Y.) (10-1) ..	205
10. West Virginia (2) (12-3) ..	181

The second ten: Northwestern, 181; Mississippi State (2), 125; Marquette (1), 87; St. Bonaventure (4), 77; St. Louis (1), 57; Seattle, 38; Oklahoma City, 37; Portland, 31; Indiana, 28; California, 21.

Cat Matmen Drop Three

Coach Fritz Knorr's wrestling squad lost three matches on a four-game road trip over the weekend.

The Cats were defeated 21-9 by Mankato State Friday, 19-8 by Minnesota university Saturday, and 19-9 by Cornell college.

Wildcat Gymnastic Team To Host Meet Friday

K-State's gymnastics team, with a victory over Kansas university, 77-27, meets Nebraska university and Colorado State in a triangular meet here Friday at 8 p.m.

Leading the Wildcats will be Richard Rood, who scored 19 points against KU and team captain Ivan Loomis who took first place in three events for 18 points against the Jayhawks.

They will be backed up by other scorers from the KU meet: Domokus Hajdo, parallel bars; David Cudney, free exercise; Don Krasko, hi-bar; Roger Pine, rings; Dale Patterson, tumbling; and Ron Leslie, side horse.

Nebraska, called an "excellent" team by Thompson, has nearly the same team which last year won the All-College meet. Nebraska's top men are expected to be Charles Ellis, Phillip Hall, and side horse specialist Karl Byers, "one of the best in the nation in this event," according to Thompson.

The K-State coach expects the Colorado State team to be close to K-State in ability and says the second place team in Friday's meet will probably be determined by the amount of depth on hand by K-State or Colorado State.

Pat Naughton Resigns

K-State line coach Pat Naughton announced his resignation today, effective immediately. He said that he will take a post as line coach at Marquette university in Milwaukee under head coach Lyle Blackburn, formerly of the Green Bay Packers.

Naughton, who had been at K-State four seasons, said, "Going to Marquette is like going home for me, since it is in the Great Lakes area that I have had so much of my experience in football. I have enjoyed and deeply appreciated my association with Kansas State."

Naughton graduated from DePaul university in Chicago, and coached for three years in high school and one year at Detroit university before coming to K-State.

Vienna Pianist Will Play Tonight in Artist Series

Badura-Skoda

Paul Badura-Skoda, Viennese pianist who will appear in the Manhattan Artist Series in the College auditorium at 8:15 p.m. today, once intended to become an engineer.

Although he began the study of piano at six, neither he nor his parents expected him to become a virtuoso. When, at 16, he heard the Austrian pianist, Edwin Fischer, this man's genius moved him to abandon engineering for the study of piano.

For three years, he studied at the Vienna Conservatory of Music. He made his debut in 1947 with the Vienna Symphony orchestra, playing Liszt's E Flat Concerto.

At his U.S. debut in 1953 in New York's Town Hall, he played to a capacity audience. He has played with leading symphony orchestras in this country.

Badura-Skoda and fellow Viennese pianist Joerg Demus are the subjects of an article in the latest Time magazine. They have mastered the technique of four-handed piano playing—sitting on separate benches at the same piano.

Besides his concert appearances and a series of recordings, Badura-Skoda is co-author with his wife of a book on Mozart interpretations.

Single admission tickets for students are $1. They are now available at the music office and the Union information desk, and tickets will be sold at the door.

The Student Governing association is co-sponsor of the series.

West Stadium Lodging Open

Several vacancies will be open in West Stadium hall for next semester, according to A. Thornton Edwards, housing director. Rooms are being made vacant by mid-semester graduations.

West Stadium has been recently remodeled inside with new furniture placed in all the rooms. A large recreation lounge has been added with television, record player, books, and magazines available.

Edwards urges all male students interested in rooms in the dormitory to apply at the housing office immediately.

Dead Week's Still Kicking; Some Profs Don't Give Up

By ALICE HASTINGS

Dead Week is a life-saver, but it doesn't come often enough and it isn't dead enough. This was the opinion of a number of upperclassmen interviewed at random this week.

And it isn't the organized houses that are keeping life in Dead Week, according to all reports. It is the professors who want to get in just one more test before the final.

Intercollegiate sports take their toll of time and help to keep rigor mortis from setting in during Dead Week, too.

"These last minute tests just wreck havoc with Dead Week," says Connie Morgan, EEd Jr. She would like to have a couple of Dead Weeks during the semester too.

Bob Bennett, ME Jr, would certainly appreciate a Dead Week clear of tests. In fact, since he works all of his spare hours to support his family, he would like to have a few days free of classes before final week sets in.

A majority of those interviewed would like additional Dead Weeks or free days before finals. "It's a good idea," says Gary Delforge, PEM Jr, "and I would be willing to sacrifice some between-semester time, or even Christmas vacation, to have a few days completely free for study before finals."

Not everyone agrees that Dead Weeks are needed. "One Dead Week is enough," says Linda Paulson, TxC Sr, "A college student should be grown up enough to budget his own time during the semester."

Paul Faidley, AEd Sr, favors one Dead Week. He feels that tests should be given as often as they are needed during the semester. "The fellows at the house are 'dead in earnest' about studying this week," he commented.

"Dead Week might lose its effectiveness if we had more than one," says Forrest White,

SEd Jr, "Sports events ought to be kept out of the week."

Everyone agreed that halting extra-curricular activities before finals is a good thing. Several mentioned the psychological effect as an important factor in making people "buckle down." Most believed that grade-averages will be higher as a result of the time for review.

"Even though you study consistently, there's a lot to review at the end," says Sandy Brookover, Sp Jr. "At our house, girls are isolating themselves in the dining room, in the laundry, or in a corner of a stairway. People are studying until 2 or 3 a.m. Hi-fis are turned low, and everybody is working hard." Sandy would like three or four days free of classes.

Comparing this to other Dead Weeks, Roberta Wray, SEd Sr, says, "There used to be some meetings during the week. This is the deadest Dead Week I have experienced."

6,750 KS Students Had a Busy Semester

By MARTHA STEPS

A glance over the past semester proves that K-Staters have not spent all of their time studying. In fact, they did quite a few other things.

September

Enrollment reached approximately 6,750. More coeds and fewer men were enrolled than in 1957. However, the ratio still remained about 3 1/2 men for each woman.

The number of students pledging sororities and fraternities reached an all-time high. Of 323 women attending rush week, 252 pledged. Fraternities claimed 399 out of 465 rushees.

The first scholarship house opened with housing for 43 men. By doing their own housework, the men expect to save between $300 and $400 a year.

Grade scales changed to the 4-point system, and all past grades were raised a point. Under the new system, A equals 4, B equals 3, C equals 2, and D equals 1. This was designed to do away with minus points for failures.

Mel Eaton, EEd Sr, was crowned "Miss Football" in Berkeley, California. Girls representing 12 southern, western, and midwestern colleges competed for the title. Mel reigned over a two-day festival before returning home.

Football tickets cost extra for the first time. Students complained a little, but most paid the $5. K-State won its opening game from Wyoming, 17-14 but was defeated by Colorado 13-3.

An active Flashcard committee organized special displays which were presented at each of the home games. K-State is the second school in the Big Eight to sponsor flashcard sections.

Cut privileges were awarded to 223 juniors.

The hula hoop craze came and left swiftly.

Touchdown IV had died and was replaced by a younger and more active Wildcat mascot, Touchdown V.

Jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald and the Oscar Peterson trio presented a concert in the Animal Industries pavilion.

October

Mrs. and Mrs. John H. Nation, Great Bend, parents of Nancy Nation, EEd Fr, were named K-State's honorary parents. They were presented to the school on Parents' day. K-State lost this one to Utah State 20-13.

Brenda Morgan, HE Soph, Pi Beta Phi, followed the family tradition and was crowned Barn-warmer queen like her sister and mother. Her attendants were Brenda Miller, TxC Fr, Southeast hall; Karen Kelso, HEN Soph, Alpha Delta Pi; Kay Slade, EEd Soph, Alpha Chi Omega; and Jaunita Wille, EEd Soph, Delta Delta Delta.

Sophomore honors were awarded to 77.

The Royal Purple received its 23rd straight All-American rating. Marcia Boyd, TJ Sr, was the editor.

The football team beat Nebraska 23-6 for K-State's second win of the season.

Angel Flight added 13 new members.

The Greeks threatened to boycott Homecoming if not given time during the half to present trophies for the winning house decorations. The Games and Rallies committee finally compromised with IFC and Panhellenic by announcing the winners during the half, although the trophies were presented before the game.

Kaydene Dashen, EEd Sr, Chi Omega, was elected Homecoming queen. The winner was announced a week before the game at a special ceremony rather than at the half of the game. Attendants were Barbara Howard, EEd Soph, Delta Delta Delta; Barbara Huff, Gvt Jr, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Connie Morgan, EEd Jr; Pi Beta Phi; and Bea Purcell, BA Sr, Alpha Delta Pi.

Advertising slogans were used as the theme for decorations. In the sorority division, Kappa Delta won first place with "How Are We Fixed for Blades?" Second place went to Gamma Phi Beta, and Delta Delta Delta captured third place.

First place in the fraternity division was awarded to Delta Tau Delta who used "Breakfast Champions." Beta Sigma Psi was awarded second place, while third place went to Phi Kappa.

However, it was later discovered that the Deltas had used stolen lumber, and they lost their trophy. The Beta Sigs then received first; Phi Kappa, second; and Pi Kappa Alpha, third.

Tuttle Creek Area To Unsettle Staters

IN COLLEGE LIFE there is often conflict between student rights and administrative authority. Although there have been no really major issues this semester, it might be good to discuss the conflict and its role in K-State's future.

From the administration's point of view, college students are not mature enough to be trusted with privileges of adulthood. Parents send their children to college with the intention of having them "wet nursed"—for the first year or two, at least. During their "restrictive" college days, people are expected to mature.

Students register some protest, but for the most part these restrictions are accepted as "the way things are done here." K-State just isn't recognized as a party school.

HOWEVER, IN A FEW YEARS much students activity will be centered around the Tuttle Creek recreation area. This "temptation" will attract many students. More than likely K-State's extracurricular activities will become so popular the rules governing students will have to be revised—perhaps radically. If they are not, trouble will arise.

No longer will a watchful administrative eye be able to control social functions; no longer will coeds be satisfied with the present closing hours; no longer will the rules on drinking be tolerated. What then?

Parents are either going to have to speed up their home "nursery programs" or hope fate will take care of their children at ol' K-State.—GEM

Trials and Tribulations of Night Before Finals Observed by Poet in Surprisingly Tragic Epic

By MARGE PENROD

(With apologies to the author of 'Twas the Night Before Christmas and the public in general.)

'Twas the NIGHT BEFORE FINALS and all through the house,

Not a student was stirring not even a mouse.
The books were piled high on the desks with care,
In hopes that some knowledge could be gained there.
The seniors were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sheepskins danced in their heads.
Mamma, with her red pencil, and I with a blue one,
Had just settled down to ruining their fun. (grading exams.)

When what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a group of underclassmen realizing finals were near.

With little old gestures so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment they couldn't have had too much to drink.

Then, more rapid than eagles the exams they came,
The instructors shouted and caled them by name:

"Now, econ! Now, civics!
Now, p. world and history!
Then, English! Then, logic!
Then, calc and then chem!

TAKE A PEN, EXAM BLANK, questions, and all.
Now, write away! Write away! Write away, all!"

AS I PUT DOWN MY WORK and was turning around,

In the door came Joe College with a bound.
He was dressed in Ivy Leagues from his head to his foot,

And his clothes were all tarnished from ashes and soot.

A bundle of books he had flung on his back,
He looked like a peddler just opening his pack.
His forehead—how it wrinkled!
His eyes—how bleary!
But his cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry.

His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow;
The hair on his head had turned white as the snow.
The butt of a cigarette he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke it encircled his head like a wreath.
He was worried and scared and had made a wreck of himself.

He took a look at the test, and with a nod of his head

He gave me to know he had nothing to dread.

HE SPOKE NOT A WORD but went straight to his work,

And filled all the blanks; then stood up with a jerk.
It was over and done; he'd given his best,
Then he turned his paper in with the rest.

He sprang to his Thunderbird, gave the motor the gun,

And away he flew—the battle was won.
But I heard him exclaim as he drove out of sight,
"Good luck to all and to all a good night!"

Finals Slated for Near Future, Drink, Sleep, Relax to Prepare

By JOHN SHIRLEY

"HOW DOES YOUR FINAL schedule work out?" says Harry to his roommate Jake.

"Well," moans Jake, "unless they change things, I've got a test every day but one, and on Tuesday there's two. At 8 a.m. and 1 p.m."

"Rough," counters Harry. "I've got two tests right in a row Wednesday."

"Wow, I guess we better start studying for 'em, huh Harry?"

"Yeah, I guess we ought to. But when you think about it, that would make a good project for this week end."

"Yeah, I think I'll do that. Right after I have a beer or so down in Aggieville Friday night. A few beers always make me think better, you know what I mean Harry?"

"Well, why don't you take your books down there, Jake, and read 'em while you breathe foam?"

"NAH. THE LIGHT'S TOO BAD. And on top of that, somebody would think I was nutty if I did."

"Yeah, I guess you're right, Jake."

"I tried that last year, Harry, remember? The flashing lights on the bowling machine made me jumpy. I couldn't concentrate. And I kept missing my turn."

"What time is it getting to be?"

"Almost 10 p.m."

"I guess I'll hit the rack. I've got an 11 a.m. class tomorrow. I've got to get a lot of sleep so I'll be ready for the finals next week."

"Yeah, me too. Night, Harry."

"Good night, Jake."

Retirement Plan Should Be Same For Faculty, All Others—Docking

By UPI

Topeka—Gov. George Docking today handed a joint session of the Kansas legislature a broad program calling for a retirement plan for public workers, home rule for cities an reapportionment of the legislature. He hit 19 subjects in 20 minutes, with no mention of taxes.

He said, "I recommend that this legislature enact a sound retirement plan for all public employees. Public employees, both on the state and local level, should be a part of one retirement system and we should avoid the creating of class legislation through segregating the various state employees into groups."

The Governor indicated faculty members at the state-supported colleges should come under the plan, not be separated. He suggested a plan drafted by the League of Municipalities be followed.

Ike Irks Democrats

Washington—Some high-ranking congressional Democrats were irked at President Eisenhower today for raising hopes of tax relief "in the foreseeable future" even though the Treasury is running its biggest peacetime deficit.

Key Democrats were irritated because they believe there is no real prospect for balancing the budget for the next fiscal year, which starts July 1. Moreover, at this point they can see little real hope for general tax relief next year.

Army To Shoot Moon

New York—The Army disclosed today that it expects "shortly" to launch its second moon rocket.

The Army's first lunar probe was launched last December 6 and traveled about 66,000 miles into space before falling back and burning in the atmosphere.

The Army passed up the last favorable time for a moon rocket launching at the start of this month and presumably also will let the next favorable time go by. That would be at the end of this month.

of Missouri display, last night, turned up in the last pew of a church here.

The valuable painting, owned by the Hallmark company, was lifted Sunday from a display at the MU Student Union. University officials didn't admit until yesterday that it was gone.

Last night an anonymous caller told a University official where he could find the painting, adding "it's not such a hot painting and not worth that much money."

An art dealer in Kansas City said the top price on Utrillo painting was about $17,000, but added the painting in question, "Noel-Montmartre," probably has a special value as Utrillo's last work. The water color was insured for $2,500.

Parlay Pusher Fined

Football parlay card racketeers in Wichita have been prosecuted, sentenced, and then paroled, according to yesterday's Wichita Eagle.

"Lem J. Hodges, 48, Maize, who was arrested in November in connection with football parlay betting, was fined $100 and paroled Tuesday after he pleaded guilty in Wichita police court to a gambling charge.

"Hodges was paroled for one year by Judge L. A. Watson upon payment of $25 and court costs.

Hodges was the second of five men arrested November 11 to appear in Police Court on gambling charges. Two others are scheduled for hearings in police court.

"Four of the five men were charged in city complaints with the misdemeanor charge. Brantley Hodges, 43, Lem's brother, was charged in a state warrant with gambling. He was fined and paroled."

"MASTERFULLY WRITTEN PROFESSOR SNARF—IT'S SELDOM MY PLEASURE TO SEE A TEST WITH SO MANY AMBIGUOUS QUESTIONS"

Nigerian Senior To Receive His Fourth Degree

By ALICE HASTINGS

A question often put to Elijah Odakara, ChE graduating senior from Nigeria is "But what do you intend to do when you get back home?" From the specialist-acclimated American this is a fair question.

Odakara is gracious but patiently weary of explaining. "You must understand," he says, "that whereas your country is a full-grown tree with fruit in its branches, my country is a tree that has just begun to grow. I need many kinds of knowledge—all the knowledge I can get."

The degree he will receive here in a few days will be his fourth field of study since he came to the United States in 1952.

He has a bachelor of science degree in chemistry from McPherson college, a bachelor of law degree through summer study at the Chicago School of Law, and a doctor of theology degree from St. Andrew's university college in London. The theology degree was granted for courses in religion, publications, and a thesis on "The Approach of Christian Ethics in World Religions."

He is the author of two books, one of which is approved for use in the schools of Nigeria.

February 1, he will enter another field as he begins a year's study of medical technology at the University of Kansas.

Mrs. Odakara shares her husband's earnest desire for knowledge and experience to take back to their country. The young couple had been friends since high school and were engaged to be married when Odakara came to the U.S.

It was agreed when the bride-to-be came to this country in the fall of 1957 that she should study American life by living for three months in an American home in Seattle.

Having studied home economics and nursing in a Methodist college in Nigeria, she was able to work as a nurse in a large hospital there.

Since coming to Manhattan, she has worked at Riley county hospital. Recently, she returned to work following the birth of a son November 10.

"I am learning a great deal about hospital methods in this country," she says, "It will be useful to me when I return home."

Another absorbing interest Mrs. Odakara is pursuing in the couple's trim Jardine terrace apartment is the study of American cook books. "I want to publish a cook book to be used at home," she explains. That this is no small task is evident in a comparison of ingredients called for in an American cook book compared with those in a Nigerian one. She will have to make a great many substitutions.

The Odakaras agreed that the educated woman in Nigeria has every opportunity a man has in obtaining high positions. Both seemed equally adept at caring for two-month-old Grand as he bid for his share in the interview. Before his marriage, Odakara chose to live in homes instead of dormitories. "I have many wonderful friends in this country," he says, "Oh, I have been turned away from restaurants, but the good I have found far outweighs the bad. If I had two lives, I would like to live one of them here."

Homemaking Class Handy for Couples

Students not majoring in Home Economics who are married or who are planning to get married will find a course set up by the Department of Family Economics, Homemaking for Moderns, especially helpful.

This three-hour course is an approved elective counting toward graduation in all schools except Home Economics, according to Janet Wilson, assistant professor in the Department of Family Economics. She will be the instructor for this class.

The course will cover shopping, housing, buying and using household equipment, time managing, safeguarding family health, and the handling of children.

"Field trips, movies, projects, and outside speakers will add interest to this class made up of students either married or soon to be married," Miss Wilson said.

Cosmopolitan Club

Wildcat Matmen Look for Win No. 3 Against Oklahoma Tonight in Ahearn

K-State's wrestling team, which lost three of four on the road last weekend, faces a perennially tough Oklahoma university mat squad tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Ahearn field house.

The Sooners haven't finished lower than second in the conference since 1946, and last year were third in the NCAA championship meet at Iowa State. The Cyclones came in first, and Oklahoma State was runner up.

The Sooners, NCAA wrestling champs in 1951, 1952, and 1957, with second place finishes in 1953 and 1956, and a No. 4 placing in 1955, tied for second with Iowa State at the Big Eight tournament last season, behind OSU.

The Cats will finish the season without the service of Pat Doyle, Big Eight 157-pound champ two years ago. Doyle was injured in a hunting accident several weeks ago.

The Cats were led on the road trip by 167-pound Jerry Allen, who won three of four matches, and by 123-pounder Billy Youngers, who won three of three.

K-State won its first road match against South Dakota State last Thursday, but then lost to Mankato State, Minnesota university, and Cornell college.

Our roots go deep in the growing areas served by America's second largest telephone system

America is building big out where the grass roots grow.

New industries, new businesses, and new homes are springing up where there's elbowroom. And these are the areas where General Telephone is a citizen of long standing.

From a small beginning, Gen Tel has grown with the countryside. Today our 1,745 exchanges in 30 states provide modern service for 3,359,000 telephones. Our lines carry 119 million conversations each week. And we're adding 750 new phones every day.

It takes a pair of seven-league boots to keep up with the growing communities in Gen Tel territory. That's why Gen Tel is investing almost $200 million this year in the new facilities required to meet the ever-increasing demand for more and better telephone service.

America's big promise is in Gen Tel territory. And Gen Tel is doing its part to meet it.

Boozer Tops Cat Scoring

With an average of 25.5, Bob Boozer leads K-State cage scoring after 13 games this season. He has hit 112 field goals and 108 free throws for 332 points. Last year after 13 games, Boozer had totaled 250 points.

Wally Frank trails Boozer with a 14.5 average. Matuszak has a 9.5 mark, and Glen Long, who played only two games before being injured, is fourth with an 8.5 average.

The Wildcats are averaging 73.2 points a game, while holding opponents to a 63.7 average. The figures last year at this time were 71.4 and 58.8.

K-State is hitting 37.3 per cent of its field goal attempts and 68.8 per cent of its free throws. Last year the respective figures were 37.2 and 61.9 per cent.

Cats Go for Four Against Cold MU

The K-State Wildcats will be out for their fourth straight Big Eight basketball victory Saturday night when they meet the Missouri Tigers at Columbia.

The Wildcats will carry a 12-1 overall record into the contest, the second meeting of the teams this year. K-State squeaked by the Tigers, 69-66, in the opening round of the Big Eight tournament.

Missouri is presently in the midst of an eight-game losing streak, the longest in Sparky Stalcup's 13-year tenure as head coach. The Tigers have won only three games against 11 losses, and are 0-3 in Big Eight play.

Leading the Missouri attack are forward Al Abram and guard Mike Kirksey. At 6-5 and 202 pounds, Abram is considered to be one of the top rebounders in the league. Kirksey is the Tigers' top floor-man and is steadily improving as a scorer.

A pleasant surprise for Missouri has been Joe Scott, 6-3 sophomore forward, who scored 22 points against Nebraska Monday.

K-State is fresh from home-court victories over Colorado, 89-58, and Oklahoma, 90-45. The Cats were rated third by the coaches and fourth by the sports-writers in this week's national polls.

The Tigers own a 56-48 advantage in the all-time series, which dates back to 1907. K-State, however, has won the last seven games between the teams and has never lost at Columbia since Coach Tex Winter took over in 1953.

"Missouri is a far better team than its record will show," said Winter. "They always play us a tough game."

Winter attributes much of the Wildcats' recent success to the play of the reserves. "They were eager to show the fans that ours is not a five- or six-man club," he said.

The Wildcat coach is also pleased with the showing of the team on defense. "I felt we played as fine a defense as we ever have against both Colorado and Oklahoma."

Tar Heels Top Wolfpack To Bid for Top Ranking

By UPI

North Carolina's Tar Heels put in their bid for the nation's No. 1 basketball ranking today on the basis of a performance that even moved their coach to say, "I didn't expect the boys to be this good so soon."

Tar Heel Coach Frank McGuire readily admitted his team fooled even him when it came from behind to upset second-ranked North Carolina State, 72-68, in overtime last night on the Wolfpack's home court to assume leadership of the Atlantic Coast conference.

Last night's victory, achieved before an overflow, basketball-mad crowd of 12,500 at Raleigh, N.C., was the Tar Heels' 10th in 11 starts this season. The loss was only North Carolina State's second in 13 games.

Lee Shaffer actually scored the decisive points when he sank a layup shot with 24 seconds left in the overtime period, but North Carolina had a host of other heroes, too.

There was junior Ray Stanley, who sent the game into overtime, 63-63, with a field goal and two free throws in the last two minutes of regulation time. Then there was Harvey Salz, who led the Tar Heels' scoring with 19 points. And Doug Moe, from Brooklyn, N.Y., whose defensive play McGuire described as "simply unbelievable."

At Winston-Salem, N.C., Wake Forest jumped to a 13-point lead at half-time and went on to wallop South Carolina, 88-58.

In other games around the country, Dayton beat Xavier of Ohio, 60-56; Maryland topped Georgetown, 61-53; Navy scuttled Brandeis, 82-39; Portland licked Portland state, 71-60; St. Joseph's whipped St. Francis (Pa.), 82-66; LaSalle upset Syracuse, 79-71; and Army beat Yale, 74-57.

Physical Education Attempts To Build Men . . .

Are you a 95-pound weakling? Do women ignore you in classes? Do he-men push you around in the Union state room? Do you feel left out of intramural athletics? Don't feel inferior any longer. If you still have a semester of physical education to take as a requirement, see your adviser immediately and make sure that phys ed is in your class schedule next term. You have heard that America is becoming a nation of softies. Well, do your part to alleviate this situation. Phys ed is the greatest for making real men out of college slob. Sign up now. Get rid of the fat and put on bulging muscles.

NOT ALL PHYSICAL TRAINING comes in the gymnasium. One must be careful in planning his diet and he must drop all habits that may hinder physical efficiency.

Bart Everett*

WHILE IN CLASS, pay careful attention to the instructor. His advice can mean the difference between a successful and failing physical culture program for you.

WORK HARD DURING CLASS. Hustle is the trademark of a champion. Remember, loafing never gets you anywhere in life; and this is especially true in phys ed.

WHEN YOU'RE THROUGH with a rugged workout, walk from the gym with a feeling of confidence. You have done your part in making this a nation of the physically fit.

Fall Term Fades Fast, To Be History Soon

By MARTHA STEPS

(Semester wrap-up, Part II)

November

Effigy-hanging became a fad on the campus. Before it was over, the hangings totaled 11. Bebe Lee was hanged once; Eldon Miller, once; Santa Claus, once; the alums, once; Bus Mertes, six times; and the Mertes effigy-hangers, once.

Tommy Dorsey's band, reorganized under the direction of Warren Covington, presented a concert and dance.

Religious Emphasis Week began with an all-College assembly on the week's theme—"Science and Faith."

A new pep song, "Win for Kansas State," was composed, but most students predicted that it would never replace the "Fight Song."

The Y-Mart was termed a "huge success." Voodoo dolls sold at the mart later proved to be poisonous.

Students were evacuated from Eisenhower and Seaton halls on a fake bomb scare while police searched the buildings. A similar call telling of a hidden bomb was made to Southeast hall, but the building was not evacuated.

Sheila Nelson, Ch Soph, was honored at a banquet by Mortar Board for maintaining 34 hours of A her first year.

Favorite Man on Campus for 1958 was Bob Boozer, Art Sr, West Stadium.

Football season ended after we dropped a game to Michigan State, 26-7. K-State finished with a record of three wins and seven losses.

December

The Wildcats began basketball season by beating Purdue, 96-83. Glen Long, PEM Jr, was injured in the over-time game against Indiana which K-State won, 82-79.

Roberta Wray, SEd Sr, Alpha Xi Delta, was crowned queen of the Military Ball.

The Wildcats came from behind twice to beat California, 68-65, and San Francisco, 53-52, and then were defeated by Brigham Young, 77-68.

During vacation, K-State captured the Big Eight Pre-season tournament trophy by beating Missouri, 69-66, Oklahoma, 73-59, and in a last-ditch rally Colorado, 67-66.

January

Heavy snows delayed many students' return after the holidays, but K-State opened the Big Eight basketball season by defeating Iowa State, 59-56. In succeeding games, the Wildcats topped Colorado, 89-58, and Oklahoma, 90-45.

As finals approached, a social dead week cut most activities to a standstill while students settled down to the books.

Collegian Discontinues Publication Until Feb. 2

This is the last issue of the Collegian for this semester; the paper will not be published during final week. Publication will resume February 2 under a new staff.

Enrollment for next semester will be January 29-30 in the Animal Industries building. Classes begin February 2.

WARREN COVINGTON led the re-organized Tommy Dorsey band in a concert November 7 in the Auditorium.

AWS Coeds Will Usher January 24

January commencement departs from tradition at exercises in the Auditorium a week from Saturday—women students in AWS will usher, instead of faculty members.

According to Bill Koch of the English department, who is chairman of the faculty Commencement committee, AWS will handle ushering at future commencements as well.

All tradition, however, won't be broken, as Robert W. Hays, K-State organizer, will play "Pomp and Circumstance" for the graduates. The Rev. J. Kenneth Huyck of the First Baptist church in Manhattan, will give the invocation.

President McCain will deliver the charge to the class and confer degrees, while Col. Carl Lyons and Col. G. K. Stallings of ROTC will commission advanced ROTC students.

NUMBER 75

Eisenhower Addition Bids Appear To Be Acceptable

Bids totaling $365,208 for an addition to Eisenhower hall probably are satisfactory, according to State Architect John Brink. The bids were opened in Topeka yesterday.

The bids received yesterday were on revised plans for the two-story addition. The first bids, opened last summer, were over the $525,000 appropriated for the construction.

The apparent low bid on the general contract was submitted by the O. D. Milligan Construction company of Manhattan. Their bid was for $266,395 with an alternate $3 or $4 thousand for other expenses, which the college may accept or reject later.

The apparent low electrical bidder was the Brown Electrical company of Wichita. Their bid was for $49,153, including alternates and fixtures.

The apparent low plumbing bid was submitted by the Powell Brothers' Plumbing company of Manhattan. Their bid came to a total of $71,212 including alternates and possibly complete air conditioning for the offices.

Gingrich said that since this total is under the $525,000 appropriation he feels that these bids will be accepted.

The Eisenhower addition, a two-story stone structure to be built on the north side of the present building, is specially designed to accommodate large classes. The proposed base plan calls for a 500-seat auditorium, two 200-seat classrooms, and eight 100-seat classrooms.

Gingrich said the addition will be a little more than half the size of the present Eisenhower hall. To make room for the new addition, the Illustrations building will be razed.

Sale of Books To Be in Union Jan. 29-Feb. 3

The student book exchange will open at 9 a.m. Thursday, January 29, and remain open through February 3, on the third floor of the Union, according to Tom Cour, ChE Sr and manager.

"The exchange will be a success only if students bring their books in Thursday," Cour said. Hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; it will be closed Sunday, February 1.

Cour says the exchange will enable students to "make money selling books and save money buying them." Last fall 1,001 books, totalling $2,000, were sold. The exchange keeps 6 percent of the money to cover advertising and operation costs.

This semester the book exchange committee compiled its own list of courses and required books which will be posted. Students place their own prices on books and pick up the money, or the unsold books, after the exchange closes.

Badura-Skoda Wows Crowd

By ALICE HASTINGS

That Paul Badura-Skoda, Viennese pianist who played for a large, responsive audience in the College auditorium last night, should be lauded by the critics "for his consummate artistry" seemed almost an understatement after his performance.

From the most critical to the musically untutored, the audience seemed to grasp his interpretation throughout. His almost "frugal" use of the sustaining pedal helped to maintain an unusual clarity. From cathedral quiet to fiery brilliance, there was always clarity.

GROUND-BREAKING—Jay Workman, TJ Sr, broke ground for the Kedzie hall addition at middle-of-the-night ceremonies last night. Though Workman said he did not know when work on the new addition would start, he said it was "about time we broke sod." Others (from left): Sandy Wilson, TJ Sr; Joyce Rector, TJ Jr; Eldon Miller, TJ Jr; Roger Myers, TJ '58; and (kneeling) Jim Bell, TJ Sr.

Elm Spray a Danger To Autos on Campus

Elm trees on campus will be sprayed with DDT between semesters, according to Thomas Shackelford, campus maintenance supervisor.

Shackelford advised that all cars be removed from the campus during the spraying. He added that cars would be safe in the Union parking lot and the north campus lot.

"I don't know if the spray will harm a car's finish," said Shackelford, "but it will settle on the cars and dirty them."

Atlas Engine Cuts, But No Explosion; AF Looked for 6,000 Miles, Got 300

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
Washington—A powerful Atlas missile which the Air Force had hoped would travel 6,000 miles was reported today to have sputtered out less than 300 miles from its Cape Canaveral launching pad.

Informed sources in Washington said it was believed the missile's engine cut off and it was not thought that the Atlas blew up.

This would make its performance "partially successful," they said. An official defense department announcement was expected later today. The missile was fired last night as a second test of its capability as a potential intercontinental weapon.

Mikoyan Won't Retreat

United Nations—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan said today a high-level conference between East and West "is bound to take place" but it is difficult to say when. He repeated his appeal for an end to "nyet-nyet" (no-no) diplomacy and the institution of "da-da" (yes-yes) relationships.

But, under pointed questioning from diplomatic correspondents he did not retreat an inch from Soviet positions expressed here and at international conferences in the past.

'Mamma Dropped Me In'

Seattle, Wash.—A suicide note indicated today that a 9-year-old girl escaped death at her mother's hands only because she was able to swim "a little."

Pamela Gable's screams attracted Redondo Beach residents Tuesday night and the girl was spotted clinging to a piling in Puget Sound at the Redondo Marine dock.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Delona Gable, 52, drowned and her body was found washed up on the shore about a half-mile from the dock.

"Mamma picked me up and held me over the water and dropped me in and then she jumped in," Pamela said.

Woman Burned to Death

Kansas City, Kan.—Mrs. Margaret Conaty, 80, was burned to death yesterday when her clothes caught fire as she was burning trash behind her home.

Police officers said the woman probably ran from the scene of the fire before collapsing in the street. She suffered burns over most of her body and was dead on arrival at Providence hospital.

Cuban Executions Questioned

Washington—Chairman Emanuel Celler of the House Judiciary committee called today for a United Nations investigation of the mass executions in Cuba.

In Santiago, Raul Castro, Fidel's brother, defended the executions of 106 there and said more were to come. "No voices in the United States or anywhere in the world clamored 'bloodbath' while this was happening here," Raul said. "We are bringing war criminals to justice the same as the United States did in the Nuremberg trials."

Readers Say

Ed. Against Beneficial Program—PEMs

Dear Mr. Miller and Mr. Everett:

In reference to your picture story concerning the physical education program in yesterday's Collegian:

It has been quite some time since we have read an article so violently opposed to a necessity. We also agree the time you used and the space you filled could be used for corrective criticism instead of such vehement verbal and pictorial combat.

It is refreshing to know that you are pulling so strongly for the student body, but rather pitiful that the only things you pull for are the abolition of activities which will benefit them the most.

We assume from your article you do not agree with the modern concept of a sound mind in a sound body. Accepting this concept, can you honestly say you have sound bodies? There is no doubt about your minds.

Room Traps 4 Hawk Coeds, Use Can Opener in Breakout

By Jane Butel

FOUR KU COEDS UNLUCKILY found themselves locked into a second story study at Sellards hall Monday night at about midnight. When they tried to leave, they discovered the door knob wouldn't work. They pounded long enough to arouse a dozen other late studiers. Screwdrivers and fingernail files were put to work to remove the doorknob. But once it was off, the door still wouldn't open, so it was put back on. The house president was prepared to call the fire department, but, the women inside the room solved the problem themselves. They found a can opener and used it to pry the door hinges loose.

TWO OREGON STATE senior coeds escaped with but one scratch between them after their car collided with a train. However the train was not so lucky. When their car struck the moving train, it burst its air tank and caused all the train brakes to lock immediately. The driver explained that her windows were foggy and she didn't notice the warning lights and she didn't hear the train's whistle. However a nearby car full of students said that the train whistled constantly before it entered the intersection.

A SEVEN-FOOT FRESHMAN basketball star at Northwestern, Mike McCoy, has decided to transfer to the University of Miami, for what the Daily Northwestern terms "scholastic reasons." McCoy got a C and two D's first quarter. His roommate noted, "He was very disappointed with his grades. He figured he's worked pretty hard."

THE EDITOR OF THE Oregon State Barometer recently wrote a reminder to all professors guilty of administering worn-out mid-terms and final examinations. He said, "Now would be an excellent time to begin composing new mid-terms, new finals, and even new pop quizzes for classes this term. The copies of these exams included in living group files are becoming worn and thin—and the students can no longer memorize them fully. Actually," he said, "we're getting tired of hearing stories about the student who walked into an examination and, much to his joy, discovered that it was the very same test that he had memorized the night before—from the house files."

STUDENTS AT THE UNIVERSITY of Texas are rather disgruntled with their Dead Week program which has survived since it was established in 1904. Now, it is little more than formality. Since students have not used Dead Week for its intended purpose of preparing for finals, several attempts have been made to discontinue it. It has survived numerous attacks by the faculty as well and several investigations of the complaints made by both faculty members and students have proved fruitless—each one seems only to result in new rules. About the only stipulation left is that all types of written papers have to be turned in before Dead Week begins.

For Social Life, Study Frosh Say KS Helps

By LARRY MEREDITH

WHEN ASKED WHAT the main thing a semester at K-State has done for them, 20 of K-State's freshmen came up with varied answers. Most women spoke of learning to meet and get along with people as their big thought, while, surprisingly enough, the men were more conscious of study habits.

They all seemed to feel college has been of benefit in some way.

BETTY BRINGLE, EED—It has made me realize how little I know and taught me how to concentrate. I can now tell what is important and what isn't.

LARRY BRUINGTON, BAA—It has taught me social grace. I feel that I am now able to meet and get along with people better.

JOYCE CASE, HEC—I have learned how to meet, understand, and get along with all different kinds of people. I've also learned an awfully lot in classes and otherwise.

BILL KIMBALL, ARE—It has made me realize that I'm preparing for the future and I work harder. Social life means more to me now.

KRIS SOELBERG, CHM—It has improved my study habits over high school and made me more certain that I want to continue in chemistry.

BETSY STAPH, SED—It has made me a loyal K-State fan over KU and made me realize what I should have taken in high school.

DON WOOFER, AE—I have learned to accept responsibility and it has made me learn to think more maturely.

Wildcat Cagers Invade MU; Tiger Five Rough at Home

Although they have won three consecutive Big Eight basketball games by a total of 79 points, K-State's defending Big Eight champions may be in for a rough time against Missouri tomorrow night, if past performances at Columbia are an indication.

The Wildcats have won eight straight games from the Tigers at Columbia, but with the exception of last year's 82-61 pasting by K-State, all of the games have been close.

The Cats won 78-67 in 1955 and 77-71 in 1957, but just managed a 58-54 victory in 1956, and a 79-78 squeaker in 1954.

Coach Tex Winter's crew shares the Big Eight lead with a 3-0 mark with Kansas university, which has decisions over Oklahoma State, Missouri and Iowa State.

The Begals are winless in three league starts, losing to Kansas, Oklahoma, and Nebraska, and have a 3-11 overall mark.

Both K-State's offense and defense has been clicking in the 89-58 and 90-45 runaways over Colorado and Oklahoma. The Cats have shown good scoring balance and depth offensively, while Winter credits his defense too for the victories.

"I felt we played as fine a defense as we ever had against both teams," Winter said. The Cats played a tight zone against Colorado, and an equally tight man-to-man against OU.

"I am particularly pleased and proud of the way our offense has worked," he continued. "We averaged 48 per cent on our shots through those two games. To get a percentage like that, you have to have excellent shots, and our offense has created just that."

Al Abram is the top MU rebounder at 6-5, while Mike Kirksey, who is out with injuries, is the top floor man. Some of the scoring slack has been taken up by Joe Scott, 6-3 sophomore guard, who scored 21 against Nebraska.

"Missouri traditionally plays K-State a tough game," commented Winter. "And the Tigers won't be impressed by what we did to Colorado and Oklahoma."

The probable starting lineups:

K-State	Position	Missouri
Frank (6-8)	F	(6-5) Harbin
Douglas (6-4)	F	(6-6) Talley
Boozer (6-8)	C	(6-7) Henke
Matuszak (6-0)	G	(6-0) Forristall

NUMBER 76

STUDENTS ENROLLED at the Animal Industries building for the first time this semester. Enrollment is expected to reach 6,458.

School Book Business Good, Says Manager of Exchange

Five hundred and eighty three books have been sold for a total of $2000 in three days of operation of the student book exchange, reports manager Tom Cour, ChE Sr. Sponsored by the Student Council, the exchange is in its third semester of operation.

The exchange attempts to sell books for students at the price the students sets, and if sold, the student receives the sale price, minus six per cent for advertising and operating expenses.

The service began last Thursday, and will continue until Tuesday at 4 p.m. It opens at 9 a.m. Wednesday and Thursday of this week, a booth will be in the lobby of the Union to give money for books sold to the students, and to return unsold books.

Cour reports that this will probably be the most successful semester for the exchange. A year ago, stolen books and a slide rule resulted in a loss. Last semester, the exchange made money, but lacked a supply of books. "This semester," said Cour, "we still have the demand for books we had last semester, but we have a greater supply of books."

Cour observed that the book exchange pays more for books than does local bookstores, and sells books for less, thus saving money for students.

"Student Council is running the book exchange now," said Cour, "but we want some organization to run it and take sole responsibility for it, since we don't think it should be our responsibility. This should lay the groundwork for a permanent student bookstore."

He said that the profit from the exchange goes into a fund, which will be distributed back to the students or campus in some way. "We don't look for too much profit, however," he said. "Somebody always takes a book or two that we have to make good on."

Y-Orpheum Finalists Chosen

Seven double and one single final entries for the 1959 Y-Orpheum production were announced Saturday night by Charlotte Riley, Psy Sr, Y-Orpheum producer, and Larry Bingham, BA Fr, assistant producer. The annual production, with this year's theme of "Late Late Show," will be presented April 3 and 4 in the College auditorium.

The finalists, in the order in which they will appear on the program: Delta Delta Delta-Sigma Alpha Epsilon, "Last Blast; Alpha Chi Omega-Alfa Kappa Lambda, "The Stork Club;" Pi Beta Phi-Phi Delta Theta, "Tragic Magic;" Sigma Nu, "Harvey Goes to College;" Gamma Phi Beta-Sigma Chi, "Flapperella;" Chi Omega-Farmhouse, "Damn Foolishness;" Kappa Delta-Phi Kappa, "The Beat;" and Alpha Delta Pi-Alpha Tau Omega, "Death of a Medium."

The judges who selected the winning scripts were Dan Hurley, production co-ordinator and writer for WIBW; Jeanne Hunter, associated with a national advertising agency and KVAE continuity director; Charlotte King, drama critic for the Topeka Daily Capital; and Jerry Scott, music director for the University of Kansas' Rock-Chalk review.

The Delta Delta Delta-Sigma Alpha Epsilon theme, "The Last Blast," concerns the United States missile testing center, and the often-disastrous results of too much government organization and red tape.

Alpha Chi Omega-Alfa Kappa Lambda's, "The Stork Club" consists of the corridor and waiting room of the maternity ward of a hospital. Anxious fathers, busy nurses and doctors, and a party boy with a misconception of the Stork Club, will highlight the skit.

Pi Beta Phi-Phi Delta Theta will feature a love affair between a mortal artist and a witch model in their story, "Tragic Magic." The scene changes from one world to the other and is climaxed by a dance between the artist and model.

Sigma Nu, the only single entry, chose the theme "Harvey Goes to College." The Bowery Boys come to K-State and try to take over the campus by the use of shady politics. They are thwarted in their attempt by one of their own members.

"Flapperella," the Gamma Phi Beta-Sigma Chi entry, is a 1920 version of Cinderella. The scene is set in Chicago, amid gangsters and girl friends.

Chi Omega and Farmhouse will offer a take-off on Damn Yankees with their "Damn Foolishness." A professor who can't understand why his students look so tired on Mondays, decides to find out, and sells his soul to the devil in order to do so.

Kappa Delta-Phi Kappa "The Beat" concerns a jazz pianist of today who laments the lost days of the jazzy 20's. His thoughts then flash back to a speakeasy of prohibition days.

"Death of a Medium," presented by Alpha Delta Pi and Alpha Tau Omega, concerns a television-minded husband who is admonished by apparitions for not taking more interest in his wife. These apparitions show him life's enjoyments away from the television set.

Job Interviews To Begin

Spring interviewing by approximately 170 companies will begin tomorrow and will be completed for the most part by Easter vacation, according to Chester E. Peters, director of placement.

More than 140 companies visited the campus and handled approximately 2,750 student job interviews during the semester completed in January.

During last semester Peters noted an increased emphasis on students with advanced degrees. It is expected that the demand will be stronger this spring in the non-technical areas than one year ago.

Technical graduates have experienced a strengthening of demand during the first semester which will continue for the second semester, according to Peters. Demand is especially strong in the defense orientated industries and electronic field.

Graduating seniors who have completed placement forms wish to interview visiting personnel may obtain the necessary forms and instructions at the Placement center, Room 8, Anderson hall.

Spring Enrollment May Total 6,450

A spring semester enrollment figure almost the same as the 6,458 figure of last spring's enrollment, is expected this year, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar. At the close of the regular enrollment period Saturday noon, nearly 6,100 students had enrolled.

The lower than usual figure was attributed to the bad weather by Gerritz. He explained that he expects a large number of late enrollees to make up the deficit.

This enrollment figure is the usual six to eight per cent drop over the fall semester. Drop-outs and the 413 graduates in January accounted for much of the difference.

Last semester, 6,750 students attended K-State, with 6,519 enrolling in the three day period, and 240 more enrolling late.

Reverting to the old system of enrolling without pre-enrollment worked "all right" Gerritz said. He added that the system will probably be continued in the future. He gave the reason for dropping pre-enrollment as the large number—50 to 60 per cent—of students who changed their minds concerning their schedules. Gerritz said he felt that with early advisement, the present way is as good or better.

The Animal Industries building was used for enrolling this semester, he reports, because Nichols gymnasium would not have been large enough for the purpose, and the basketball floor prevented the Field House from being used.

The gymnasium was used for enrollment second semester last year.

Record enrollment at Kansas State was in 1948 when 7,430 students enrolled. More than half, 4,005 students, of the enrollment that year were veterans.

Council To Discuss Interviewing System

A new interviewing system for selecting SGA committee members will be discussed at Student Council tonight according to Larry French, BA Sr. Reports will be given on the plans for leadership school, and of the Little United Nations assembly, which will be February 18 through 20. A report on campus business relations will also be given. The major portion of the meeting will be devoted to planning the meetings for the rest of the semester.

Civic Group Presents 'School for Scandal'

The Manhattan Civic theater presentation of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "The School for Scandal" opened last night at the Manhattan Community house. The play, directed by Earl Hoover, speech professor, will be presented again tonight and tomorrow night at 8.

"The School for Scandal," a famous English language comedy for nearly 200 years, is presented in full costume in the Civic theater's usual arena style.

Lady Sneerwell is played by Carol Cilek, Eng Sr, Mrs. Candou by Dorothy Jones, and Maria by Frances Marvin, Phyl Soph.

Other roles are Sir Oliver Surface by Ken Nakari, Sp Sr, Joseph Surface by Arthur C. Andrews, chemistry professor, and Charles Surface by Jack Macy, PsP Soph, Richard Bohn, Ed Gr; Dr. C. D. Danner; Cecil Miller, philosophy professor; Jose Benardete, instructor of philosophy; and Jordan Miller, assistant professor of English, complete the cast.

Lou Russell is stage manager and Virginia Mansfield is costume supervisor.

Six members of the cast, Nakari, Macy, Bohn, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Marvin, and Miss Cilek, are members of the K-State players and have participated in productions on the campus. Miller is with Special services at Fort Riley.

Danner is a Manhattan dentist and Mrs. Jones is a Manhattan housewife.

All members of the cast except Benardete have appeared in a variety of roles in former Civic theater productions. Hoover has appeared in Civic theater productions and is K-State director of drama.

Collegian To Attempt Giving 'True Picture'

WELCOME BACK!

And with that said we can get back to the business of letting you know what kind of a newspaper we hope to give you this semester. First of all we'll say that we believe the function of the Collegian is to print the news in such a way that it accurately reflects the college community.

With this in mind we will try to give you the news accurately and concisely and present it in such a way that it is a true picture of Kansas State college. In presenting this "true picture" we, of course, will have to use our own judgment and interpretation, and since we believe that education is the most important aspect of Kansas State, we will probably be emphasizing that aspect in our news columns.

IN VOICING OUR OPINIONS and interpretation of the news, we plan to restrict ourselves to this page. Here you will be reading our comments, favorable and unfavorable, about various issues that come up during the semester. Part of the time you will agree with us and part of the time you will disagree, but either way we would like to hear your opinions, so write us a letter or come in and talk to us. As in the past we will print letters to the editor.

It would be foolish for us to deny that we will be using the Collegian to work for something, and we believe that it is this something that can determine the success of a newspaper. So we have established as our "something to work for" the well-being and the improvement of the campus community, and we will be doing all we can to carry out this aim.—st

Air Force Starts Preliminary Studies For Three Missile Bases in Kansas

By United Press International

Washington—The Air Force is starting preliminary studies for missile sites at three bases in Kansas, the office of Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) said today.

A spokesman for the senator said the surveys were being planned for Schilling Air Force base, Salina; McConnell Air Force base, Wichita; and Forbes Air Force base, Topeka.

Letters from the Air Force said the basic information would be "used in planning for the missile systems which we expect to become operational in the foreseeable future."

The Air Force did not say which missiles it might have in mind for the bases.

"It should be emphasized that these surveys will not result in any immediate selection of sites," the Air Force said.

It told Carlson it would notify him "if our surveys bring about the location of any additional mission or facilities in the areas concerned."

leave tomorrow for London, Paris and Bonn for talks on Berlin and the problem of Germany.

The State Department said Dulles "has concluded that it would be useful at the present stage of developments in Europe for him to exchange views personally with the governments of the United Kingdom, France and Germany."

The British, French and West German governments, the Department said, agreed with Dulles, that such a trip and exchange of views would be useful.

The State Department said Dulles' trip "does not reflect any emergency."

"It does reflect the importance which the Western allies attribute to the continuing unity of their policy on Berlin and the problem of Germany," the Department added.

Castro Starts Reforms

Havana — Fidel Castro returned to his Sierra Maestra mountain stronghold today to launch his land reform program dividing state-owned estates among Cuba's tenant farmers.

Castro flew to Santiago in Oriente Province yesterday at the head of a team of 200 teachers, doctors, engineers and economic and government experts to attack what he has called Cuba's main economic problem, the landless peasantry.

His arrival coincided with reports of violence in Santiago. The National Broadcasting company said a hand grenade was tossed into a church procession in the city and that three persons were killed and 50 wounded. Word reaching here from Santiago called the report false.

In the capital, the family of executed No. 2 "war criminal" Maj. Pedro Morejon Valdes made preparations for his burial.

Morejon went before a firing squad shortly before midnight Saturday, just an hour after he tried to commit suicide in his cell at the ancient Cabana fortress.

Castro's land reform plan calls for the deeding over to each farmer of 66 acres of land now lying fallow or being worked on a tenant basis for the state. He also plans to spend three million dollars a month to buy land for the peasant farmers when the government land runs out.

Students Dislike Enrollment Changes Cite Inconvenient Place, Time Spent

By Bart Everett

What do you think about the new system of enrolling? This question was asked 40 K-State students following enrollment Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

For the first time in several years, the pre-enrollment system was not used, and for the first time the Animal Industries building was used for enrollment.

Over half the 40 students disliked the changes. Eight had no opinion, and eight liked the new procedure better. These are a few of the comments received:

TOM COFFELT, TA Jr— I thought it was a gas! I got out in 45 minutes.

WALT DANFORTH, Psp Sr— It's a regression back to the old system when we enrolled in Nichols where you spend more time standing in line than enrolling.

Joanne Jacobs, BA Jr— I never did like pre-enrollment. The Animal Industries building gives you more room, too.

RALPH SPIEGEL, AE Sr— One system's as bad as the other. I hope this is the last time I enroll anyway, so I don't really care if they tatoo the schedule on your shoulder from now on.

RODNEY STAY, MTe Fr— I lik to pre-enroll.

HELEN ENGLISH, BAA Sr— I didn't like it. It took too long.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"NO YOU CAN'T TAKE ENGLISH AS FULFILLMENT OF YOUR 'FOREIGN LANGUAGE' REQUIREMENT."

Casting, Prompting Bad Points Of City Civic Theater Comedy

Manhattan added yet another institution of learning to its community last night with the opening of "The School for Scandal," which was presented at "The Playhouse in Fourth Street, at the corner of Humboldt."

Heading the cast were six transfers from our own campus, all active in the K-State Players. Carol Cilek, Eng Sr, well-nigh sneered herself out of the arena as Lady Sneerwell; Frances Marvin, Phy Soph, played the coy Maria (pronounced Mu-rye-ah); Richard Bohn, Ed Gr, as Benjamin Backbite, made one want to bite back; Bobbi Wilson, Sp Jr, rated considerable applause for her performance as Lady Teazle; and Ken Nakari, Sp Sr, was a polished Uncle Oliver. Jack Macy, PsP Soph, was a rousing good-time-Charlie as Charles Surface.

The plot concerned the favorite pastime of England's indolent society of the 16th century—killing time by murdering reputations.

Presented in the round, the play sometimes suffered when cast members were subjected to the merciless shoutings of the prompter, who placed herself in prominent view. Casting also seemed to give some trouble. When A. C. Andrews, who played Joseph Surface, shrieked "Charles, my brother? Impossible!" one could well sympathize with the old gentleman asked to play sibling to the fuzzy-faced boy.

Earle Davis brought music to the comedy with accompaniment to a 16th century drinking song—"Drink to the Lass." Davis couldn't help including Brigitte Bardot and Marilyn Monroe into the toasting as an afterthought.

The production is a satire of society in 1777 England, but—since human nature seems to change very little—the shoe may still be squeezed into.

Should you find some extra time, or should you desire to impress your friends by your attendance at a real "arty" performance, this might be a good place to start. Who knows, you might even enjoy it.

The quartet is making many appearances in local high schools, Leavengood said. The group will appear in Beloit February 6, Winfield February 11, and Wichita February 12. It has already appeared in Colby and Oakley.

The Quartet also has a concert in the All-Faith chapel auditorium this Sunday at 3 p.m.

Members of the Quartet are George Leedham, assistant professor of music, first violin; Leavengood, second violin; Clyde Jussila, viola; and Warren Walker, assistant professor of music, cello.

Students interested in applying for a loan should pick up an application at the Placement center as soon as possible, Peters said. Applications must be completed and returned to the chairman of the NDEA Loan committee by February 9 for consideration for the spring semester and summer school.

Under the student loan program a student can borrow up to $1,000 a year for a total of $5,000. The College will decide how much a student should get. Interest is three per cent on the unpaid balance.

Neither interest nor repayment begins until the year after an individual finishes his higher education. He then has ten years to repay with time out if he enters the armed forces.

Borrowers who become public school teachers can get portions of the loan cancelled, and the entire loan is cancelled if the borrower dies or becomes totally disabled.

The College expects to receive its first grant of between $15,000 and $20,000 February 15. The loans will be made as soon as Kansas State college has added 10 per cent of this amount. It is hoped that the first loans will be granted by March 1, Peters said.

KS President Featured In KC Times Interview

"Agriculture is surely a science and very much an applied science in this technical age," Pres. James A. McCain said in an interview which ran on the editorial page of the Kansas City Times Saturday. The feature story and interview were written by Roger Swanson, a member of the Kansas City Star staff.

In the interview McCain goes on to say that in a world made more complex by swift technological advances it (agriculture) is only one scale of compensation for educators and by the inability of many qualified students to enroll in college because of a lack of finances.

The article later describes President McCain as an academician with an unusual dual background in both education and journalism. "Dr. McCain very nearly took newspaper work as his life's career. He still has something of a yearning to own a newspaper."

Swanson goes on to sum up some of McCain's policies and contributions at K-State:

"... He is particularly concerned with helping the bright young folks of Kansas and the Midwest solve financial or other problems in order to get through school.

"Because of higher costs of education today, Dr. McCain consistently has urged expansion of scholarship funds at Kansas State. He also has been an advocate of some additional federal help for bright students. On return from a visit to Europe a year ago, he was enthusiastic about programs that encourage talented students to get all the education they can take.

"... McCain's most substantial contribution has been placing K-State on a more equitable basis, financially and in planning and construction, with the University of Kansas. Dr. McCain has worked zealously at co-operation; now, instead of fighting, the institutions support each other's bids for money and buildings.

"... A name change to Kansas State University of Agriculture and Applied Science will be considered this term by the Kansas Legislature. (It already has been approved by the Board of Regents.) In this busy age, Kansas State in fact is a university, Dr. McCain points out. But to single out the term, agriculture, in the title may be misleading in this technical era, he believes.

"... Above any physical equipment, Dr. McCain places the teaching personnel. Here the administrator comes up against the matter of adequate salaries for college faculty members. Improvements last year helped slow a flow of talented instructors away from K-State to other schools. But Dr. McCain believes more increases are needed.

"Anyone nominating important McCain accomplishments would have to include at least two others. He hopes to develop a faculty senate to give staff members more influence on campus policies. He encourages student participation in the College administration."

President James A. McCain

of a growing list of educational responsibilities of the land grant colleges. And in the face of the new emphasis on nuclear mechanisms and complexities, educators must not forget those old academic friends, the humanities.

Swanson, describing President McCain as a lean, youthful appearing educator, now in his eighth year at Manhattan, says that the President sees in the great enrollment gains of the future new challenges for colleges such as his. Swanson says, however, that the President is troubled by the relatively low

Honors Program Planned For School of Agriculture

An honors program, patterned after that used by the School of Arts and Sciences, will be put into effect by the School of Agriculture next fall, according to John A. Johnson, professor of flour and milling industries. Johnson, along with James V. Craig, associate professor of poultry husbandry; and Kling L. Anderson, professor in agronomy; made up the Honors committee, a sub-committee of the Curriculums committee, which formulated the program.

Regulations set up by the committee state that to be chosen for the program, a freshman student must be in the upper 10 per cent of his high school graduating class and the upper 5 per cent of the freshmen entering the Ag school. Upperclassmen and transfer students with 72 hours credit or less and a cumulative average of 3.5 may also be eligible. Honors students must maintain a 3.0 average to remain in the program.

According to the committee's regulations, "The students will be advised of the opportunities to 'test out' of and to receive credit for courses in which they can demonstrate a level of proficiency specified by the departments offering the courses." This will enable the students to shorten their undergraduate careers, and to take courses offering more extensive training.

The School of Agriculture is the third at K-State to adopt an Honors program. The other two are the Schools of Arts and Sciences and Home Economics.

4-H Names 1959 IFYE's

Four K-Staters have been chosen International Farm Youth exchange delegates to the Philippines, England and Wales, Belgium, and the Dominican Republic for 1959, according to Harlan Copeland, assistant state 4-H club leader.

The Kansas IFYE's and their tentative assignments: Gelane Moritz, EEd Jr, the Philippines; Arnita Otte, EEd Jr, England and Wales; Kenneth Peirce, Gen Jr, Belgium; and Paul Faidley, AEd Sr, Dominican Republic.

Miss Moritz and Faidley will be the first Kansas IFYE delegates to visit the Philippines and the Dominican Republic.

Ninety-five delegates will be sent overseas from the U.S. to spend five months with rural families in their host countries. There will be 121 exchanges brought to this country with 38 states serving as their hosts.

The two-way exchange of rural youth is sponsored by the National 4-H foundation, and the state and agricultural departments. In Kansas the program is administered by the Kansas 4-H foundation and the Kansas extension service.

A column of incidental intelligence by Jockey® brand

"WOLF IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING"
Bible scholars know that this expression wasn't born with Red Riding Hood. It's from Matthew, VII, 15:

"Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves."

"HAIL FELLOW WELL MET"
We consider this description a compliment today, but it didn't start out that way at all. The original is in Jonathan Swift's, "My Lady's Lamentation."

"Hail, fellow, well met,
All dirty and wet;
Find out if you can,

"MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB"
If you think this familiar poem is authentic Mother Goose, think again. Nobody knows who wrote Mother Goose, but your librarian will tell you that Sarah Josepha Hale composed the stanzas about Mary and her academic lamb way back in 1830.

Questions relating to the pre-veterinary and veterinary medical programs at Kansas State will be discussed at a social hour sponsored jointly by the Schools of Veterinary Medicine and Arts and Sciences in the Student Union west ballroom this Friday from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

All students interested in the veterinary medicine curriculum are invited to the social hour, which is designed to acquaint or orient students interested in the professional curriculum with the organizations of the School of Veterinary Medicine and with the procedures involved in the selection of veterinary medical students.

Dean Paul M. Young and Assistant Dean G. O. Ebberts, of the School of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. J. W. Lumb, acting dean of the School of Veterinary Medicine, will introduce faculty advisers for preveterinary students from the School of Arts and Sciences and the Selection committee of the School of Veterinary Medicine.

Informal discussion groups will allow students and faculty to discuss the students' questions concerning the curriculum.

Seed Dealers' Award

John W. Weseloh, TA Gr, is the winner of this year's Kansas Seed Dealers' association award. Weseloh received the award from Carl F. Votapka, president of the Kansas Seed Dealers and the association's annual convention in Wichita.

Weseloh, who received his Bachelor of Science degree in technical agronomy January 24, will continue his studies in weed control as a research assistant this semester. A faculty committee recommended Weseloh for his outstanding work in agronomy.

Tri Delta Scholarship

The sixteenth annual Delta Delta Delta General Scholarship fund competition is underway and will end March 1, according to Mrs. Charles C. Perrin, Delta Delta Delta national service projects chairman.

Women students, sorority and nonsorority members, are eligible to apply. The total amount of the award granted on the K-State campus may not exceed $200.

Applications for the scholarship are available at the Dean of Students' office, Anderson hall, room 111. The winner will be notified by May 15.

McLeod Memorial

A gift of $3,000 for the creation of a W. M. McLeod Memorial Fund unit of the Kansas State College Foundation for Veterinary Medicine has been announced by Kenneth M. Heywood, Endowment association director.

The money, part of the sum collected by the McLeod Memorial Fund committee since Dr. McLeod's death, will be invested by the Endowment association with earnings to be used for scholarships in veterinary medicine.

McLeod, who died in 1957, was a member of the K-State staff for 38 years and served as head of the Department of Anatomy for more than a decade.

Gingrich Was Instructor At K-State 33 Years Ago

R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the Physical Plant, has the distinction of having held his job twice. His predecessor had retired the first time he was appointed but had to return for a year because of a retirement law which said that he had one more year to serve before he could retire. After this year Gingrich was again appointed head.

Gingrich came to K-State in September of 1923 as an instructor in the Department of Machine Design, which has since been merged with Mechanical Engineering.

As an instructor he taught Engine Drawing, Descriptive Geometry, Machine Drawing, Shades and Shadows full time, and Hydraulics for one summer. He helped write the textbook for Descriptive Geometry which was used at that time.

Gingrich taught full time until 1931 when he became assistant superintendent and taught part time. In 1943 he took over the job of superintendent of the Physical Plant.

His job entails supervision of the complete Physical Plant which consists of maintenance, grounds, custodian, heat and power, traffic and security, and campus construction.

Gingrich says students play a major part in his job. "The department hires a large number of students in a variety of capacities," Gingrich explained that students fire the boilers and operate the power as well as many other jobs.

"The custodian department is where we hire the greatest number of students," he said. "They do various jobs such as helping the janitor and keeping the yards up."

"There are also students in every other department," he stated. "They are hired in traffic and security, grounds maintenance, campus planning, in the offices, and even on the fire team."

Gingrich explained that the men on the fire team live in the Power Plant on the second floor and answer calls at night and do what they can until help comes. "In fact," Gingrich states, "we couldn't operate without students to help us."

"A large share of my time is taken up by the building program. Conferences with the state architect and other state officials, as well as committee meetings, take a lot of time."

Union-Sponsored Ski Trip To Become Annual Event

The four-day between-semester ski trip to Winter Park, Colo., sponsored by the Union Games committee has been termed a "huge success" by Games Committee Chairman Bill Harrison, NE Sr. Harrison stated that the Games committee plans to make the trip an annual event.

Twenty-four students and six faculty members made the trip, leaving Manhattan Friday evening, January 23, and returning last Wednesday morning. Student leader for the trip was Dennis Tatge, Sp Fr, and sponsors were Donn Everett, business administration instructor, and Mrs. Everett.

Average total cost of the trip, including all meals, transportation, lodging, equipment, lessons, and two tickets was less than $70 a person, according to Harrison. Basic cost for two meals a day, lodging, transportation, equipment, and insurance was $48.00. Lessons, tows, and noon meal expenses were added to this figure.

"With 30 people skiing for four days, the injury list was unbelievably slight," Harrison said. A slightly sprained ankle was the only injury reported.

Questionnaires have been sent to people who participated in the ski trip to determine exact costs of the entire trip to each person, Harrison stated.

Cats Seek 12th Straight Win Against Cornhuskers Tonight

The K-State Wildcats hope that history will not repeat itself as they take an 11-game winning streak to Lincoln for a Big Eight basketball tilt with Jerry Bush's Cornhuskers.

The Cat cagers remember their trip to Nebraska last March, when they were rated the nation's top team and carried an identical 11-game winning streak into the contest. In that battle, the Cornhuskers combined a deliberate floor game with a red hot shooting percentage to hand K-State a 55-48 beating in one of the biggest upsets of the year.

The Wildcats, ranked No. 3 in both national basketball polls, bring an overall record of 15-1 into the contest, which will be the first meeting of the teams this year. The Cats are 5-0 in Big Eight play.

The Huskers have a modest four-game winning streak of their own. One of the surprising teams in the Big Eight so far, they have a season's record of 10-5 and are 3-1 in conference play. Their only Big Eight defeat was 57-50 at the hands of Colorado.

Both teams are fresh from high-scoring victories over non-conference opponents. Nebraska came from behind Saturday night to defeat Detroit, 91-77, while the Wildcats were murdering South Dakota State, 91-65.

K-State will be without the services of Sonny Ballard, who was ruled ineligible for the rest of the season because of scholastic difficulties.

Tex Winter, Wildcat coach, plans to start Bill Guthridge at the vacated guard position. Guthridge was in the starting lineup against South Dakota State and scored five points. He is averaging 3.5 for the season.

"Guthridge fits into our starting lineup very well," said Winter. "He played a good defensive game Saturday night and came through with a couple fine shots."

The K-State coach, however, said that he also plans to use another combination, which has Cedric Price at center, Steve Douglas at guard, and Bob Boozer at forward.

Coach Jerry Bush is also faced with the problem of how to revamp his starting lineup for the contest.

Bush is expected to move Herschell Turner to a forward position and either 6-0 Bill Lundholm or 6-2 John Cahill into a guard spot.

The Huskers, who will be trying for their 13th straight home-court victory, will rely heavily on Turner and Al Maxey, both of whom are averaging over 15 points a game. They combined for 56 points in the Huskers' victory over Detroit.

The probable starting lineup:

K-State	Pos	Nebraska
Frank (6-8)	F	(6-3) Maxey
Douglas (6-4)	F	(6-2) Turner
Boozer (6-8)	C	(6-6) Harry
Matuszak (6-0)	G	(6-0) Lundholm
Guthridge (5-10)	G	(6-2) Hester

Wildcats Face Top Foes In Big Eight Title Chase

By UPI

The chips are down in the Big Eight this week and if Colorado, Nebraska, or any other team intends to halt the Kansas State express, now is the time to do it.

Kansas State takes its perfect 5-0 mark on the road against both the second and third place teams and if it can sweep those games, should be able to coast to the championship.

The Wildcats venture to Lincoln tonight for their first meeting of the season with Nebraska's talented and speedy third place club. On Saturday, they climb the mountains to meet Colorado, and it's a sure bet Coach Sox Walseth will be out to avenge that 89-58 drubbing the Wildcats handed the Buffs at Manhattan January 10.

Most of the teams will reach or pass the halfway mark of the conference season this week and head down the long February home stretch.

The clubs have eight games scheduled, all but two conference affairs, and they should clarify not only the top but also the bottom of the standings.

Iowa State and Missouri, battling to stay out of the cellar, meet Saturday in a game that may determine which stays there for keeps. The Cyclones eased up a notch Saturday by topping Oklahoma State, 48-47, while Missouri dropped to the bottom.

Kansas State, with victories over Iowa State Monday and tiny South Dakota State Saturday, 91-65, remains on top. Colorado beat Kan-

KS Swimmers Lose

Coach Bill Thrall's K-State swimming squad won five first places in a dual match with Colorado State Saturday afternoon in Nichols pool, but the visitors slipped past the Wildcats, 43-42.

Jerry Fitzgerald, K-State junior, set a new varsity record as he won the 200-yard butterfly in 2:31.2. The old record of 2:33.8 was set by Dave Dicken in 1958.

Dallas Chestnut won the diving competition to remain undefeated in that event. Craig McNeal won another individual event for K-State in the 100-yard free style.

The Wildcat swimmers had lost their three previous matches, 47 1/2-38 1/2 to Nebraska, 70-16 to Oklahoma, and 51-27 to Iowa State.

Celtics Top Nationals As Schayes Nets 50

By UPI

The Boston Celtics remain top dogs in the National Basketball Association's Eastern division because they know a good team effort can overwhelm a rival star's performance.

The Celtics, with five men scoring in double figures, nullified Dolph Schayes' 50-point personal-high performance yesterday to gain a 139-137 overtime victory against the Syracuse Nationals.

Boston had to battle back from a nine-point deficit late in the fourth period to swing the game into an extra session. Bob Cousy, who scored 32 points, netted a hook shot with a minute to go to knot the score at 127-all and set the stage for the Celtics' winning effort. Bill Sharman iced the overtime period with seven of Boston's 12 points.

Cox Best Guesser In Roundball Picks

Ted Cox, GA Sr, won the Roundball Picks contest for the K-State-Missouri game with his prediction of a 74-61 Wildcat vic-tory. The actual score was 75-50.

Charles Swanlund, AA Sr, and Melvin McCall, ME Soph, also missed the score by only two points, with identical 75-58 pre-dictions. Cox, however, picked Bob Boozer to lead K-State in scoring with 29 points, while Mc-Call and Swanlund guessed 27 and 24, respectively. Boozer's to-tal was 30.

Only 18 contestants submitted entries, with 17 forecasting a Wildcat win and only one pre-dicting a Missouri victory.

Fast Start Made Difference, Says Tex after Wildcat Win

"We snowed them in the first 15 minutes. By the time they got over the shock we had built up a big lead and it was too late for them to come back."

These were the words of K-State basketball coach Tex Winter after his Wildcats had blasted South Dakota State, 91-65, in a non-conference tilt in Ahearn field house Saturday night.

"In spots we looked very good," said Winter. "I was well pleased with the play of the start-ing unit during the first half.

The Wildcat coach was especially pleased with the play of Mickey Heinz, second-unit forward. "Heinz is coming along very well," said Winter. "He will be valuable to us down the stretch."

The Wildcats got off to another fast start as they took an early 5-0 lead and extended it to 35-7 on a pair of free throws by Jim Holwerda with 7:14 left in the first half.

Winter substituted freely during the first half, but the Jackrabbits began closing the gap. Wayne Gaughran's tip-in brought the visitors to within 18 points of the Wildcats at halftime, 47-29.

Winter started the second half with his first unit, which had Bill Guthridge at the guard spot vacated by Sonny Ballard, who will be ineligible next semester.

With Don Jacobsen and Marlin Van Den Einde doing most of the scoring, the Jackrabbits con-tinued to chip away at the K-State lead. Jacob-son tossed in two free throws after being fouled by Guthridge to cut the lead to 57-43 with 11:45 remaining.

But Bob Boozer ended the South Dakota State splurge as he canned two jump shots. Mike Sisk hit a pair of free throws for the Jackrabbits, but Boozer came back with another field goal and added a free throw after being fouled by Van Den Einde.

Cedric Price and Van Den Einde then traded field goals before Wally Frank scored on a jump shot. Steve Douglas fashioned another three-point play thanks to a foul by Sisk to make the K-State lead 71-45 with 8:49 left.

Truman Might Keynote Campus U.N. Program

Former U.S. President Harry S. Truman may be the keynote speaker for the Little United Nations assembly sponsored by the Political Science club February 19, 20, and 21.

Virginia Baxter, Gvt. Soph,

Retirement Discussed By McCain

President McCain contrasted the College's retirement income plan with the Kansas Public Employees retirement plan at a general faculty meeting in the All-Faith chapel yesterday at 4 p.m.

The Kansas State plan is the Teachers' Insurance Annuity association-type plan endorsed by the Board of Regents. The Kansas Public Employees plan was proposed by the League of Municipalities and has been accepted by the Legislative council.

Under the TIAA-type plan, employees would contribute 5 per cent and employers would contribute 5 per cent plus provisions for past service benefits, while under the Public Employees plan the employee would contribute 4 per cent with the employer contributing approximately 7 per cent, according to President McCain.

McCain's comparison of the two plans, as to participation and coverage, stated that the K-State plan would be compulsory after three years of service and after the employee reached the age of 30 years, while the Public Employees plan would be optional for present employees and compulsory for future employees one year after employment. Under both plans employees covered by other state or federal retirement plans would be excluded.

McCain compared retirement age, benefits in addition to social security, and an employee's leaving before retirement.

spoke to Student Council at its regular meeting in the Union last night concerning LUNA. She said that Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., United States representative to the United Nations who had formerly been scheduled to keynote the affair, had cancelled his appearance. She said she felt there was a good chance that Truman would accept the speaking engagement.

SC tabled a motion to make the first school day after the regional basketball tournament in Lawrence an athletic holiday, in the event Kansas State should win. The motion will be reconsidered next Monday.

In other action, the Council established committees to investigate optional attendance; to evaluate its program of publishing teachers' names with the courses they will teach before enrollment; to study a proposition to make the between-semesters vacation shorter and the Easter vacation longer; and to study the feasibility of charging to park at K-State athletic events.

The Council also passed a motion to confine all posters and signs to signboards which will be made available. However, SC indicated four exceptions: campaigns connected with the Student Governing association, senior elections, FMOC, and Homecoming. Size of the signs will be limited to 14 x 22 inches, and they must be approved in the Union activities center before posting. The new sign rules are effective Monday, with a one-week grace period during which violators will not be penalized.

New Staters May Buy RP Picture Receipts

Couples Occupy New Apartments

Jardine terrace apartments are housing 24 additional married students and their families this semester. According to the Housing office, these 24 new apartments are a part of a project which is to be finished by July. Jardine Terrace will then have three groups of five buildings each and the total number of Jardine apartments will be 450.

The students who are moving into the new building will find the same type of apartments as the first group completed, with a few minor changes. The new apartments are decorated in lighter colors, have more kitchen counter space, and have picture molding so that pictures may be hung without injury to the walls.

Although some of the furnishings have not yet arrived, many of the families have begun to move in. The Housing office has supplied some temporary wooden chairs until others arrive. Thornton Edwards, director of housing, expects all furniture to be delivered within 10 days.

Members of the Franklin Davis family, who moved into their apartment February 1, are pleased with the housing. They occupy one of the two-bedroom apartments in the new building. Davis, an English sophomore who commuted from Frankfort to the College last year, says that this situation is quite an improvement.

The Davises have a son, Walter, and two daughters, Judith and Peggy. The family had been planning to move to Manhattan for some time, having placed its name on a waiting list for Jardine terrace apartments a year ago.

As more new apartments in Jardine terrace are opened, apartments in the old housing barracks will be closed. According to Edwards, no one will be compelled to move out of the old housing, but no new appointments will be made for students

SU May Expand; Regents Approve

The Board of Regents has authorized the College to request preliminary plans for an addition to the K-State Union, it was announced at the Union Governing Board meeting yesterday.

The possible addition for the Union, which opened less than three years ago, was discussed and Union Director Loren Kottner said the architect's first concern would be with how and where additions might be made to the present building. Kottner said more room is needed for the food service area, meeting places, and storage space.

He said that by 1962 returns from student fees could finance a $750,000 addition. The Student Union cost $1,650,000, of which $650,000 was provided by student fees. The remainder came from bonds to be paid off over a 20-year period by student fees. Since its opening, air conditioning has been added and the bowling alleys finished.

The Union at present is being used to capacity, Kottner said, and some facilities are already outgrown. Students frequently sit on steps outside the snack bar because the 225 seats are taken.

Work space in the food service area was planned on the basis of an annual income of $175,000; the current income is double this.

Eight to 10 additional meeting rooms are needed to handle anticipated demands. During October and November there were 819 meetings in the Union with a total attendance of 23,000. Requests for meeting space are rejected at an average of 20 a week.

The unanticipated use of Union facilities has left administrators with a shortage problem.

Panhellenic Bans Rush In Summer

Panhellenic council voted to discontinue summer rush for K-State sororities at its first meeting of the semester last night in the Student Union.

The move to discontinue summer rush was made as a result of dissatisfaction expressed by sorority rush chairmen who met with Panhellenic council after Rush Week last fall, according to Alberta Timm, TxC Sr, Panhellenic president.

Miss Timm said that revision of rush rules will be necessary as a result of discontinuing summer rush. She stated that the council hopes to have the new rush schedule completed in two weeks.

Committees for the Panhellenic tea for upperclassmen, Pannel Day for high school seniors, and the Panhellenic handbook were appointed. The tea will be May 3 and Pannel Day will be May 2.

The Panhellenic handbook will be completed and sent to new and transfer students this summer.

Fellowships for Mechanical Engineers Okayed Under Defense Education Act

Kansas State's two National Defense Education act graduate fellowships in mechanical engineering are the only engineering fellowships approved under the new program so far.

A total of 1,000 fellowships—which will be under the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare—is anticipated, but the $400,000 appropriated is sufficient only for 160 at present. President Eisenhower's budget proposes that an additional $4.5 million be appropriated to cover 840 more fellowships.

Purpose of the Defense Education fellowships is to aid students in preparing themselves to teach in colleges and universities, according to Harold Howe, dean of the Graduate school.

Candidates for the three-year fellowships—which pay $2,000 for the first year of study; $2,200 for the second; and $2,400 for the third—must have indicated a desire to go into college teaching and must have had little or no previous graduate training. (For each dependent, another $400 a year is given.)

The Defense Education act limits its federal assistance to new or expanded graduate programs. The Mechanical Engineering department submitted a plan for expansion of its two-year-old program of graduate study leading to the doctorate about a month ago.

According to Dr. Ralph Nevins, head of the department, the entire graduate program of the department will be strengthened, rather than just one phase. The College receives up to $2,500 for each grant to help meet expenses.

The two K-State nominations for the fellowships will be sent to the Office of Education in Washington by March 5. They will be handled through the Mechanical Engineering department.

If These Platters Sell a Million, It Will Prove Silence Is Golden

By Margaret Cooper

THE MOST unique records out are being played in the juke box at the snack bar of the University of Detroit. According to the Detroit Free Press, one is entitled "Silence to Chat By," and for a solid 2½ minutes nothing is heard but silence. It only costs a nickel too! The companion to this disc is "Shhh Go Away." Every 15 seconds a beep flows from the platter—this way you buy enough noise to know you are getting silence. Who knows, these records may be the best 1959 gets to hear.

ROTC at Hardin-Simmons university really does stink—the Armory does that is. During a week-end some animal chose as its eternal resting place the ROTC Armory, and its after-effects are sending out quite an air to the cadets. The Hardin-Simmons Brand observes that it is impossible for a human to get under the building, so the question is, which will last the longer, the cadets or the corpse?

THE MINNESOTA DAILY claims that some brave male wants to build a campus motel at the University of Minnesota. But because of a "misunderstanding" between the prospective builder and the Minneapolis city council, a dubious future is forecasted. In the same town a theater manager has brought a temporary halt to the Student Discount Service plans for reduced theater prices. He claims that students do not have any right to a discount just because they are students. Things look tough all around for the University of Minnesota.

ANOTHER DIFFERENCE between boys and girls, according to a survey made by the O Club at Oregon State college and printed in the College Daily Barometer, is that when girls are asked to look at their fingernails they put their hands out in front of them, fingernails pointing away from them with the back of their hands up. When the fellows were asked, they turned their hands over, palms up and fingers doubled up with fingernails pointing toward them.

FROM the Arizona Wildcat we learn that true justice is being practiced at the University of Arizona. Yes, for the first time students may appeal campus traffic tickets to a student court. This court has the power to reduce, nullify, or uphold the fine. It may not raise a fine. This is all well and good, but at the present time the court has just one drawback—no judges!

A FRATERNITY HOUSE needs a house-mother just like an artist needs a camera—at least this is the attitude assumed by some fraternity men at the University of North Dakota. The Dakota Student states that these men believe the hiring of a house-mother is unnecessary as well as expensive. However, the difference a housemother makes in a house might surprise some of these un-miss-guided men.

House Committee Takes Up Job Of Reapportioning Kansas House

By UPI

A House committee took up the ticklish question of reapportionment again today.

The 125-member House has not been reapportioned since 1909 and in that 50 years tremendous population shifts have taken place.

The committee yesterday studied three varied methods designed to re-divide Kansas districts for representation in the House, and the members hoped to view several other plans today.

"It might be just as simple to cut it back to 105, one (representative) for each county," Rep. Max Dice (R-Johnson), chairman of the committee said.

His group appeared dissatisfied with a Democratic-sponsored bill.

The Democratic measure would talk one seat from Atchison, Bourdon, Cherokee, Douglas, Labette, Leavenworth, Lyon, Marshall and Sumner counties, distributing them among four populous counties. It would give two new seats to Johnson county, one to Saline, four to Sedgwick and two to Wyandotte.

Also nearly ruled out was the equal proportions method used by Congress to apportion the U.S. House of Representatives.

Under this plan, Sedgwick would have nine representatives, Wyandotte six, Johnson four, Shawnee four, Reno two and all other counties one representative each.

Dr. F. H. Guild, head of the legislative research division, then presented a third alternate.

Under it, seven two-representative counties would lose one seat each, nine counties would be entitled to two, and the four "big" counties would share the remaining 11 seats.

Diplomats Optimistic about Chances For Big Four Meeting on Germany

Compiled from United Press International by John Hokanson
London—A 12-year-old cold war ice jam has begun cracking.

For the first time since the Geneva summit conference in 1955 and the abortive Big Four foreign ministers' meeting that followed it, Western diplomats saw a faint chance today of genuine cold war negotiations with the Soviets—not simply exchanges of propaganda speeches from prepared positions.

Western diplomats hoped that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' visit to London, Paris and Bonn this week may help break the ice still further.

There is pretty general conviction among diplomats in Europe now that a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting on Germany, Berlin and other cold war issues will take place this spring—probably in Geneva and probably at the end of April.

Ship Search Continues

Halifax, Nova Scotia—Reports of faint radio signals and improved weather conditions spurred an armada of ships and planes today in the search for survivors from the Danish freighter Hans Hedtoft.

The new 2,875-ton vessel was believed to have sunk 37 miles south of Cape Farewell, Greenland, last Friday after sending a radio message saying it had struck an iceberg. Four days of searching have failed to locate a lifeboat or any trace of the 95 persons aboard the ship.

A radio station near Copenhagen, Denmark, and the Danish ship Umanak reported that they picked up signals last night on the two radio frequencies that could be used by the automatic transmitters on the Hedtoft's lifeboats.

Loan Funds Allocated

Washington—Federal funds for student loans under the 1958 Defense Education act began flowing today.

Education Commissioner, Lawrence G. Derthick announced allocation of student loan funds totaling six million dollars to 1,227 colleges and universities in 49 states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

College students and high school graduates may apply for the loans to any of the institutions which have received federal funds. Each college will handle its own student funds and will pick the students who will be granted such loans to enable them to continue their schooling.

Senate Funds Approved

Washington—Congress apparently has decided there are more problems than ever facing the nation.

Naturally, they have to be investigated.

The Senate was hard at work today finishing up the job of supplying itself with funds for this purpose.

One member, Senate Republican Leader, Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.), took a skeptical view of the business. He predicted the Senate soon would be investigating "things on the moon."

Dirksen made his forecast after the Senate yesterday approved the requests of more than 30 investigatory committees and subcommittees for about $3,522,500 in funds for 1959.

Dirksen said it appeared the 86th Congress would break all records for investigative spending.

Airlines May Merge

Brussels, Belgium—Five West European airlines are considering joining forces to compete on more equal terms with American and British lines, aviation sources said there today.

Included are Belgium's Sabena airline, Holland's KLM, West Germany's Lufthansa, Italy's Alitalia and Air France. The new airline would eliminate intra-European competition for Europe's 160 million potential passengers.

The National airlines of the "Little Europe" nations—which already have pooled atomic energy, coal and steel production and are abolishing customs barriers—will merge to form the new airline, according to the informants.

May Restore Salaries

Topeka—The Kansas Senate yesterday took the first step toward passage of a bill to restore prior salary levels to maintenance workers at Kansas university and Kansas State college.

The maintenance employees prior to January 1, were paid prevailing wages comparable to similar jobs at Lawrence and Manhattan, which were about 70 per cent of union scale.

The Senate held a two-hour meeting, its longest of the current session, passing seven bills and hearing introduction of 12 new measures.

Tickets for the Kansas State-Kansas basketball game at Lawrence on February 27 will be placed on sale to K-State students at 9 a.m. tomorrow, according to Frank Mosier, Wildcat ticket manager.

Big Three Retain Top Rankings In Coaches' Weekly Cage Rating

By UPI

Kentucky, North Carolina, and Kansas State remained 1-2-3 today in United Press International's major college basketball ratings, but Cincinnati replaced North Carolina State in fourth place.

St. Louis was the only newcomer in the top 10. The Billikens, one of two teams which whipped St. John's (N.Y.) last week, moved from 11th to ninth and appeared in the select group for the first time since the first weekly ratings of the season on December 9. St. John's, beaten also by Loyola (Ill.) Saturday night, slipped from eighth to 11th.

There were several minor changes in positions by other teams in the top 10. While North Carolina State slipped to fifth, Michigan State advanced from seventh to sixth. Auburn, K-State's league-leading Wildcats made Nebraska their 12th straight victim last night as they defeated the Cornhuskers, 50-43, in a Big Eight basketball game at Lincoln.

A capacity crowd jammed the Coliseum to see the Wildcats build up a 24-19 halftime lead and then fight off a late Husker rally.

K-State took an early 6-1 lead, but Nebraska tied it at 6-6. Wally Frank hit a 25-footer and Bob Boozer canned a free throw to put the Cats ahead, 9-6, only to see the Cornhuskers take the lead for the first time on free throws by Wayne Hester and Al Maxey.

The lead changed hands several times before Don Matuszak started a K-State splurge which widened the Cat advantage to 21-15.

Boozer gave the Wildcats a seven-point lead with a three-point play, but Herschell Turner came back with a hook shot that closed out the first half scoring.

Turner hit another hook to start the second half and Bob Harry netted a 20-footer as the Huskers narrowed the gap to a single point.

Boozer and Mickey Heinz then combined for five points that gave K-State a 29-23 lead.

The Wildcats began to pull away midway through the second half and a set shot by Frank with 7:40 remaining pulled them into a 10-point lead, 40-30.

The visitors retained a 10-12 point lead until the final two minutes, when Nebraska started its stretch drive.

Maxey hit a jump shot and Turner added two fielders, but it was too late for the Cornhuskers. Matuszak scored on a layup for the game's final two points.

Frank picked up his fourth foul with 4:07 left in the first half and was forced to sit out most of the final period. Heinz, however, took up most of the slack, scoring two field goals and two free throws for six points.

Boozer again led the K-State attack, scoring 22 points on nine fielders and five from the charity line.

Turner and Maxey were the sparkplugs for the Huskers with 16 and 14, respectively, but they received little support from their teammates.

The Wildcats hit 21 of 52 field goal attempts for a 40 per cent shooting average, while the Huskers had 14 of 50 for only 28 per cent.

Nebraska, however, got 48 rebounds against 32 for K-State.

Eldon Miller Wins Basketball Contest

Eldon Miller, TJ Jr, won yesterday's Roundball Picks contest with his prediction of a 43-40 K-State win over Nebraska. The Wildcats won the game, 50-43.

Miller foresaw Bob Boozer as the top Cat scorer with 19 points. The K-State center actually scored 22.

A total of 20 students entered the contest, with 18 predicting a K-State win and only two guessing a Cornhusker victory.

Cats Get Mustang Cager

John Engelmann, 6-8 cager who recently announced he would leave Southern Methodist university between semesters, has enrolled at K-State.

Engelmann, a former high school star at Hiawatha, Kans., has two full years of eligibility left after dropping off the Mustang basketball squad before seeing any action.

The cager will become eligible to play for K-State during the second semester next year. However, according to N. C. A. A. rules, he must wait until the 1960-61 season if he wants to use his entire two years of eligibility.

After finishing high school, Engelmann enrolled at Southern Methodist, although he was also considering K-State. "I thought I would have a better chance to play center at Southern Methodist than at Kansas State," he said.

"I learned a lot about basketball by watching Jim Krebs while I was a freshman," Engelmann said. "I'm not sorry I went to S. M. U."

Although he did not letter his sophomore year, Engelmann saw considerable action for the Mustangs, playing both the forward and center positions.

Engelmann said he also considered transferring to Springfield, but decided on K-State because of its higher quality of competition.

was 22 points behind with a 12-1 record, nine first-place votes, and 294 points.

K-State, 15-1, also received nine votes for first and 262 points. Cincinnati, 13-2, received 223 points. North Carolina State, 14-2, was only six points farther back in fifth place with a first-place vote and 217 points.

Michigan State, 11-2, collected 163 points and Auburn, 14-0, was only one point behind in seventh place with 162. Bradley, 14-2, received 76 points, St. Louis, 13-2, drew 67, and West Virginia, 16-3, received 37.

Each coach votes for 10 teams in the order he ranks them nationally. Points are awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis for votes from first through 10th place.

PREVIEWING A HAWAIIAN DANCE for Friday's Feast of Nations variety show, are Louise Kusuda, HEN Fr, and Pauline Nomura, HEN Fr.

International Feast Slated for Friday

Hula dancers from Hawaii, dancing from the Philippines, and a guitar singer from Chile will be a few of the highlights at the annual Feast of Nations supper and variety show Friday at 6:30 p.m., at the Manhattan First Methodist church.

The supper menu will be featuring native dishes from approximately ten different countries including India, China, Mexico, the Hawaiian Islands, and the Philippines.

According to Feliciano Sarmiento, FT Soph, president of the Cosmopolitan club, "the Feast of Nations will be both educational and entertaining. Students can learn much about the issues abroad and in the Middle East from foreign students."

Approximately 150 tickets have been sold and they are still available at the booth in the Union.

The Feast of Nations has been an annual affair for almost thirty years, and a picture of the first one in 1930 is on display at the ticket booth.

The Feast is sponsored by the Cosmopolitan club to better acquaint foreign and American students and to raise money for the Cosmopolitan fund which makes loans to needy foreign students.

By DORIS MILLER

"The average person doesn't begin to realize how important art is in his life," claims Asst. Prof. Elmer J. Tomasch of the Architecture and Allied Arts department. "Their clothing, furniture, book covers, even the label on their cigarette has been designed by someone of creative ability."

In addition to teaching figure drawing and commercial illustration, Tomasch is in his fourth year as the art editor of the "K-Stater," an alumni magazine. He does all the layout of the pages, any sketching or lettering that needs to be done, and selects the photograph for the cover.

Tomasch's interest in drawing and painting lies mostly in the figure. As a result, he likes those artists who share his interest, such as Gogan, Van Gogh, and Peter Breughel, whose main subjects were people. He paints mostly in oils as this medium allows him to work more slowly and deliberately than water color. In oil, he explains, an entire area can be painted over if needed; this isn't possible in water color.

Tomasch classifies himself as "middle-of-the-road" in his art. He doesn't care for the extreme modern or conservative modern painters. His work is mostly modern, he claims, since "no one likes to think of himself as old-fashioned." However, he did say that his work would be considered old-fashioned by the extreme modern painters.

He also enjoys drawing caricatures. "It's a lot of fun. I often do it for my own entertainment and amusement. I drew them at the World's Fair in 1939

SGA Funds, Drive Group Aims at $5,000 Charity Goal

A goal of $5,000 has been set for the annual K-State Charity Drive, sponsored by the Union Funds and Drives committee, to be on the campus February 9-13.

According to Jim Fairchild, BA Fr, chairman of the drive, "Kansas State in previous years has lagged far behind the other schools in the Big Eight. Our $450 last year was a poor showing in comparison to Iowa university's $9,000 and Kansas university's $4,000."

Fairchild feels that "if every student and faculty member on this campus would contribute at least one dollar, K-State would be doing its part towards making the Big Eight drive successful."

The World University service will receive 45 per cent of the contributions to aid in the construction of student unions, student hospitals, and other buildings for students in foreign countries.

The American Cancer society, the American Heart association, and the muscular dystrophy organization each receive 15 per cent of the total for research work.

The remaining 10 per cent will be given to the Riley County United Fund to help support the Boy Scouts and other service organizations, Fairchild stated.

A contest between Greeks and independents is being planned to determine which group is the most generous towards charity.

The Interfraternity Pledge council will be accepting contributions in booths located in the Union, Anderson hall, the Library, and Waters hall. Those living in Greek and independent houses and in the dorms will be contacted by their house representative. A collection will also be taken up at the K-State-KU basketball game February 11.

Various projects have been planned for the week by the Religious Co-ordinating council to raise money for the charity drive.

Estimate of Enrollees Revised, Set at 6,300

"At the time of final enrollment, 6,300 students are expected to enroll," E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar said today. "This represents a normal 6 per cent drop from the first semester," he stated.

At the close of regular enrollment the total was about 6,100 and the Registrar's office expected an enrollment figure comparable to the 6,458 figure of last spring.

Of the six schools, only the School of Arts and Sciences and the Graduate school have increased enrollment over the same time last year. There will be approximately 700 students in agriculture; 2,535 in arts and sciences; 1,725 in engineering and architecture; 470 in home economics; 270 in veterinary medicine; and 600 in the Graduate school.

The number of freshman is up from last spring; sophomores are approximately the same; and junior and senior enrollments are down slightly. In a breakdown on classes, there are 1,650 freshman, 1,475 sophomores, 1,330 juniors, 1,140 seniors, 30 fifth-year students, 75 special students, and 600 graduates.

Business Staff Positions Now Open on Yearbook

and also for a short while in California when I was visiting there."

When he came here in 1947, this was his first college position. He had previously worked in New York City for the Martin-Goodman Publications. He decided to teach because he felt that it would give him a chance to do more work on his own. "In the commercial field there is not much time left to work for yourself. I like the teaching field better because it gives me this time to experiment, and I feel it allows me to grow."

His advice to students planning on entering the art profession is "to get a sound foundation in drawing. If a person can draw well, he will have a good start."

Tomasch has exhibited his paintings in Cleveland, Ohio, in the Cleveland Museum of Art and in New York City, as well as in Kansas. He has had several paintings exhibited in the Union and in the Manhattan library.

Tomasch attended the Cleveland Institute of Art and graduated from West Missouri university. He has done some study here at K-State.

Mrs. Tomasch doesn't share her husband's drawing ability, but he says that she was an excellent figure skater and was a professional at one time.

Book Sales Near $3,100

Total sales for the student book exchange are approximately $3,100, according to Tom Cour, ChE Sr, manager of the exchange. This is $700 better than last semester's total. After checks are sent to the students for their books, Cour estimates that there will be about $180 before other expenses are paid.

About 400 students took their books to the exchange. The exchange handled 1,200 books.

Cour has asked that students pick up their books and money at the book exchange instead of in the Union lobby as originally announced. The exchange will be open all day Wednesday and Thursday until noon.

All books not collected by Thursday noon may be obtained later by contacting Cour. Checks not collected by the appointed time will be sent through the mail but there may be a small charge to cover the cost of mailing.

SU Could Ease Space Problem By Utilization of Present Space

THE BOARD OF REGENTS has authorized the College to request the State architect to employ an associate architect to make preliminary plans for an addition to the K-State Union. This is a move which is obviously and badly needed.

The Union, since its opening less than three years ago, has brought about a significant change in campus life. We believe it has helped to produce a degree of unity which was not evident on the campus before its opening in March of 1956, and we are glad to see that it is expanding to fulfill its function.

There is no doubt that the Union is used extensively, and as Loren Kottner, Union director, reported to the Governing board Monday night, has already outgrown some of its facilities. Kottner said primary needs are for more food service area, more meeting rooms, and more storage space.

HOWEVER, we cannot go along with Kottner completely when he says the Union is being used to capacity. That the food service area is sorely in need of expansion is evident, but as for meeting rooms and storage space, we would ask why the still unfinished third floor could not be finished, furnished, and used to help alleviate the situation. This seems to us to be an area used infrequently and, for the most part, wasted. Although it would not meet the growing demands on the Union, it seems foolish that it should not be used when this demand is so great.

Why not go ahead and expand the Union, but at the same time, why not use the present space to the fullest?

And in expanding the Union we hope that some careful planning will be done. Plans for the Union itself have been severely criticized and we hope this can be avoided with the plans for expansion.

AND SPEAKING OF THE UNION brings to mind a lot of dirty, littered tables—in the stateroom. We realize that since the Union asks that stateroom users carry out their own dishes, it is stateroom users who are at fault to a certain extent. However, since the Union doesn't supply the customer with equipment for cleaning tables when finished, it seems that this is the Union's responsibility and someone is falling down on the job.—st

Sixty-five Persons Feared Lost in Crash Of Airliner into New York's East River

Compiled from United Press International by John Hokason

New York—A new American Airlines turbo-prop Electra plane en route from Chicago with 73 persons aboard crashed into 30 feet of water in the East River last night when it missed its approach to LaGuardia Airport in fog and drizzle.

Nearly eight hours after the 11:45 p.m. EST crash, only nine persons had been picked up alive from the icy ocean estuary and one of them died in a hospital. Several were in critical condition.

Thus it appeared that 65 persons were killed. Only 25 bodies were recovered during the night.

Two Civil Aeronautics board officials began an immediate investigation of the tragedy which occurred a mile from the airport when the four-engine plane was making a standard instrument approach. An eyewitness said there was an explosion at the time of the crash.

Dulles Arrives in London

London—U.S. Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, flew to Europe today to discuss a "new book" Western policy on Germany and a possible go-it-alone mission to Moscow by British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan.

Dulles' plane arrived at London airport at 12:22 p.m. (7:22 a.m. EST).

He will confer with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd this afternoon and meet with MacMillan at 10 Downing street this evening.

MacMillan was understood to have received an invitation from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to visit Moscow in the near future. Informed sources said he will defer a decision until he talks with Dulles.

There was as yet no official confirmation of the reports which also were carried in most London newspapers that MacMillan had been invited to the Soviet capital.

MacMillan was said to be anxious to accept the invitation. But reports from Washington said Dulles opposed the idea and will try to talk MacMillan out of it. French Premier Charles DeGaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer also were reported "cool" to the idea.

Dulles' stopover in London was the beginning of a four-day round of conferences with Western government leaders here, in Paris and Bonn. He was said to be seeking support for a "flexible" policy on the problems of Berlin, Germany and European security.

Navy Secretary Resigns

Washington—William B. Franke will succeed Thomas B. Gates Jr. as Secretary of the Navy on June 1.

Gates resigned yesterday but agreed to President Eisenhower's request to stay on the job for three months while Navy programs are presented to Congress.

The President promptly named Franke, now undersecretary of the Navy, to the top post. A 64-year-old accountant, Franke joined the government in 1951 as a special assistant to the defense secretary.

The White House said Eisenhower also intended to nominate Fred A. Bantz, now assistant secretary for material, to replace Franke as undersecretary, and Cecil P. Milne, a deputy secretary of defense, to succeed Bantz.

Highway Death Rate Falls

Chicago—The nation's highway death rate dropped to an all-time low per miles traveled last year, but traffic accidents still killed at least 37,000 Americans.

The National Safety Council, in its annual accident summary today said the traffic fatality rate of 5.6 deaths per 100 million miles traveled was the lowest in motoring history.

In addition, the death rate from all types of accidents in 1958 also hit a new low of 52.5 persons killed per 100,000 population.

Motor vehicle accidents were the biggest accidental killer and home accidents were second, claiming 27,000 lives.

The overall accident toll for last year was 91,000 killed and 9,100,000 injured. The financial loss was estimated at just under 12 billion dollars by the Council.

The traffic death count was down 4 per cent from 1957 when the previous record low of six deaths per 100 million miles was set.

In all, the Council said, one out of every 19 persons in the United States was disabled by injury last year.

The only catastrophe in 1958 which killed more than 50 persons was the Our Lady of the Angels parochial school fire in which 93 died.

The numerical drop in highway deaths last year was 1,700 as compared with 1957.

Inquiring Reporter

Reporter's Popularity Shaken by Recent Poll

While clearing out the desk of all the miscellaneous items that accumulated during the reign of the first semester staff, we ran across some old Inquiring Reporter columns that never seemed to have made the Collegian, for one reason or another.

Not wishing to be accused of concealing public opinion, we have decided to run shortened versions of these surveys, with a few excerpts and quotes.

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT INQUIRING REPORTERS?

This evidently was a poorly phrased question. Twelve of the 31 students imposed upon responded with physical rather than verbal answers. The reporter spent happy weekend in Student Health, interviewing nurses. He found, incidentally, that an average of seven of 10 nurses are not practical.

DO YOU FEEL THAT LATER CLOSING HOURS COULD BE SUBSTITUTED FOR BIOLOGY II?

In administrative circles, this raised quite a furor. Vague threats of chastisement and censorship floated around. No action was taken however. Nor were any answers as such received to the reporter's inquiry. Chuckles, winks, and good-natured jabs in the ribs by an elbow were all the reporter could get for his efforts.

DO YOU THINK THE COLLEGIAN COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH, FOR EXAMPLE, THE NEW YORK TIMES?

Answers to this question, which were withheld from the public by the staff at the time, could be summarized by the words of Tennessee Slag, Eng Gr, who noted, "I feel the Collegian could be compared favorably with a poorly edited seed catalog." Others were not nearly so kind, however, and only the most ethical journalist could blame the former staff from covering up the numerical results. In a turnout beaten in number only by the name change referendum, 3,916 students renewed the staff's faith—in the New York Times.

IF THE NAME OF KANSAS STATE COLLEGE WERE CHANGED TO KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, WOULD YOU SUPPORT A MOVE TO CHANGE IT BACK AGAIN?

Two of the 17 interviewed—both agriculture majors—said that indeed they would, while 14 indignantly replied that they would endorse a countermove to crush the proposed move. The other favored some sort of compromise, such as Kansas State College of Agriculture and University of Applied Science, or "something similarly fitting."

Cat Cagers Still Third Best In Associated Press Ratings

The K-State Wildcats retained their grip on third place in the Associated Press weekly basketball ratings and most of the other teams in the top 10 remained unchanged.

The poll was taken before K-State's 50-43 victory over Nebraska at Lincoln on Monday night.

Kentucky was again rated first, with a comfortable lead over North Carolina, while the rest of the teams remained the same until seventh place was reached. St. John's (N.Y.) dropped out of that position following a road trip on which it lost to St. Louis and Loyola (Ill.)

Michigan State and Bradley took over seventh and eighth, respectively, and St. Louis was rated ninth.

Kentucky's Wildcats defeated three Southeastern conference opponents last week to build their season's record to 17 victories against a lone defeat, suffered at the hands of Vanderbilt. The Wildcats scored 296 points in the three games against Georgia Tech, Georgia, and Florida, against 171 for the combined opposition.

These victories so impressed the 104 sportswriters and broad-

The Kansas Jayhawks will be trying to retain their position in the first division of the Big Eight conference race tonight as they entertain the Oklahoma Sooners in the final meeting of the teams this season. Tipoff time is 7:35 p.m. in Allen fieldhouse.

Kansas was dropped into a fourth place tie with Oklahoma at three wins and two losses when Colorado slipped by the Jayhawks, 66-64, last Saturday at Lawrence. This was the first league defeat suffered by KU this season on its home floor. In their first three league outings the Jayhawks had posted wins over Oklahoma State, Missouri and Iowa State.

Oklahoma has fallen victim to league-leading Kansas State and arch-rival Oklahoma State, while edging Missouri and Iowa State in addition to a 45-38 victory over Kansas. With a 40-39 victory over the Air Force Saturday, the Sooners are sporting a 9-7 overall record.

Oklahoma has a jinx to overcome in the tilt tonight. The Sooners have never won a game in Allen fieldhouse, losing the finale of '55 in Lawrence and all three games there since. Also the Sooners have not swept a series from Kansas since 1949, when they won both league matches plus a meeting in the pre-season tournament.

Bufs Worry Cat Coach

K-State cleared a major hurdle on its way to another Big Eight basketball title Monday, but Coach Tex Winter is worried about an even bigger hurdle in the Colorado Buffaloes.

"The Buffaloes will be hard to beat at Boulder Saturday," said Winter. "We will have to play a good ball game to win."

"If K-State isn't the best team in the Big Eight, Colorado certainly is," added the Wildcat coach.

K-State has already beaten the Buffaloes twice, winning 67-66 in the finals of the Big Eight tournament and 89-58 in a game at Manhattan.

Winter, however, believes the easy Wildcat victory over the Bufs in their last meeting will make it even harder for the Cats to win at Boulder.

"They will be up for us," he said. "Every time one of them starts to slack up a bit during the game he will remember the 31-point licking we gave them at Manhattan and bear down all the harder."

Howie Shannon, K-State assistant coach, thinks the Buffaloes could have beaten Kansas a lot worse than they did last Saturday. The score was 66-64.

"Colorado hit only 18 of 31 free throws," explained Shannon. "Besides that, both Don Walker and Russ Lind missed several easy layups. The Buffaloes should have won it by 25 points."

Winter is glad that K-State has the victory over Nebraska at Lincoln under its belt, but thought the Cats could have hit more shots over the Cornhusker zone.

"We missed Sonny Ballard against Nebraska," Winter said. "We could have used his outside shooting against their zone."

"Nebraska has two good floor men in Al Maxey and Herschell Turner. Both of them can jump very well, and along with George Swank and Bob Harry, they are tough off the boards. If Nebraska would have played a running game instead of deliberate ball, I think they would have beaten us."

Buff Cagers Whip Tigers At Columbia

Colorado handed Missouri its tenth straight loss last night, 65-59, after holding the Tigers scoreless through the first eight minutes of the second period.

Jerry Schroeder for Colorado and Al Abram for Missouri each got 17 points. Schroeder was backed up ably by Don Walker and John Musciano, who hit 11 each.

The win put Colorado solidly in conference second place, with a 5-1 record, behind undefeated Kansas State.

KU-K-State Game Will Be Televised

The Kansas State-Kansas university basketball game here next Wednesday night will be televised, according to an announcement made yesterday by K-State Athletic Director H. B. (Bebe) Lee.

Five television stations serving Kansas viewers have indicated that they will participate in a network telecast of the game, Lee said. Included are WIBW-TV in Topeka, KTVH in Wichita, KMBC-TV in Kansas City, KVTC in Dodge City, and KAYS-TV in Hays.

WIBW-TV will televise its regular Wednesday night programs live from the Field House, according to Rush Evans, of WIBW-TV. Programs included will be the clown show, "Wib's Fun Time," at 5; the "Gordon Elliot Outdoorsman" at 5:30; sports news at 5:45; news at 6 and 10; and the Tex Winter show at 10:15.

The intra-state game was announced a sellout early last December. Tipoff is at the regular time, 7:35 p.m.

Last year's KU-K-State game at Manhattan, March 8, was the first telecast of the K-State basketball game at Manhattan. The program, which was carried over the same stations, also carried a three-hour telecast from the Union ballroom celebrating the Union's second birthday.

Patrol Car Is Damaged

The new Campus patrol car and a state-owned vehicle driven by a graduate student collided Tuesday evening at the intersection of Denison avenue and Kimball drive.

No one was injured in the accident. According to R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the Physical plant, damage to the '59 Plymouth patrol car was estimated at $300 and damage to the truck was about $25. Both drivers are insured.

Paul Nelson, campus patrolman, was driving south on Denison, and Robert Heise, AgE Gr, was traveling east on Kimball. They failed to see each other in time to stop on the icy road. The accident took place at 4:50 p.m. when Heise was returning from the agronomy farm on an errand. He is employed in the Agricultural Engineering department as a graduate assistant.

The patrol car was first used January 14. Since the damaged car will not be ready for use until the middle of next week, a '55 Oldsmobile from the state car pool is filling in. An officer stated that this car is rather difficult to use since it is not equipped for patrolling.

Wingert Appointed Head Of Little UN Assembly

Chuck Wingert, Gvt Sr, will be the president of the general assembly of the Little United Nations assembly, February 19, 20, and 21. LUNA is being sponsored by the Political Science club.

Gary Rumsey, AE Sr, will serve as vice-president. The two officers were chosen yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the LUNA executive committee, composed of both faculty and students.

It is not known yet whether former President Truman will be able to speak at the assembly, according to Virginia Baxter, Gvt Soph, chairman of the event.

The recording secretary of the assembly and the committee officers will be chosen later by a committee. All of the general assembly has been given information about last year's UN meeting and the rules of procedure which will be used at LUNA, to pass on to delegates.

LUNA activities will begin on Wednesday, February 18, with the Cosmopolitan club's international exhibit in the Student Union. An all-College assembly will be Thursday, February 19. Former President Truman is the probable speaker. At 7:30 p.m., the general assembly will be opened in the Student Union ballroom. All 82 nations will be represented by five delegates each. The delegations will be dressed in costumes representing their countries. Several foreign students have helped prepare them.

On Friday, February 20, the five committees will meet at 1 p.m., rather than at 9 a.m. as had been scheduled. The committees are political and security; economic and financial; social, humanitarian, and cultural; trusteeship; and legal. These committees will discuss problems that are in their various areas and will submit bills at the general assembly. These bills will be mimeographed in the evening for presentation.

At 9 a.m. on Saturday, February 21, there will be another meeting of the general assembly, at which time they will discuss the bills and any issues that come before them. The assembly will reconvene at 1 p.m. for its final meeting.

President Will Speak On 'State of College'

President McCain will open the spring assembly schedule with his annual address on the "State of the College." The assembly will be at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow. The President will discuss changes made during the past year and the program for the future.

The assembly will open with several numbers by the Men's Glee club directed by Morris Hayes, assistant professor of music. Speakers for future assemblies will be announced.

The shortened class schedule: 8 a.m. classes, 8:00 to 8:40; 9 a.m. classes, 8:50 to 9:30; 10 a.m. classes, 10:30 to 11:10; 11 a.m. classes, 11:20 to 11:50.

Construction Gives K-State New Look

CONSTRUCTION on the new Student Health building continues at a steady pace. It will replace the temporary barracks which have been in use for several years. Students enrolling next fall will be the first students to enjoy the new facilities.

The KSC campus is "changing clothes," with present construction progressing rapidly on Student Health, men's residence halls, and the Home Economics building. These buildings are scheduled for use by the fall semester of the coming year.

The finishing touches of the planned construction for other buildings should be completed by the year 1970, according to R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the Physical Plant.

Construction and additions to be completed in the future: the new milling addition at $1,300,000; remodeling of Veterinary, Calvin, Anderson, and Thompson halls at $200,000; the Dairy Plant and Poultry building at $1,457,150; the construction of the Physical Science building, the Auditorium, the Nuclear laboratory, and a Child Development lab at $3,696,000.

Major changes have been made on Burt hall since 1955, costing $105,000, and $100,700 of work remains to be done.

A March 1 deadline was set for the construction of the new addition to Kedzie hall, with expenses amounting to $375,000. The addition is to be finished by the fall of 1960.

A new unit of 24 apartments was opened this semester at Jardine.

The reason for the expansion program planned by the Campus Development committee is to provide adequate room for the masses of students who will soon populate the KSC campus.

KS Charity Goal Silly—Unless— Someone Works, Gives More

A GOAL OF $5,000 has been set for the annual K-State Charity drive—some $4,550 more than the drive brought in last year. This seems to be a fine endeavor but may also be rather ridiculous unless someone plans to do a lot more work and a lot more giving than has been done in the past.

The charity drive, sponsored as usual by the SGA Funds and Drives committee but with the help of the Religious Co-ordinating council this year, would certainly seem to be a worthwhile project.

The World University service will receive 45 per cent of the contributions; the American Cancer society, the American Heart association, and the muscular dystrophy organization will each receive 15 per cent of the total for research; and the remaining 10 per cent will be given to the Riley County United Fund to help support the Boy Scouts and other service organizations.

MONEY WHICH GOES to the World University service, according to Lyle Clum, Religious Co-ordinating council president, will be used for such projects as revolving student loan funds to Nigerian students and educational equipment and supplies in other parts of Africa; mobil X-ray units and housing units in the Middle East; construction of tuberculosis wards in the Far East; dormitory equipment, scholarships, and books in southeast Asia; and cash grants to Hungarian refugees.

Going back to the old adage, "Anything worth doing is worth doing well," if the charity drive is worthwhile then why not support it? It is up to K-Staters to decide whether or not it IS worthwhile, and if it isn't then why not do away with it and why not get rid of an SGA committee which has no legitimate function?—st

World News Khrushchev Invites Eisenhower To Moscow for Peace Talks

By JOHN HOKANSON
Moscow—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev today invited President Eisenhower to Moscow as a step toward bringing the two nations together and ending the threat of nuclear war. Khrushchev extended the invitation in a speech in which he also denounced Eisenhower and the U.S. administration for ignoring the "thaw" in the East-West cold war. This, he said, was the policy of "dealers in blood."

He said the tour of the United States by Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan "in particular" helped along this thaw, and added: "Should the President decide to come to our country he would be met with sincere hospitality by our government and the Soviet people."

"A visit of this kind would undoubtedly be useful to both countries and would meet with the approval of the people of the U.S.A. and the Soviet Union," Khrushchev said in the speech before the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist party.

"I have formed the opinion that although Mr. Eisenhower is a general, he does not belong to those military men who in solving disputable questions rely on guns alone and who want to sell all problems by force of arms."

"He has stated more than once that he strives to prevent a war. We value this and hope that his statements will find expressions in constructive needs."

He chided Eisenhower for not allowing Khrushchev himself to tour the United States. "It is not clear for what misdeemeanors the President deprives me of the opportunity," Khrushchev said.

Helmstedt, West Germany—A four-truck American convoy en route to West Berlin passed unhindered today through a Soviet checkpoint where Russian guards detained another U.S. military convoy for 56 hours this week.

The incident indicated the Soviet guards apparently were interested only in allied vehicles traveling from West Berlin to West Germany. The eastbound trucks carried crated goods, but the Soviets made no attempt to inspect them.

The convoy arrived safely in West Berlin following a routine trip across the 110-mile highway connecting the city with West Germany.

Senate Probes Teamsters

Washington — The Senate Rackets committee switched back to Teamsters affairs today after nailing the lid on its case against the Carpenters union.

The Committee returned to the Teamsters after heaving charges of threatened violence and shady business deals involving Carpenter union officials in New York and Des Moines, Iowa.

The Committee planned to look into a disputed election of Teamster Local 208 in Los Angeles involving a friend of union president James R. Hoffa.

Sidney Cohen, former local president, claims he was elected secretary-treasurer over John W. Filipoff, the incumbent, who was backed by Hoffa.

The dispute landed in court. Cohen contended that Filipoff refused to abide by the election and give up the post. Secretary-Treasurer usually is the top job in Teamster locals.

Chief Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the Committee wanted to find out if Teamsters headquarters pressured Cohen to relinquish his claim to the job.

Prof. Prefers Unicameral System To Kansas House Reapportionment

By WANDA EGGERS

Three major changes in the Kansas constitution have been approved by the Kansas Constitutional Revision committee, according to K-State government professor Dr. Louis H. Douglas, a member of the commission.

At a meeting of the commission last Friday, recommendations concerning legislative reapportionment and executive reorganization were accepted. If the proposals on reapportionment are passed in the Legislature, it will be the first time since 1909 that the Kansas legislature will have been reapportioned.

Professor Douglas is personally in favor of a unicameral form of legislature instead of apportioning in proportion to population. It would be politically impractical, however, he says, because legislators would vote against it since it would eliminate some of the legislative positions open now.

Professor Douglas also commented that he thought most of the experts studying the area of political organization are also in favor of the unicameral system.

The compromise plan for reapportionment accepted by the commission divides the Senate according to population and the House in favor of areas. Each county will have one legislative member, with 20 floating members to be apportioned according to population. Reapportionment will be made every 12 years by a commission set up for this purpose.

A member of the Revision commission for two years, Professor Douglas is a member of the Revenue and Finance and the Public Relations committee. Other members of the commission include three ex-governors of Kansas, two retired Kansas Supreme court judges, ex-legislators, and a number of other faculty members from Hays, Pittsburg, and KU.

Serving without pay, Professor Douglas is on call to meet at any time the chairman of the commission wishes. Meetings are held in the capitol in Topeka. They are conducted round-table style with about 22 members participating in an informal way. The meetings are recorded in full, however.

King of Uglies To Be Picked At Annual Ugly Man Dance

The Ugly Man on Campus contest and dance, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, will be in the Student Union ballroom February 7, from 9-12 p.m. Tickets costing $1.50 a couple may be obtained from any candidate, Alpha Phi Omega member, or at the dance. Each ticket carries two UMOG votes.

To add to the festive spirit and novelty of the occasion, members of Alpha Phi Omega urge everyone to wear clashing clothes. Matt Betton's nine-piece band will play for the dance.

Fourteen candidates representing their respective fraternities are competing for the UMOG title. The candidates are Chuck Hamon, Ag Jr, Alpha Gamma Rho; Norman Hostetler, Hum Jr, Alpha Kappa Lambda; Harry Lehw, Sp Jr, Alpha Tau Omega; Kenneth Flagler, BA Sr, Beta Sigma Psi;

John Alstatt, EE Jr, Delta Sigma Phi; Bob Gardner, FT Sr, Farm House; Mark Johnston, BPM

Soph, Kappa Sigma; Joe Money, Psi P Jr, Lambda Chi Alpha; Clancy Norris, PEM Sr, Phi Delta Theta; James Conner, CE Fr, Phi Kappa; John Park, Ar 03, Phi Kappa Tau; Neal VanDoren, LDs Sr, Sigma Chi; Darrell Welch, EE Soph, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Don Potter, Sp Jr, Theta Xi.

The Ugly Man who receives the most votes will be presented with a large traveling trophy. The trophy is the largest on the campus, according to Richard Haas, PEM Fr, publicity chairman for UMOG.

A beard shaving contest is being held in conjunction with the Ugly Man dance this year. All men who accumulated a shaggy growth of whiskers during final week or before are invited to compete. Rules for the contest:

1. Any man, woman, or child (with a beard) may enter.
2. Beards are judged on length and shagginess.
3. Five finalists will be chosen on Saturday, February 7, 3 p.m.

ing to the speed of shave-off are in the Student Union lounge. BE THERE!!

4. Winners will be determined by speed of shave-off at the intermission of the Ugly Man dance.

Prizes for the finalists accorded an Auto-Home electric razor, a Roll-Electric razor, a travel alarm clock, a Charge-a-Light flashlight, and a grooming kit.

Proceeds of the dance go to the Alpha Phi Omega Campus Beautification fund and other scouting projects in the area. Some of the projects covered by the fund are permanent bulletin boards in several large buildings, portable sign boards along the well-traveled paths, and up-keep of the wildcat. Future service projects include new KSU signs to direct visitors to the college and park benches on the campus.

Last year profits for the contest totaled about $500. Acacia's candidate, Dee Burcham, Ar 02, was the winner of the '58 contest.

The three-foot traveling trophy that will be presented to the favorite Ugly Man is being displayed in the Union.

It is an old agricultural trophy that was found in the attic of a Manhattan resident and donated to Alpha Phi Omega for use in the UMOG two years ago. A silver plate with the names of UMOG winners on it will be placed over the inscription now on the trophy that is dated 1916.

Steve Douglas Learns Fast, Says K-State Coach Winter

"Steve Douglas has the kind of intelligence that is easy to coach. He learns fast and can analyze situations quickly in a game."

So said Tex Winter, K-State basketball coach, for whom Douglas has been one of the biggest and most pleasant surprises of the season.

Douglas was ticketed for alternate duty between forward and guard before the season started, but he has started every K-State game at forward since Glen Long was injured in the season's second game.

"I would rather play guard than forward," said Douglas, "but I don't like to switch back and forth from game to game. When I play guard, we usually use a zone defense. My height makes it hard to keep up with a fast little guard in man-for-man play. Then, too, I can use my size to better advantage rebounding when we play zone."

Douglas said wearing glasses while playing doesn't bother him. "I've had them knocked off three times this year, all in the same game," he added. "Sometimes they get smudged, but most of the time I don't even know they are there."

"Douglas' board play and defense are his outstanding traits," said Winter. He fits well into the combination we have. He is effective because he is willing to sacrifice in that he's not always looking for a shot. And he is improving with every game."

The 6-4 junior has scored 99 points for a 5.8 average and is the Cats' third leading rebounder with 105. He is hitting 36 per cent of his field goal attempts and 74 per cent from the free throw line.

Douglas thinks Colorado in the Big Eight tournament and North Carolina State are the best teams K-State has played against this year.

"Even if we aren't supposed to look so far ahead, we can't help but think about how far we can go if we win the conference," said Douglas. "If we do win the Big Eight and get through the Regional, which will be hard, I don't think we will fall apart like we did last year in the finals."

"That was the third time in my basketball career the team I played on was built up big through the regional tournament and got let down in the finals," Douglas said.

In his junior and senior years at Manhattan high school his team won the regional tournament and was defeated in the first game of the state finals.

Easily the top student on the Wildcat squad, Douglas has just less than a straight "A" average. Majoring in government, his career grade average is 3.75.

The son of a K-State history and government professor, Douglas said his biggest moment in athletics came not in college, but in high school. He scored 28 points against Junction City his senior year to clinch the Central Kansas league title for Manhattan.

STEVE DOUGLAS became a starter on K-State's basketball team following Glen Long's injury. Douglas has scored 99 points and has grabbed 105 rebounds in 17 games.

Kansas Whips Sooners, Avenging Earlier Defeat

By UPI

Kansas held Oklahoma to just one field goal through the last 10 minutes of the first half last night and defeated the Sooners, 71-44, in a Big Eight conference game.

With the victory, Kansas ably avenged an early season 45-38 loss at Norman. The win left Kansas in third place in the conference and the loss dropped Oklahoma to fifth.

North Carolina and Cincinnati, meanwhile, continued to pick up steam in their downhill race to conference championships and berths in the N.C.A.A. tournament.

The second-ranked Tar Heels held on to first place in the Atlantic Coast conference last night by turning back Maryland, 64-57, for their seventh straight victory while a 38-point barrage by Oscar Robertson helped Cincinnati down Dayton, 96-74. It was the fourth-ranked Bearcats' ninth straight triumph.

It was the Tar Heels' 13th victory in 14 games. They boast an 8-0 conference record compared to North Carolina State's 9-1 slate.

Eight Sophomore Wrestlers in Lineup As Cats Test Colorado State Tonight

A K-State wrestling squad composed of eight sophomores will meet Colorado State tonight at Greeley in the opener of a three-match road trip.

The young Wildcats will then journey to Colorado Springs for a match against the Air Force academy Friday afternoon and wind up the trip by meeting Colorado at Boulder on Saturday.

"Our schedule is much too rugged," admits Coach Fritz Knorr. "But our sophomores are learning from it. I think they show a little improvement each week. What these three tough ones in succession will do for us, I'm not certain, but there is always the chance that, green as we are, we may sneak in for a win or two."

Knorr named the following lineup for the trip: John Dooley, 123 pounds; Darrell Huggins, 130 pounds; Larry Word, 137 pounds; Dee Gard, 147 pounds;

Cat Forward Injures Knee In Cage Drill

Bob Graham, K-State reserve forward, received a minor knee injury in practice yesterday, but the exact extent of the injury was not determined.

The injury occurred when Graham got a rebound during a scrimmage and headed down the court. According to Tex Winter, K-State coach, Graham slipped slightly and overextended his right knee, which was originally injured last year.

Graham, however, walked off the court.

"I think the knee will be all right," said Winter, "but we won't know for sure until tomorrow."

Steve Douglas, meanwhile, reported for practice after missing yesterday's session following a bruised instep he received in the Nebraska game.

Winter said Douglas did not favor the foot during practice, but did complain that it was a little sore.

Winter also announced that Howie Rice had dropped off the squad between semesters to concentrate on studies. The 6-8 reserve center had appeared in only six games and did not score.

KS, Soviet Milling Schools Compared by Shellenberger

By MARY JO MAULER

Upon returning from a visit to Moscow, Austria, Germany, and the Netherlands, recently, Dr. J. A. Shellenberger, head of the K-State Flour and Feed Milling industries, compared the Soviet Flour Milling Engineering school and the Scientific Research Institute for Grain in Moscow to the K-State milling school which is to be rebuilt here on the campus. While visiting the school, he discovered that it was modern in all ways.

The school is equipped with units of experimental mills, biochemical laboratories, classrooms, offices, and metal and woodworking shops. Dr. Shellenberger felt that one of the most impressive features of the school, is the pilot mill which occupied six stories and is entirely pneumatic and modern.

"The people of Moscow were very friendly and cordial, and everybody on the streets smiled when meeting," Dr. Shellenberger said. Dr. Shellenberger felt that he was genuinely welcome, particularly because he had demonstrated a sufficient interest in the work and research facilities for cereal technology in the USSR to make the trip alone. He hopes that now there can be a greater exchange of ideas in the milling and wheat field with Russia.

Dr. Shellenberger commented that his interpreter was a young lady who was a graduate of the University of Moscow. "She had never been out of the Soviet Union, but spoke marvelous English," he said.

"The streets in Moscow were uncomfortably crowded and all the people were very well dressed," he said. "Good bus and subway systems make for the crowded conditions on the downtown streets."

Dr. Shellenberger attended a meeting of the International Association of Cereal Chemistry in Vienna, Austria before visiting the school in Moscow. This meeting was attended by representatives of 19 nations including the Soviet Union. He also visited a milling equipment company and the milling school in Germany and a newly established wheat marketing office in the Netherlands while on his trip.

Co-educational Class Offered for Bowlers

The first co-educational bowling class is being offered this semester by the Physical Education department.

"The purpose of the co-ed class is to enable the students to socialize as well as improve their bowling skills, says Assistant Prof. Vervyle E. Snyder, teacher of the class. Grading is based on improvement, participation, and skill tests. The only prerequisite of the class is some bowling experience.

Since the mixed bowling class was one of the first classes to close during enrollment, the Physical Education department is going to offer two co-educational bowling classes next fall.

Vet Wives Present Skits

Songs, skits, and a magician highlighted the annual class skit night of the Jr AVMA auxiliary last night in the College auditorium.

The senior veterinary students' wives presented a skit, "The Week is Part," with calendar girls depicting each month of the year.

The junior skit, "Who Killed Vaudeville?" was a variety show including a magician and a takeoff on the television show, "Gun-smoke."

The sophomore wives conducted a minstrel show featuring a soft shoe dance, a pantomime to "Mammie" by Barbara Campbell, and the songs "Never Tell a Lie" and "You Can't Get to Heaven in a Rocking Chair."

A takeoff on the life of a freshman was the theme of the freshman women's presentation.

Students Have Major Role In KS Efficiency—McCain

"Students have a vital role to play in improving college efficiency," President James A. McCain stated in his annual "State of the College" assembly at the Auditorium this morning.

"Here and in other colleges, a 'hyper thyroid' program of campus life and activities is diverting far too much time and energy from the main task—scholastic achievement, McCain said.

The President pointed out that K-State students through the years have been distinguished by their seriousness of purpose and that the great majority of K-State organized activities are constructive in nature and educationally rewarding. "Nevertheless," he said, "excessive activity participation is interfering with efficient pursuit of scholarship. I am enlisting the vigorous support of the faculty and student leaders in a program to restore emphasis to academic affairs."

President McCain discussed the problem of inadequate faculty salaries at Kansas State. He said, "The faculty has been more zealous than ever in seeking non-tax funds to augment state support for research and educational services. More than $1 million in private money—almost all from outside the state —has been received by College departments during the current academic year for such projects as a nuclear reactor, the remodeling of veterinary research laboratories, a digital computer center, and the development of better insecticides for Kansas agriculture.

"Kansas is getting a dollar's worth of direct research benefit from a state expenditure of only 65 cents," the President said.

"The volume of such outside support for the College is directly related to the quality of the College faculty and research staff and is a tribute to our dedicated and competent teachers and scientists. But at present salary schedules, it is becoming increasingly difficult to maintain a first-rate faculty."

President McCain cited a recent national classification of college salary schedules from a rating of AA through F which revealed that Kansas State and the University of Kansas rates well in the E and F category.

"At this level, our two institutions are in competition not with other universities but with high schools employing teachers with only bachelor degrees," he stated.

President McCain attributed lower costs per student credit hour of instruction at K-State in part to:

Larger classes in certain basic subjects where students can be taught as effectively as in smaller classes. The average class size has increased from 17 to 26 in the past five years.

Reductions in the number of new students enrolling each year who clearly lack the ability or motivation to succeed in college and therefore represent a waste of college resources and parental income.

Increased student-faculty ratio, from 12 to 1 to 15 to 1.

PRESIDENT JAMES McCain called upon faculty and student leaders to restore an emphasis on academic life at K-State in the first all-College assembly in the Auditorium today.

Colony Established at KS By Delta Chi Fraternity

The national fraternity of Delta Chi has established a colony on the K-State campus, according to Dean of Students Herbert Wunderlich.

Delta Chi first made contact with the College in 1929 and it wasn't until December 2, 1955, that it obtained rights of colonization. Personnel problems in the national headquarters of Delta Chi prevented any further action until this semester.

Leland Blackledge, Ar 03, enrolled at K-State to act as co-ordinator of the group, and is directing the action of 19 undergraduates in regard to the colonization.

To obtain a charter by the national fraternity, the group must act as a colony for two consecutive semesters, excluding the summer session; have a written notice of support by the national fraternity or local alumni; operate a chapter house; and be approved by the dean of students, the Faculty Council on Student Affairs, and the Interfraternity council or Panhellenic.

Position Available On SC in A&S School

A position on Student Council from the School of Arts and Sciences is open, according to Dick Kail, GA Sr, president of the Arts and Sciences council. Petitions for the opening may be obtained in the Activities Center and must be turned in by Wednesday, January 11, 5 p.m.

NE Department Adds Reactor

K-STATE'S NEW NUCLEAR-REACTOR is given a survey by R. W. Clack, instructor in nuclear engineering. The reactor will be used primarily for student training.

A recent addition in the Nuclear Engineering department is a $25,500 sub-critical reactor. Primarily for use in student training, the reactor may also be used for some future research work, said department instructor, Bob Black.

The graphite reactor, which is six feet square, stands a little over eight feet high. It is a small replica of the one at the nuclear testing plant at Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

Members of the Nuclear Engineering department assembled the reactor in three and one-half 16-hour days near the end of last semester. Mr. Clack, who directed the project, said that the graphite had been cut before being shipped from California.

The main job of the nuclear engineering department in assembling the reactor was to prepare the drawings and assemble the reactor. The color of the reactor resembles the soft lead in some pencils.

Use in teaching is the main practical application for the reactor. Mr. Clack also commented that seniors and graduate students in nuclear engineering are the ones who usually use the reactor in their lab work.

The sub-critical reactor is situated in a small basement room in the new wing of Seaton hall. Behind one of the reactor room walls is another room that contains two and one-half tons of uranium to be used in working with the graphite structure.

The reactor is used to measure a variety of nuclear performances such as the diffusion length of neutrons, thermal utilization, and Fermi-age.

KSDB-FM To Resume Radio Operation Today

KSDB-FM, the K-State student radio station will resume operation today at 5 p.m.

Members of a committee of Sigma Tau, engineering honorary, will select the six finalists for the annual St. Pat's prom scheduled for March 14, at a smoker and tea February 22.

The prom is being conducted in conjunction with the Engineering Open House March 13 and 14. Dean of the School of Engineering and Architecture M. A. Durland will crown the winning couple. The finalists will be chosen from candidates selected by the various departments of engineering. Each department will choose a candidate before February 13.

At a general election March 5 and 6 all engineering students will vote for their favorites from among the six finalists.

General chairman for the prom is Dan Jilka, EE Sr. Other committee chairmen are Tom Cour, Matt Betton's band will play for the prom.

Card Section Is Inactivated

The Union Flashcard committee was inactivated at the Union Program council meeting in the Union last night. The committee now has no functions but will become active again next fall. The chairman, however, will remain on the UPC.

The lost and found auction, a sculpture exhibit, a dance after the K-State-KU game, and the second annual K-State bowling tournament are some of the events planned by Union committees. Chairmen reviewed their committees' programs last semester and announced their plans for this semester.

Summing up last semester's accomplishments by Union committees, Larry Foulke, NE Sr, and UPC chairman said, "The committees have all improved over last year's and if we start to work together, we can even be stronger."

The K-State-Kansas Freshman basketball game will be broadcast Monday evening.

Academic Restoration Needed by K-State

WE WOULD LIKE to second the request made by President McCain in his annual "State of the College" speech this morning for the "vigorous support of the faculty and student leaders in a program to restore proper emphasis to academic affairs."

We believe extracurricular activities including athletics, organizations, and even student government are increasingly overemphasized at K-State and are moving the College further and further away from its true purpose, which is education and, as President McCain stated, "scholastic achievement."

BUT DON'T get us wrong—we enjoy athletics, we believe student government could be a vital part of education, and we see in many campus organizations opportunity for gains in leadership qualities and personality development, as well as education.

But when we see $36,375 of the student activity fee apportionment go to the Athletic department (and this entitles us to nothing but the minor sports), we wonder just where the emphasis is at Kansas State.

OR WHEN we see Student Council members spending meeting time discussing whether or not they should wear Student Council uniform jackets and whether or not they should place their own picture on a bulletin board and seemingly getting nowhere on many major issues, we wonder just how effective this "education" organization is.

And on the matter of campus organizations, we would like to see more projects of the nature of the Little United Nations assembly coming up soon and less balloon-blowing, paper cutting, and poster hanging.—st

Women's Elimination Suggested At Overcrowded Arkansas U

By Margaret Cooper

THE ARKANSAS TRAVELER also printed the solution to the problem of crowded classes at the University of Arkansas—eliminate the women! According to the article, women on the campus are occupying room which should be given to the "more serious men students." They are also dividing men's attention between intellectual pursuits and sex. Evidently the author of this bit of advice is not ready to take a firm stand on the matter, as he did not reveal his name.

SEVERAL STUDENTS at Ohio State university think that their money will hold out just as long as their checks do. During the autumn quarter rubber checks numbered 164 and amounted to $15,000. In order to call a halt to this illegal practice, the University is considering charging a fee for bad checks. An interesting sidelight noted is that more worthless checks were received from men than women.

THE COLORADO STATE university Collegian offers a method to test the extent of your roommate's culture. Ask him, or her, a question such as "If Bach had written 'The Bad-Tempered Clavier,' how many fugues would he have included?" If that query is answered, try "Did Debussy ever sneeze when he wrote his 'Brave New World'?"

WANT TO KNOW what to do with your empty beer cans, or any other cans for that matter? Jim Kraft of the University of Arkansas made news in the Arkansas Traveler recently when he utilized fifty of these discarded containers. Gifted with an artistic talent, Jim cleverly brazed the cans together at irregular intervals until he had a tree-like structure. He then cut slots and slashes in the cans to allow light to come through, giving the effect of lace-work. A mixture of tin and lead was applied for texture and color, followed by a thin coat of lacquer to preserve the gold and silver finish. The completed arrangement stood four feet high. Quite an imagination this fellow has!

A CONTRAST to President McCain's call for more stress on academic life at college is found in the North Dakota State Spectrum. An editorial says, "Too many students on this campus lack enthusiasm for the College and the campus activities. Out of about 3,300 students, how many are active in some campus activities? The same few students can be found participating in several organizations. Why should a few students run the entire campus when there are so many students who could?" The article concludes with, "Are you really sharp or do you just exist?"

U.S. Congressmen Angry with Soviets For Denial of Guilt in Plane Incident

Compiled from United Press International by John Hokanson

Washington — Administration officials, prodded by irate congressmen, were reported today to be preparing a stiff new demand that Russia account for the shooting down of an unarmed American transport by Soviet fighters last September 2.

Officials said the U.S. government planned definite steps to follow up its dramatic disclosure of evidence which it claims proves the Russians deliberately attacked the helpless plane in Soviet Armenia with 17 men aboard.

The U.S. evidence included a tape-recording of intercepted conversations among the Soviet fighter pilots who staged the attack and articles from the Russian Air Force journal describing such an incident.

The Russians claim the plane was not shot down but crashed and burned after "violating" the Soviet air frontier. They deny any knowledge of the 11 airmen still unaccounted for.

The U.S. evidence touched off angry reaction in Congress.

Senate Democratic whip Mike Mansfield (Mont.) said he hoped President Eisenhower would add his own strong personal protest and demand to know why the plane was shot down.

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) ranking Republican member of the Foreign Relations committee, said the incident showed the Soviets have "no moral responsibility."

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) called it "sad and reprehensible." He said "it becomes more and more clear that some day we will have to take a stand against the growing Communist aggression."

The tape-recording showed the Russian pilots gloated as they finished off the unarmed plane. The English translated quoted them as saying:

"I am attacking the target... a transport, four-engined... there's a hit... the target is burning... the tail assembly is falling off... he will not get away, he is already falling... I will finish him off, boys."

A military burial was to take place today at Arlington Cemetery for two unidentified victims among the six bodies the Russians acknowledged finding in the crash and turned over to U.S. authorities.

House Extends Draft

Washington — The House passed by a 381 to 20 vote a bill to extend the draft four more years. An amendment to limit the draft extension to two years was beaten by voice vote. The measure, a high priority item in President Eisenhower's legislative program and backed fully by leaders of both parties, seemed assured of Senate passage by an overwhelming margin.

Ike Asks Gas Tax Hike

Washington—President Eisenhower is asking Congress for a 50 per cent increase in the federal gasoline tax. Most of the state governors are protesting.

Although the Federal government has budgeted more than three billion dollars for Federal aid to highways in the next fiscal year, the states are spending even more. The governors object to the federal government moving heavily into a tax field once reserved largely to the states.

The Federal government now collects three cents a gallon on gasoline and puts the receipts into a trust fund to pay for the highway program authorized in 1956. Eisenhower has asked that the tax be raised to 4½ cents to keep the fund from going into the red. It is uncertain what Congress will do.

Most states are also levying gasoline taxes of six to seven cents a gallon. Twenty-two states and the District of Columbia have a six-cent tax. Kansas levies a tax of five cents per gallon.

Statue Battle Continues

Topeka — The Republican-dominated Senate Ways and Means committee called on Kansas Historical society secretary Nyle Miller to testify on Gov. George Docking's $5,000 budget request for a statue at Vicksburg, Miss.

Asked if the State should spend money for a memorial, Miller paused, then said:

"Well, I'm a Kansas booster and I do like to see us put our best foot forward. If it is a weed patch maybe it should be at least mowed."

Newspaper Sales Tax Need Expressed by Gov. Docking

By UPI

Gov. George Docking said yesterday that maybe a lot of states didn't have the "guts" to slap a sales tax on newspapers, but he isn't afraid to do it.

In a heated exchange with Larry Miller, executive secretary of the Kansas Press association, the Democratic Governor said he will veto a bill that would exempt newspapers from the state's 2½ per cent sales tax—if the measure passes the Legislature.

"The tax should be socked on the newsprint and ink, that's where it belongs," Docking said.

"Newspapers are subsidized now because of low postage rates."

Miller said most papers use trucks because the mail is too slow.

When Miller said most of the other states in the Union do not collect a newspaper sales tax, Docking snapped:

"I don't give a damn what other states are doing. Maybe they didn't have guts enough to tax the papers. I'm not afraid."

The House Printing committee yesterday introduced a bill to exempt ink and newsprint and the sales of newspapers from the sales tax. No sales tax is levied on those items now.

GOP Fights State Budget

By UPI

House - Senate Republicans charged yesterday that Gov. George Docking's budget spurs inflation by "spending money we don't have."

In a joint caucus, the G.O.P. ripped the Governor's financial proposals, labeling them "a prime example of Democratic deficit spending that was inflationary in nature."

Rep. Robert Anderson (R-Ottawa), chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, dissected the Governor's budget with a sharp fiscal knife, exposing what he called "inadequacies" and "inflationary tendencies."

Employment Opportunities Now Opening for Summer

Summer employment openings for K-State students are beginning to come into the Placement Center, according to Chester E. Peters, director of placement.

A representative from Pan American Petroleum company will interview accounting juniors February 13 for summer work. Students interested should sign the interview schedule and complete a personal data sheet prior to the interview. Personal data forms may be obtained at the Placement Center.

Juniors in civil engineering, electrical engineering, industrial engineering, mechanical engineering, chemistry, physics, or general business may qualify for the Kodak summer employment program in Rochester, N.Y. The applicants should have grades which are in the upper quarter of their class, be strong in extra-curricular activities, be available for a minimum of ten weeks of work, and be recommended by their department. Application forms may be obtained from the Placement Center and must be mailed by February 15.

A representative of the Cheley camp will be on campus February 13 to interview students that have sent in a written application. Openings include positions for counselors, laundrymen, and institutional food managers. These positions are open to both males and females.

Bob Jones Given Ag Econ Award

Bob Jones, AE Jr., was presented an $800 agricultural economics scholarship yesterday at the agricultural seminar.

He has assisted with several research projects in agricultural economics while maintaining a 3.3 grade average at K-State. Jones plans to attend graduate school after receiving his first degree.

The scholarship, provided by the Chicago Board of Trade, is a part of the awards program conducted by the National Committee on Boys and Girls club work, in cooperation with the Cooperative Extension Service.

Bob Reynolds Resigns Post; Taylor Will Be Replacement

Bob Reynolds, K-State defensive backfield coach, has resigned his post effective February 15. H. B. "Bebe" Lee, K-State director of athletics, announced today.

Reynolds, who has been at K-State only one year, will become a coach at Morton high school in Cicero, Ill.

The Wildcat assistant coach will be replaced by Cecil "Corky" Taylor, former all-conference half-back for K-State in 1954.

Reynolds came to K-State last February after Steve Susic, former Wildcat backfield coach, left to take a similar job at Illinois.

A former Iowa griddier, Reynolds was athletic director and football coach at Atsugi Naval Air station in Japan in 1955 and 1956. While at the latter post he was head coach of the Navy all-stars, who met the Air Force all-stars in the 1955 "Rice Bowl" game in Tokyo.

Reynolds played halfback and fullback at Iowa for four seasons, from 1946 through 1949. He previously had played three seasons of service football with Navy teams, playing in the same backfield with K-State Head Coach Bus Mertes on the Iowa Pre-Flight team of 1944.

Taylor was a graduate assistant coach for K-State last season, and worked with freshman backs.

"We are particularly happy to welcome Corky to the staff," said Mertes, "not only because of his great background in K-State football, but for his enthusiasm for coaching. We feel he fits the position perfectly."

Taylor was named all-Big Seven halfback and honorable mention all-American for his 1954 play as a Wildcat senior, when he set K-State's one-game rushing record with 188 yards against Wyoming. He played in the post season East-West game and the Senior bowl game.

Following his college play, Taylor joined the Los Angeles Rams of the National Professional Football league for the 1955 season. He was inducted into the army early in 1956, and helped coach football at Fort Myer, Va., during the 1956 and 1957 season.

He was released from army duty in November of 1957 in time to rejoin the Rams for the last two games of that season.

Ft. Hays Gym Squad To Battle Cats Here

Boasting a record of 2-1 in varsity competition, the K-State gymnastics team will host Ft. Hays in a dual meet tomorrow in Ahearn gymnasium.

According to Frank Thompson, Cat gymnastics coach, K-State is stronger in personnel and potential than at any time since the sport was introduced here seven years ago.

Richard Rood is high-point man for K-State with a total of 36 points. Captain Ivan Loomis is second with 31 points.

Mike Dziura is back in the lineup and was high point man in the last meet after missing the first meet, with Kansas.

Another new face is Bob Rector, who missed the first match due to a gunshot wound in the hand.

This is the first year K-State has had 10 men scoring points in competition.

Ft. Hays will be fielding a 10-man team, and Thompson expects them to give the Wildcats a battle.

K-State entries:

Free exercise—Mike Dziura, Domokus Hajdo, and David Cudney.
Trampoline—Richard Rood, Ivan Loomis, and Don Krasko.
Side horse—Ron Leslie, Cudney, and Hajdo.

Hi bar—Roger Pine, Loomis, and Krasko.

Bradley Ready For NIT Berth

By UPI

The Bradley Braves, knocked off by Xavier in last year's National Invitational basketball tournament, are already checking train schedules for a possible return trip to the New York jamboree.

Listed among the most-eligible candidates for the 1959 tournament by the NIT selection committee, Bradley looked mighty impressive last night in snapping Seattle university's nine-game victory streak, 86-70.

Owner of a 16-2 record, Bradley started fast against Seattle, opening an 8-0 bulge in the first three minutes. The visiting Chieftains bounced back later in the first half to take the lead, but the Braves went ahead to stay on a basket by Bobby Joe Mason minutes later.

St. John's, another strong NIT hopeful, regained its winning form by turning back Richmond, 85-76.

Cat Cagers To Meet Colorado Buffs In Crucial Big Eight Roundball Clash

Coach Tex Winter's K-State Wildcats will journey to Boulder to meet the Colorado Buffaloes tomorrow night in what will be the most crucial game in the Big Eight basketball race to date. Tipoff is 9 p.m. Manhattan time.

This will be the fourth road game in league play for K-State, which is undefeated in six Big Eight games. The Cats won their third on the road, 50-43, over Nebraska Monday.

Colorado has won two on the road, including Tuesday night's 65-59 victory over Missouri at Columbia, and has defeated three other league foes at Boulder.

This leaves the Buffaloes in second place in the Big Eight with a 5-1 record. Their only conference loss was an 89-58 defeat by K-State here.

This game will give K-State a chance to pull away from the closest competition at the half-way point of Big Eight play, and to equal the all-time winning streak for a Wildcat cage team.

The Cats have won their last 12 games in a row, following the season's only loss to Brigham Young. Only the 1950-1951 team, which finished second in the NCAA tournament, has done better. That year they won 13 in a row and finished up with a 25-4 record.

The Buffaloes are undefeated at home so far. K-State handed them their last home-court loss, 68-63, last year.

Colorado, which has been sparked lately by solid scoring from guard Russ Lind, also depends heavily on center Don Walker and guard Jerry Schroeder in the scoring department.

Coach Sox Walseth is also expected to start 6-3 Billy Lewis and 6-6 Jerry Olsen at the forward spots.

"Colorado has excellent size, speed, and outside shooting," said Winter. They will be even tougher because of our 31-point win at Manhattan."

The probable starting lineups:

K-State	Pos.	Colorado
Frank (6-8)	F	(6-3) Lewis
Douglas (6-4)	F	(6-6) Olsen
Boozar (6-8)	C	(6-6) Walker
Matuszak (6-0)	G	(6-2) Lind
Guthridge (5-10)	G	(6-1) Schroeder

CENTER DON WALKER will be in the starting lineup for Colorado tomorrow when the Buffaloes and Wildcats meet at Boulder. At 6-6 and 205 pounds, Walker has been one of the main reasons for Colorado's successful season.

Tracksters Invade MSU

The K-State indoor track squad will compete tomorrow in the Michigan State Relays at East Lansing, Michigan, against teams from the Big Eight, Big Ten, and other colleges.

The Wildcats' mile relay team placed second in the meet in 1958, and Coach Ward Haylett expects a good showing from the team again tomorrow.

Although the Big Ten is a powerful conference in track, members of Big Eight teams captured 10 of 18 possible first places in the meet last year.

The following events were won by the Big Eight last year: shuttle hurdle relay, Nebraska; distance medley, Kansas; 75-yard dash, Oklahoma; sprint medley, Oklahoma; two mile run, Kansas.

Broad jump, Ernie Shelby, Kansas; high jump, Bob Canon, Kansas; shot put, Al Oerter, Kansas; two mile run, Don Greenlee, Kansas; and mile relay, Nebraska.

K-State tracksters and their events:

Shuttle hurdle relay—Bill Rich, Max Falk, Rex Stucker, Dale Evans. Sprint medley—Jim Vader, Larry French, DeLoss Dodds, Tom Rodda. Mile relay — Chuck Burgat, French, Vader, Dodds. High jump—Steve French. Shotput—Jim Cain. 75-yard high hurdles—Stucker, Evans, Falk. 75-yard low hurdles — Stucker, Evans, Falk.

League Cagers To See Action In Four Games

Seven of the Big Eight basketball squads will see action tomorrow night, with only Oklahoma remaining idle.

Besides the K-State-Colorado game at Boulder, Nebraska will travel to Oklahoma State for a game with the Cowboys. It will be the third meeting between the teams, the Huskers having won the first two encounters.

Nebraska will be without the services of Jim Kowalke and Dick Shipwright. Kowalke is still nursing an injured leg and Shipwright is out with the flu.

Nebraska carries a 3-2 Big Eight record into the contest. The Cowboys 1-4.

In other league action, Missouri will meet Iowa State at Ames, with the Big Eight cellar awaiting the loser.

The Tigers are in the worst slump in Sparky Stalcup's 13-year tenure as head coach, having lost their 10th straight game on Tuesday against Colorado.

Terry Roberts, 6-11 center, who starred in Iowa State's victory over Oklahoma State last week, is expected to start against the Tigers.

Leading the Missouri attack will be Al Abrams, 6-5 forward, who is averaging 15.5 points a game.

The Kansas Jayhawks will take to the road for a non-conference game at Louisville.

The Jayhawks, who beat Oklahoma Wednesday night, now sport a conference record of 4-2 and are 7-9 overall.

Council To Discuss Y-Orpheum Profits

Student Council will receive final recommendations at its meeting tonight from its Y-Orpheum apportioning committee for distribution of profits from this coming year's Y-Orpheum. It has already been decided that 25 per cent of the profits will go to the YMCA. The other 75 per cent will go to worthy funds and/or organizations at K-State.

Reports from committees studying the operation of the book exchange, the status of optional attendance, the success of placing faculty names on line schedules, and new interviewing procedures for picking members of student government positions will also be evaluated by the Council.

Second Term Students May Buy RP Receipts

Sell-Out Crowd Attends Feast of Nations Friday

The Feast of Nations supper and variety show last Friday night was a huge success, according to Margaret Strobel, HT Sr, program chairman and mistress of ceremonies. A sell-out crowd of approximately 300 people attended.

The program consisted of a welcome by the president of the Cosmopolitan club, Feliciano Sarmiento, FT Soph, followed by a hula dance by Pauline Nomura, HEN Fr, and Louise, Kusuda HEN Fr; folk songs by Juan Soto, Ch Gr, from Chile and by George Rosebrock, AE Gr, from Germany;

American songs sung by Sharon Toburen, MAV Jr; Iranian songs by Ali Shoja, EE Fr; a piano solo by Manuel Pasquil, BAA Jr; Mexican songs presented by Emilio Gallegos, Ch Gr; and two native Filipino dances by a group of Filipino students.

The supper menu consisted of native dishes from several countries. A few of the unusual dishes served were Masgous, barbecued fish, from Arabia; gabi-chuelas En Tomate, green beans and tomatoes, from Mexico; Korma, a chicken dish from India; and for dessert, coco de Gloria, coconut and pineapple, from Hawaii; and cofe, Brazilian coffee.

Committee chairmen were Stahis Tanagides, ticket chairman; Luciano Amutan, decoration chairman; Margaret Strobel, program chairman; Leona Dobson, food chairman, Bob Baer, BAA Jr, and Kay Insley, BA Soph, publicity chairmen.

Miss Strobel, after three years of working with the Feast of Nations, thought that this was the most successful one she has been associated with.

"The purpose of the Feast of Nations is to offer a great opportunity for the faculty, students, and townspeople to get to know the foreign students. Too often we do not make an effort to know them and they are quite interesting people. The proceeds go to provide loans to the foreign students," she stated.

Illustrations hall, K-State's fourth-oldest building on campus, is being torn down to make room for the classroom addition to Eisenhower hall.

The only buildings still standing older than Illustrations, which was built in 1876, are the farm mechanics, chemistry, and the central wing of the shops.

The Horticulture department occupied Illustrations hall, then known as Horticulture hall, but was moved to Dickens hall when it was completed in 1907. For 13 years, the building was used for classroom space, until the Illustrations department was created in 1920.

First official K-State photographer F. E. Colburn was then the head of Illustrations department. Picture taking facilities were on the first floor, and the darkroom was in the basement. Taking pictures for the Royal Purple and of administrative and campus leaders were included as duties of the department.

Student church leaders made

Illustrations hall their headquarters. It housed the Methodist, Presbyterian, Catholic, Congregational, and later Baptist and Christian student groups.

Floyd Hanna is now head of the Illustrations department. He has held this position since 1929.

SGA Funds Drive Starts Push Today

Contribution booths were opened in the Union, Anderson hall, the Library, and Waters hall today as the SGA Funds and Drives committee started its push for the $5,000 goal set for this year's K-State charity drive. The drive, which began this morning, will end Friday.

Programming for the drive will include the contribution booths manned by Interfraternity pledge council representatives, which will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; house representatives who will contact students living in Greek and independent houses and the dormitories; and a collection, which will be taken at the K-State-Kansas university basketball game this Wednesday night.

Various projects to collect the charity drive have been planned by campus religious foundations connected with the Religious Co-ordinating council.

Proceeds from the charity drive will be divided among five organizations. The World University service will receive 45 per cent of the contributions to aid the people of foreign countries.

The American Cancer society, the American Heart association, and the Muscular Dystrophy organization will each receive 15 per cent of the total for research.

The remaining 10 per cent will be given to the Riley County United Fund to help support the Boy Scouts and other service organizations.

Talent Show To Be Here

"Have Talent, Will Travel" is the title of the 1959 Big Eight variety show which will be on the K-State campus Thursday, in the College auditorium at 7:30 p.m. The University of Nebraska is directing the show with the cooperation of the K-State Union Campus Entertainment committee.

The show will be at Kansas university for the first performance Wednesday night.

John West of the University of Nebraska will emcee this year's show. It will be presented on the campus of Kansas State college, the University of Kansas, Iowa State college, and the University of Nebraska. The University of Missouri and Oklahoma State university are also participating in the program.

K-State's acts in the show are a vocal quartet, the Coeds made up of Mary Jo Cochran, Paula Lehmann, Marsha Legg, and DeLores Kranz; a vocal duet by Arlita Otte and Ken Pierce, and a piano solo by Carol Stewart.

The University of Nebraska is represented by a vocal trio, the Maryanns; a guitar player; and a piano player. The University of Kansas sends a girl vocalist, a ballad singer, and a tap dancing routine. A magician from Oklahoma State university and a comedy act from the University of Missouri complete the program.

Conner Chosen Ugly Man; Spencer Wins in Shave-off

KING JIM CONNERS, EE Fr, sits on his throne as he reigns over the UMOG dance Saturday night. Jim is holding the trophy given as a small remembrance of this honor. The dance is an annual event sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity. From left are John Alstatt, EE Jr, third place; Harry Lehew, Sp Jr, second place; Ron Cook, Psy Soph, vice-president of APO; Connors; and Lyle Clum, EE Jr, APO president.

The Ugly Man on Campus, selected by the 280 couples attending the UMOG dance Saturday night, is James Conner, CE Fr, representing Phi Kappa fraternity. Harry Lehew, Sp Jr, representing Alpha Tau Omega; and John Alstatt, EE Jr, representing Delta Sigma Phi, were announced as second and third place winners respectively.

Conner was presented with a three-foot traveling trophy and a UMOG key by Lyle Clum, EE Jr, past president of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity. Each of the candidates were introduced to the audience preceding the announcement of the UMOG.

"We were very well pleased with the large number of people that were clashing clothes to the dance," said Clum.

The Matt Betton band provided the music for the dance.

Gary Spencer, Mth Jr, was the first place winner in the beard shaving contest with a 2 1/2-minute shave-off.

Marvin Swart, Ag Fr, presented Spencer with an electric auto-home razor. Dennis Marfice, EE Jr, had the second best time and received an electric razor. Vernon Arasmith, CE Soph, received an electric alarm clock as third place prize.

Proceeds of the dance go to the Alpha Phi Omega Campus Beautification fund and other scouting projects in the area.

Greek-Independent Competition Not Desirable in Funds Drive

THE SGA-SPONSORED charity drive began today, and the Funds and Drives committee, assisted by the Religious Co-ordinating council, hopes to collect $5,000 between now and Friday when the drive ends. Since this goal has been set, we'd like to see it or some figure near it attained.

Jim Fairchild, a member of the Funds and Drives committee believes the drive will be more successful than last year's drive, which brought in only $450, because of a "more organized effort to get independent students to participate." This organized effort, he says, revolves around the contest between Greeks and independents to "determine which group is the most generous towards charity."

THE GREEK-INDEPENDENT contest may produce a spirit of competition which will be profitable to the drive, but we believe that any conclusion which may be drawn from it as to the generosity of a group cannot be valid. It would be just as valid to state that the contest will determine which of the groups is the wealthiest or which of the groups has the most pressure brought upon it as it is to assume that it will determine which of the groups is most generous.

This contest, it seems to us, also places a false set of values on giving. Giving from a desire to help someone else and, as Dean Wunderlich says, "out of an awareness of the needs of people in other parts of the world," we believe would be much more meaningful than giving because you want to prove that your group is more generous than another group.

Lyle Clum, Religious Co-ordinating council president, also believes the charity drive will be more successful this year because of better organization. The Religious council has already mailed correspondence concerning the drive to some 4,500 students. Other parts of the campaign include a collection to be taken at the KU game Wednesday night and sacrifice dinners which are planned by several groups.

THESE PLANS, coupled with some extensive publicity to remind students that the drive is on and what it is all about, would seem to us to be better methods of working for the success of the drive than the contest which is unfortunate in the stating of its intent and its placing of values.—st

SU Needs More Eating Space, Say Most Students Questioned

By Helen Splichal

WHAT FEATURES would you include in the proposed $750,000 addition to the K-State Union? All but one of the students who were asked this question thought that the Union did need an addition, and most of them thought that the addition should include more meeting rooms and a larger eating areas. Two thought the addition should have a bookstore, and one said that living facilities should be available.

JUDITH FISHER, SED Sr—The addition should have larger eating and bowling areas.

BOB WORLEY, FT Fr—It should have an addition to the State room and more meeting rooms.

SHARON JONES, HT Soph—I think we should utilize the third floor first.

SARA SYLTEN, HE Soph—More space for eating and serving meals.

JOHN CHEHASKE, ChE Sr—Enlarge the cafeteria, and the addition should have a bookstore and a drugstore.

DON DAILEY, Mth Sr—It needs a permanent combined book exchange and retail liquor store where you can trade in your books for beer.

IRMGARD FELDMANN, Eng Jr—This Union is great compared to the Union at the school that I went to last year, but I do think that the State room could be larger.

GARY SWARNER, AE Fr—We need a larger TV room.

NELSON RALLS, NE Fr—Enlarge the State room.

BILL BUNGER, FT Fr—Enlarge the State room.

JOHN CLARK, PrV Soph—It needs to have an enlarged State room and dining area. It also needs an enlarged ballroom, and some means to seat more people at the same time.

PENNY HUNTON, EEd Soph—A swimming pool. However, it's pretty well equipped the way it is.

JUDY KETTLER, HT Soph—Apartment facilities for parents and people who come to conferences on the K-State campus.

PEG SHANNON, BAA Jr—An addition to the music library lounge and the State room.

WALT BESECKE, EE Soph—I think we need more room for eating and serving, more room in the music lounge, and a college book store.

DIANE ENDICOTT, BMT Jr—More club rooms and informal meeting rooms for playing cards.

Eisenhower Proposes Federal Aid To Alleviate Classroom Shortage

Compiled from United Press International
By JOHN HOKANSON

Washington—President Eisenhower today was scheduled to send Congress his plans to give the nation more classrooms, probably by spending federal money to help needy school districts and colleges pay off their construction bonds.

Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, told newsmen there was "no question" that schools needed federal aid. He said the President's plan would provide that help.

However, other sources indicated Eisenhower would ask Congress to let the government assume part of the debt for classroom construction where school districts and colleges could not carry the full burden. The program would last five years.

The outlays would be reviewed each year. They would be cut off when no longer needed. The states would be required to match, at least in part, the federal contributions.

Reuther Charges Labor Bill 'Thrown Together'

Washington—AFL-CIO Vice-President Walter P. Reuther has criticized the Administration's labor reform bill as a "very sloppy job" which would put the union movement in a "straitjacket."

He said he believed any crook or racketeer found in the labor movement should be sent to jail. But he said "clean" labor unions should not be penalized in the effort.

The President of the United Auto Workers charged on a television program yesterday that the Administration labor bill was "carelessly thrown together."

Wilkins Reaffirms Stand on NAACP on Rights

New York—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Saturday night that the organization "cannot and shall not" give up its battle for equal rights for Negroes.

Wilkins spoke on the NBC show "Chet Huntley Reporting" with Thomas R. Waring, editor of the Charleston, S.C., News and Courier. Waring said the NAACP "creates division and animosity" and should withdraw from the Southern segregation battle.

Student Should Avail Himself of Tax Savings, Says Professor in Kansas State Budget Office

"Any tax payer should avail himself of tax saving benefits, and this is often neglected by the student who does not take time to study tax regulations," says Asst. Prof. T. O. Dodge of the K-State Budget office. Professor Dodge is on leave from the Business Administration department.

"These exemption regulations are complicated," he continues, "but the government put them in effect to benefit the taxpayer."

A student, like everyone else, who had earned a gross income of less than $600, is not required to file an income tax return, but he should anyway, to regain any taxes withheld from his salaries. This may be done on the simplified 104A form.

Professor Dodge stressed that as far as income tax is concerned, every case is different. "That's why we must deal here with generalities," he says.

"Education expenses for the average college students are personal expenses, and as such are not deductible," Professor Dodge continues. "Most students are not going to school as an employee for an employer.

"However, if the student is going to school as required by an employer, then all educational expenses are deductible." An example would be a college graduate who was hired by a company, and then sent back to college to further his education. Books, tuition, and other educational expenses would be deductible from the student's income tax return. Living expenses, however, would not be.

A new type of deduction this year enables a taxpayer to deduct education expenses incurred primarily to maintain or improve skills required in his present job or profession, or to meet requirements to keep his present position.

However, the tax is not deductible if its primary purpose is to qualify the tax payer for a better job, higher salary, or new type of job.

"Government statements on tax exemptions are lengthy and difficult to understand," says Professor Dodge. "The student could save considerable amounts of money if he would consult competent advisors on such problems."

Cats Take Big League Lead Into Kansas Tilt Wednesday

K-State's Wildcats will take a commanding lead in the Big Eight basketball race into Wednesday night's game with Kansas following a 70-59 victory over Colorado at Boulder last Saturday.

Kansas remained in third place in the Big Eight with a 4-2 record following their 82-75 non-conference loss to Louisville.

The win at Boulder was the Wildcats' 13th straight, matching the all-time K-State win streak set by the 1950-1951 squad, which finished second in the NCAA tournament.

K-State leads the Big Eight with a 7-0 mark. It was the second conference loss against five wins for the second-place Buffaloes.

The Wildcats led by as many as 11 points in the first half, but Don Walker and Mick Mansfield combined for six points late in the half to cut the lead to 34-27 at intermission time.

Guard Russ Lind got the Buffs off to a fast start in the second half with two quick baskets, and his two-pointer with 10:15 remaining reduced the K-State lead to 47-42.

Cedric Price then tossed in a free throw after Walker committed his fifth foul with 9:23 left, and Wally Frank chipped in another. Price added a layup and Frank dropped in two more charity tosses and the Wildcat advantage mounted to 52-42.

The lead was still 10 at 59-49 with 3:41 remaining, but Colorado refused to give up. Lind hit another field goal and John Musciano added two free throws after a Don Matuszak foul.

Bill Guthridge fouled Frank Javernick, and the Buffaloe forward hit both free throws to cut the gap to 59-55.

With only 1:33 remaining, Guthridge again was guilty of fouling, but Lind missed a chance to pull the Buffs within two points of the Cats as his first free throw missed and was rebounded by Bob Boozer.

Frank hit a layup and Matuszak chipped in a fielder and was fouled by Jerry Schroeder, who protested too vigorously and was given a technical foul.

Matuszak missed the free throw, but Boozer converted the technical. Price then scored a three-point play to put the Cats out of reach, 67-55.

KS Gymnastics Team Edges Past Ft. Hays

Relying on lower place points, the K-State gymnastics team defeated the Ft. Hays Tigers in a dual meet in Ahearn field house Saturday. The score was 60½ to 51½.

The Wildcats raised their record to 3-1 despite the fact that Ft. Hays won first place in four of the seven events.

LAUGHING ALL THE WAY—Bill Matthews, EE Soph, keeps his sense of humor as he bounces merrily down some steps. Keeping their feet on the ground poses an ever increasing problem for K-State students as icy conditions prevail.

Thunder! Lightnin' Rain, Snow, Sleet

Rain, sleet, snow, thunder and lightning—Staters endured them all yesterday as the campus was turned into a solid sheet of ice, making driving treacherous and walking extremely difficult. Students were seen picking themselves up from the icy sidewalks, and madly scurrying over the campus in pursuit of blowing papers.

Students also had difficulty driving. Gary Williams, BAA Soph, collided with Frank Conrow, K-State employee, at 14th and Poyntz avenue yesterday. A dented door and $40 damage was the result.

In another accident Gayner R. McDaniel, Gen Gr, skidded into a bridge near the corner of Edwards and College Hill roads.

His daughter, Leslie Ann, 5, received minor injuries. McDaniel sustained no injuries but his car received $125 damage.

Cars driven by Laureston Withee, Agr Gr, and G. E. Gruen, NE Soph, collided at Vattier and North Manhattan. There was $25 damage to Withee's car and $10 to Gruen's.

A three car accident at 14th and Fairchild resulted in $500 damage to the car driven by Bobbie D. Suttles, EE Jr; $200 to the car driven by Bradford K. Bochow, Psy Soph, and $250 to that of Frank Soper, a Manhattan resident.

Charles Johnson, AgE Soph, and Donald Grooms, a Manhattan resident, collided at 711 N. Denison resulting in $200 damage to Johnson's car and $25 to Grooms' car.

Sculptors To Chip Away in Coal Bin

This week Prof. J. Cranston Heintzelman will move his sculpture class into a remodeled coal bin in the Physical plant.

The remodeled area is 15 by 76 feet. The coal chutes have been converted into windows and a new ceiling and lighting have been put in. The stone walls will also be painted and a sink installed.

During the last war the coal bin was used for packing waste paper. Since then it has just been used for storage.

The old sculpture room was extremely unhandy since it was located on the third floor of Seaton. "The new room will be much better because of the outside entrance and the extra space. It was rather hard to carry large pieces of stone clear up to the third floor. In the new room we will eventually be able to have exhaust fans, if needed, to carry out the stone dust. There is now compressed air for the air tools and outlets for our power tools," Professor Heintzelman said.

Formerly, there were two tracks on which cars were used to carry out the coal. When the new cement floor was laid, one of the tracks was filled in. Heintzelman wanted the other track left for a dolly which could be used to carry heavy stones into the room.

There is also a mezzanine just over the front part of the main room. It will be used for storing tools and working mosaics and small sculptures. It has an outside entrance that is handy to the campus.

The mezzanine is at ground level and the main room is underground. Professor Heintzelman said this would be good in the summer because the earth would keep the room cool.

A large door just west of the new room can be used to bring in large stones for sculpturing. This is especially handy since limestone, in particular, weighs about 160 pounds a cubic foot.

Besides limestone, the sculpture students work with wood, clay, mosaics, soldering iron, and sand castings. The stone is obtained from the scrap of local stone companies. The department furnishes clay and other materials. Sculptures done by Professor Heintzelman's students are now on display in the Union art lounge.

"In the future we hope to be able to do welding and ceramic sculpture in our new space. One thing that will be started as soon as the stone is ordered is sculpture of two lions for Sunset park. This will be done by Bill Stevenson, LDs Sr.

"We often have school children from around Manhattan come to visit the class. Since it is an open lab, anyone who is interested is welcome to visit us any time," said Professor Heintzelman.

Council Demurs; Holiday Yet Unset

Student Council postponed a proposal for declaring an athletic holiday in the near future at its meeting last night. This action was taken after a discussion of all possible dates and a decision that the most effective date could not be picked until the basketball season had moved closer to its finale.

Possible dates for the holiday include the day after the game clinching the Big Eight championship, the next school day after winning the NCAA Regional tournament, and the next school day after winning the NCAA National play-offs.

Another major issue which the Council acted upon was apportionment of 75 per cent of the profits from this year's Y-Orpheum to the Emergency loan fund. (Twenty-five per cent had already been allotted to the YMCA.)

The loan fund, chosen from a long list of funds and organizations, is used for making small, non-interest loans to students for periods not exceeding 30 days. Last year 636 loans, totaling $46,000, were made to students. These loans were for such things as books and fees, interviewing trips, and emergency expenses.

Dates for coming elections for members of Student Council were set. The primary will be March 11 and 12 and the general election will be March 19 and 20.

Council went on record as being in favor of charging for parking in the various parking lots during athletic events and turning over any profits to the Traffic Control board for parking lot improvements. The matter will be referred to the Traffic Control board for study.

Retirement Bill No. 3 Introduced in Senate

UPI—A public employees retirement plan was among 21 bills introduced in a 40-minute session of the Kansas Senate yesterday. The bill was sponsored by four Republicans making a total of three pension measures now before the Legislature.

The retirement bill, drafted in co-operation with the League of Kansas Municipalities, represented a modified version of a pension plan introduced in the House last Friday.

The League's retirement bill gives full credit for prior state service. The House's proposal called for only 75 per cent of previous service. The measure would cost $4.8 million yearly. Of this sum, $2.9 million would come from the State's general fund and the other $1.9 million would be derived from special and fee funds.

The House bill which had the tentative approval of Gov. George Docking would cost about $3.3 million.

An employee would contribute 4 per cent of his yearly salary and the state 7.34 per cent under terms of the Senate bill. A worker could retire on 1 per cent of his yearly salary multiplied by the number of years of service.

The bill would make retirement mandatory at 65, but special exceptions could make the retirement age 70. A total of 17,800 state employees would come under the bill, including faculty members at state schools not covered by some other plan. The proposal also includes death benefits. The House bill doesn't.

The Senate also has on its calendar a retirement bill submitted by the State Board of Regents. The proposal would cover only faculty members at state schools.

AND SPEAKING OF TEAMS which we can be proud of, the debate team and the judging teams seem to be pulling in their share of honors lately. The debate team won several high honors at the Baylor university debate tournament last weekend. Congratulations to both groups.—st

IM Managers To Meet

There will be a meeting of intramural managers in room 304 of Ahearn gymnasium tonight at 7:00, according to Frank Myers, K-State, director of intramurals.

Any organization wishing to enter a team in the intramural volleyball tournament must have a representative at this meeting.

Maroons Threaten Conference Leader

Mississippi State, upset conqueror of top-ranked Kentucky, today threatened unbeaten Auburn's grip on the Southeastern conference lead and also thrust itself into the fight for national honors.

Led by all-American candidate Bailey Howell, the 15th ranked Maroons whipped Kentucky, 66-58, last night for their 19th victory in 20 games. It was only the second loss in 20 games for the Wildcats, ranked first in the nation for the fifth straight week by the United Press International board of coaches.

More important, though, the victory boosted Mississippi State into second place in the S.E.C., a half game ahead of Kentucky. The Maroons are 8-1 in the conference, while Kentucky is 8-2.

Auburn, which stretched the nation's longest winning streak to 28 straight games by defeating Florida, 93-71 last night, is first with a 10-0 mark. But the Tigers are ineligible for post-season play, so the conference's NCAA berth will go to the runner-up.

Kentucky wasn't the only team to feel the upset sting. De-

Rosenbaum Wins In Roundball Picks

Last week's winner in the Roundball Picks contest was Dick Rosenbaum, TJ Fr, who missed the actual score by only two points as he predicted a 69-60 K-State win over Colorado. K-State won the game, 70-59.

Rosenbaum guessed that Bob Boozer would be the top Wildcat scorer with 27 points. The K-State all-American, however, scored only 18 points.

Of the 24 contestants who entered, 22 predicted a K-State victory.

Kansas Freshmen Trounce Wildcats

Kansas university's freshman basketball team turned on the steam in the second half last night to defeat the K-State frosh, 72-57, in the first game ever for a Wildcat freshman squad against outside competition.

A crowd of approximately 4,000 watched the young Wildcats build up a 28-19 halftime lead, only to see Bill Goetze and Jerry Gardner spearhead a Kansas attack which brought the Jayhawks the win.

Both teams had trouble scoring in the opening moments of play, and 5:40 were gone before Mike Wroblewski tied the game for the Wildcats at 4-4 with the game's first field goal.

With Wayne Hightower hitting three fielders, Kansas went back in front at 10-7, but Phil Heitmeyer and Wroblewski combined for seven points and Dick Ewy hit a layup to pull K-State ahead, 16-10.

The Wildcats slowly began to widen their lead, and a two-pointer by Heitmeyer built the advantage to 10 points before

Charles Smith tossed in a free throw for Kansas to close out the first half scoring.

Goetze scored five quick points in the second period and then started a 10-point spurt which gave the Jayhawks the lead at 40-36.

Kansas continued to pour it on, and with Hightower doing most of the damage, opened up a 10-point lead, 51-41.

The Wildcats fought back, and a free throw by Heitmeyer pulled them to within six points of the Jayhawks at 53-48 with 6:48 remaining.

But deadly shooting by Hightower, Goetze, and Gardner kept Kansas out in front and the Jayhawks pulled away in the final three minutes.

"Our defense killed us in the second half," said K-State freshman coach Ernie Barrett. "We lost confidence when Wroblewski and Pat McKenzie got in foul trouble."

"We're a better team than we showed tonight, but we still have a lot of room for improvement."

Barrett was surprised by Hightower's hook shots. "We knew he had a good jump shot, but we didn't think he could hook like that."

Debaters Win Two Trophies

Two winners' trophies were brought back by the debate team from the Baylor university debate tournament in Waco, Texas, last weekend. About 40 schools from the Midwest, South, and Southwest competed in the tournament.

week, said John Carlin, Ag Fr, who is in charge of dairy entries. Registration booths will be in both Waters and Animal Industries. Any student enrolled at Kansas State is eligible to enter.

Contestants may choose to show either horses, beef, dairy, sheep, or hogs. Each of these are broken down into classes, so the contestants have a choice of class.

Drawing for the Royal will be Saturday at 1 p.m. in the arena of the Animal Industries building. This will include the drawing for all animals.

Contestants will have eight weeks to prepare their animals for the show, which will be April 11. Trophies will be awarded to the winners in the different divisions. Trophies to be awarded to winners are now on display in the dairy trophy case in West Waters.

Noted Isotope Scientist To Speak Here Feb. 25

Paul C. Aebersold, one of the nation's top figures in isotope work, has been announced a speaker for the Midwest Industrial Isotopes conference at Kansas State February 25 and 26.

"The Economics and Management Implications of Radioisotopes Use," will be Aebersold's topic on the first morning of the conference. Aebersold initiated the program for distribution of atomic reactor-produced radioisotopes while at Oak Ridge, Tenn., in 1946.

Engineers and scientists from schools and industrial firms in a nine-state area are being invited to participate in the conference. Aebersold has been working in atomic energy since 1923. He was a director of the isotopes branch of the United States Atomic Energy commission from 1947 to 1957, and under his guidance radioisotopes as peaceful byproducts of atomic energy have been introduced into several thousand research institutions, universities, and hospitals all over the world.

Engineering and Physical Science Seniors* GROW with a growing industry... ...the Bell Telephone System

The Bell Telephone System, which has doubled in size in the last 10 years, is expanding rapidly to serve a growing nation. A growing telephone industry means new jobs, fresh opportunities for promotions, a rewarding career for you. The future is bright for young men who want to advance with a progressive industry.

Representatives of these Bell System companies will be glad to talk with you:

• Southwestern Bell Telephone Company builds, maintains and operates telephone and other communications systems throughout its five-state territory

• Bell Laboratories research, development, engineering and design in electronics and communications fields

• Western Electric manufacturing and supply unit

• Long Lines Department of A.T.&T. provides interstate Long Distance and overseas telephone service

• Sandia Corporation applied research, development and design for production of atomic weapons

* Bell System representatives will be on campus February 11 and 12. Sign up for an interview at the placement office.

Parking Lot Fees Might Be Studied

A recommendation that a study be made concerning charging for parking at athletic events will be submitted to the Traffic Control board this week by Student Council.

The purpose of the study will be to determine whether or not the profits to be made from charging for parking at athletic events will offset public sentiment against the additional expense, according to Dottie Newton, DIM Sr, a member of the SGA Parking Lot committee.

Miss Newton stated that in talking with Athletic Director H. B. "Bebe" Lee, Dean of Academic Administration A. L. Pugsley, and Superintendent of the Physical Plant R. F. Gingrich, the committee had found that all three felt a study of the possibility of charging for parking at athletic events needed to be made.

Both the West Stadium parking lot and the Union parking lot will be considered in the study, and other parking lots on the north side of the campus will be considered in cases of the bigger athletic events, according to Miss Newton. "The possibility of using any profits which might be obtained from parking lot charges for a fund for improving campus parking lots has been discussed," she said.

A study of the possibility of a parking lot charge for the West Stadium parking lot was made in 1958 by Gingrich. The study showed that with 835 parking places in the lot and assuming the lot is two-thirds full for each of the 15 scheduled athletic events, a charge of 50 cents a car would yield $4,170.

Total expenses charged by the Athletic department for employees, according to the study, was $2,839, leaving a net profit of $1,331. The study showed that if charges were made for other parking lots, the net profit after additional expenses for personnel would be approximately $2,000.

The conclusion drawn by the study was that parking charges for athletic events would be economically feasible.

Disadvantages of the proposal brought out by the Parking Lot committee: public sentiment against additional expense, improvements of parking lots necessary to warrant the charge, and the cost of additional employees to handle receipts and direct traffic.

Program Covers Due February 22

Entries for the Y-Orpheum program cover contest will be taken in the Union Activities center from February 11 to 22, according to Carol Lala, HEA Jr, head of the Program Design committee.

Prize for the winning entry includes $5 and an article and picture about the designer to appear in the Y-Orpheum program.

To enter the contest the person must be a K-State student. The design should be suited for an 8 1/2 inch by 11 inch page, and should be submitted on an 8 1/2 inch by 11 1/2 inch sheet of engineering drawing paper. Included in an appropriate place on the page should be the title, "The Late, Late Show;" the words "1959 Y-Orpheum;" the date, April 3-4; and the place, College auditorium.

The cover should include two colors plus black and white, or three colors plus black. Due to the slick cover being used this year, small blocks of color should be used. Any art medium may be used for the entries.

Approximately 50 words about the designer should be included with the entry on a separate piece of paper. It should be clipped to the design and identified by the owner's name.

Judging will be by the K-State art teachers. The decision of the judges will be final. Judging criteria will include originality, neatness, application of design principles, correlation with the theme of the show, and suitability of the design for a slick cover. All entries will be on display in the Union before the show.

Auction To Earn Funds For K-State Charity Drive

Thursday, the IFC and Panhellenic council are sponsoring an auction at the Union lounge at 3 p.m. to help collect money for the SGA Funds drive.

Many unusual items are being auctioned. Waltheim is auctioning off enough girls to clean the dining room, living room, recreation, and trophy room of any fraternity and Southeast hall is auctioning a pantomime. Other organizations are auctioning entertainment features, service at meals, and other odd jobs. "Iowa State had an auction similar to this that worked real well," said Jim Fairchild, BA Fr, a member of the Funds and Drives committee.

Fairchild also stated yesterday that the Drive is going "very, very poorly." He added that the SGA is counting on the collection that will be taken tonight at the K-State-KU game to help reach the $5,000 goal. YWCA members will do the collecting.

"Last year our $450 collection did not quite compare with KU's $4,000. We are trying to beat them this year," Fairchild said.

At the latest count yesterday, the Greeks were slightly ahead of the Independents in the giving at the booths that are stationed in various campus buildings.

All this week, collections will be taken up from the organized houses. "The Fund slogan, 'If you care, you will share,' is being stressed as we are really striving toward our goal and we hope to make it this year," concluded Fairchild.

Buffeteria for Legislators In Union Ballroom Today

A legislative buffeteria for the entire legislature, its wives, and Gov. and Mrs. George Docking, will be in the Union main ballroom tonight at 5:30 p.m.

Buses furnished by the downtown Chamber of Commerce will pick the legislators up in Topeka and have them in Manhattan by 5 p.m., according to President James A. McCain.

Although a few of the Legislative members have other obligations, President McCain believes that most of them will attend the buffeteria before the game.

Following the plan of previous years, the legislature will be guests of the College Endowment association at the buffeteria, and guests of the college at the game.

Other than an introduction of Gov. and Mrs. George Docking and legislative leaders, no program has been planned.

Show Representatives Leave for Kansas U

K-State's representatives to the 1959 Big Eight talent show left Manhattan today for Lawrence where they will join representatives from other Big Eight schools for the show's first performance at Kansas university tonight.

The talent show, titled "Have Talent, Will Travel" this year, will appear on the K-State campus tomorrow night at 7:30 in the College auditorium. From here, the show will travel to Iowa State for an appearance Friday night and to Nebraska university for a Saturday night show.

Acts representing K-State are the Co-Eds, a vocal quartet composed of Marsha Legg, Art Soph, Mary Jo Cochran, SED Soph, Paula Lehmann, EEd Soph, and Delores Kranz, EEd Soph; a vocal duet of Ken Peirce, Gen Jr, and Arnita Otte, EEd Jr; and a pianist, Carol Stewart, MAI Fr.

Painting Topic Of Water Acts

"Splashed from a Paintbox," the K-State Frog club's eleventh annual water show, will be February 19 and 20 in Nichols gym at 8 p.m.

The 1959 water show will include 12 acts centered around the story of an artist and his work with colors. Each act interprets a color song such as "Deep Purple" or "The Blue Danube."

All swimmers in the show will wear identical white swimming suits, while various colors will be achieved by special lighting effects. "Somewhere Over the Rainbow," will conclude the show.

All acts for the show have been choreographed by Frog club members and will feature a variety in water show entertainment. Water ballet and synchronized swimming will be included in the show, in which approximately 25 swimmers will participate.

Last year's Frog club show depicted 10 phases in United States history from Indian days to the present: the Early West, Revolutionary War, Westward Movement, Civil War, Gay Nineties, Roaring Twenties, Depression Years, World War II, and the present.

Union Dance To Follow KU Basketball Game

A "victory" dance, sponsored by the Union Dance committee, will be in the main ballroom of the K-State Union immediately after the K-State-Kansas university basketball game tonight.

The basketball team and Coach Tex Winter have been invited to the dance and have made tentative acceptance, according to Ollie White, Union Program council director.

Admission to the dance will be free and free coffee will be served. Music will be provided by a jukebox.

Value of Professors to College Dictates Need for Wage Raise

TODAY as more and more demands for highly qualified graduates are placed on colleges and universities, it seems to us the need for a highly qualified faculty becomes greater and greater. The faculty, it seems to us, is the key to an effective educational system—in attracting financial support for the College, as well as in leading and educating.

President McCain has stated that the volume of outside support for the College is directly related to the quality of the College faculty and research staff. He cited recent cases in which our faculty has been zealous in seeking non-tax funds to augment state support for research and educational services, "More than a million dollars in private money—almost all from outside the state—has been received by College departments during the current academic year for such projects as a nuclear reactor, the remodeling of veterinary research laboratories, a digital computer center, and the development of better insecticides for Kansas agriculture."

THE KANSAS STATE Faculty Handbook on Rules and Policies states, "Essential to the effective functioning of a college faculty is security of economic status." This seems to us to be an extremely realistic view. In order to attract highly qualified faculty members, and in order to keep the highly qualified faculty that we have, it is necessary that the College be allowed to pay salaries which can compete with those offered by other sources.

YET PRESIDENT MCCAIN reports that Kansas State and Kansas university pay average salaries which are in competition not with other universities but with high schools employing teachers with only bachelor degrees. In a recent national classification of college salary schedules from a rating of AA through F, he said, our two institutions rate between the E and F category.

To add to this situation, Governor Docking, in his proposed budget, has made no recommendation for the increase in the pay scale for faculty members that has been requested by the State Board of Regents.

THIS MOVE by the Governor seems to us to be highly unrealistic and if successful could be harmful not only to our faculty and our school but, in a far-reaching effect, to our country as well. We believe a little less politics and a lot more realism would serve the best interests of all concerned.—st

Have You Had Your 15th Coke This Year?

By JOHN PETTERSON

How many Cokes do you think K-Staters drink each school year on campus? After much multiplying it was discovered that approximately 88,000 bottles of Coke are sold on the campus during the period school is in session, not counting summer school.

The girl's dormitories lead in the Coke race with Northwest hall consuming 22,000 bottles each year, Southeast hall second with 14,000, and Van Zile is third with 13,000 each year.

Not counting the Union, which sells fountain Cokes, each student drinks an average of 15 bottles of Coke each year on campus, plus those he may drink off campus.

Among the classroom and administrative buildings, Anderson and Umberger halls lead by selling over 2,000 more Cokes than their nearest rival, Kedzie hall, which sells about 8,000. Ahearn field house has the smallest market for bottled pop on the campus, selling only about 2,500 each school year.

There are eight Coke machines which sell bottled Coke on the campus, having either five or ten cent mechanisms. All of the machines are owned by the Coca-Cola Bottling company which allows the building personnel to use them free of charge if the Cokes are sold for five cents, or if they are sold for ten cents, a certain amount of each cash sale is taken by the company for rent.

One delivery truck is kept busy supplying campus buildings with Cokes. Each Monday, Wednesday and Friday the truck can be seen parked outside many of the campus buildings while its driver wheels in a cart stacked with cases of Coke.

Billy Deck, sales manager for the Manhattan Coca-Cola company, says that the Manhattan Coke market stays almost the same throughout the year. "Even when the students leave for vacations, the holiday seasons compensate for the drop in student consumption, and almost the same amount are sold."

Deck adds that in the late fall and spring the Coke business improves. "Because of the parties and formals that are held, more Cokes are sold, and the per cent of college business greatly improves. During the summer," he says, "the hot weather takes up the slack left by the school recess."

St. Louis—Searchers today believed they had recovered the last of the victims of a tornado that smashed the heart of St. Louis, killing at least 22 persons and injuring more than 350.

City officials declined to give an authoritative estimate of the damage, but unofficial estimates ran above the 10-million-dollar figure. President Eisenhower last night declared the nation's eighth largest city a major disaster area and authorized the use of Federal aid for relief efforts.

The bodies of the last two missing persons, a mother and her young son, were pulled from the wreckage of a rooming house last night and taken to the city morgue.

Collegian 'Picks Out, Blows Up,' Greek vs Independent Rivalry

Dear Editor:

"Giving from a desire to help someone else should be the purpose of the Campus Charity drive" is what we found in the editorial in Monday's Collegian. Yet the article stated that this purpose is neglected and overshadowed by the Greek-independent competition. Certainly competition has formed our nation, but since agreeing with the editor that it isn't the purpose of this drive, we are using it only as a very minor point. But we found that it was picked out from the whole program and was blown up into a two-column article which certainly gave people an attitude about the drive which is far different than the good-will spirit of giving.

This rebuttal may add to the ill will, but it might also clear up one point. This point is that the K-State students have been so selfish in the past that our College has ranked lower than many others and far below colleges of our size. After finding this information, we were able to see that something new had to be done to make all of us realize the importance of the drive. Yet of all the new things we are trying, such as the short at the Union movie, the RCO projects, the auction Thursday, and the collection at the game, the editor chose to publicize one small item, the competition between Greeks and independents. The only thing we can do now is make a plea to all students to give. So if you care, then you will share!

NW Hall Apprenticeship Part of Class Training

"Never a dull moment" could well be the motto of the institutional management class under the direction of Mrs. Marguerite Taylor. The class, composed of eight dietetics students and two restaurant management majors, gets actual practical experience in food services by working in Northwest hall.

Each member of the class plans the menus, orders the food, and supervises the preparation of the dormitory food for one week, while the whole class is involved in the planning and management of Northwest's special dinners, such as the faculty tea, the smorgasbord, and the Indian curry dinner.

The first duty of the semester is to wash the dishes after an evening meal to gain experience in operating the dishwashing machine and other large kitchen equipment.

During the week in which they manage the food service, the students are allowed a special dinner of their own choice. One girl caused quite a calamity last year at this meal when she introduced club sandwiches. It resulted in a late meal, the help working overtime, and the employment of several extra hands to finally get the meal on the table.

The class annually conducts a plate waste study to determine the food preference of the girls. Last year this caused the students to contract such nicknames as "garbage counters" and "ladies in white."

They conduct another week's survey by comparing the costs and quality of foods—discovering the values of instant mashed potatoes to freshly-cooked potatoes, for instance.

The eight-course Indian curry buffet often proves to be the most interesting special dinner. Rice, curried veal, french fried onion rings, tomatoes and pineapple, bananas, coconut, and shutny sauce are served, each stacked one on top of the other in the preceding order.

A two-day field trip to Kansas City is planned for the members of the class. They will tour meat, china, and equipment companies, Eddy's Supper club, and the Myron Green cafeteria.

To most of the class, cafeteria work and management is no new experience. Many of them have had practical work in cafeterias, restaurants, and camps.

High School To Perform February 15

The Manhattan high school Symphonette, under the direction of Lawrence W. Norvell, and the high school Robed Choir, directed by Forrest E. Davidson, will present a joint concert under the auspices of the Friends of Music Sunday in the College auditorium at 3 p.m.

Proceeds of the tickets, selling at 35 cents, will go towards a music scholarship.

The choir and symphonette will present both popular and classical music, including Handel's Song of Jupiter; Variations on a Theme by Handel, Whitney; highlights from King and I, by Rodgers and Herfurth; and choral selections from My Fair Lady, by Loewe.

HOW NOT TO DRESS is demonstrated by Emma Lou Douglas, PEW Sr. According to the 14-point system, her outfit is right on the danger line. By removing the pin and using plain white gloves, she would be within the safety margin. The addition of glasses and a coat would definitely put her in the "overdressed" class.

System Helps Coeds Develop Style Sense

By WANDA EGGERS

Good taste outweighs high style in the wardrobes of well-dressed college coeds. Simplicity and appropriateness to the occasion are two of the most important aspects of good taste.

Coeds may follow the "Rule of 14" for a well-groomed, thought-out appearance. The "Rule of 14" is a system of counting parts of a costume and accessories. Each item in sight counts one point.

A score exceeding 14 usually indicates that the coed is overdressed. A total of eight or fewer means that she needs to take another look.

To count for the "Rule of 14," this system is used:

Earrings, shoes, stockings, and gloves, one for each pair unless they have heels and toes out. Sandals count two with an additional third point for trim.

The average hat counts one, but if it is large and elaborately trimmed, then add two instead. Fur and handbag, one each.

A dress counts one and the belt, whether matching or contrasting, adds one. A large collar of contrasting color or unusual trim, such as rhinestones, each add additional points.

Although jewelry is momentarily hidden by gloves, it is still counted. One point is added for each watch, ring, and bracelet.

If the bracelet is of an unusual size, it counts the equivalent it would make in average size bracelets. A wedding band and engagement ring are counted as a unit.

Coeds who wear glasses also add one-and-a-half for them.

An additional hint to the wise coed is to never wear more than three colors in a costume, and not repeat an accent color more than three times.

Naturally, it would take a lot of time and be a great deal of trouble to stop and count after each change of costume. This system is merely an aid to those who worry about adding that extra bracelet or pin.

However, after counting points a few times, each coed will begin to develop a sense of values and counting will no longer be necessary. The most expensive and fashionable outfit will be a loss if its wearer is loaded with accessories.

Cats Host Jayhawks Tonight

By GARY VACIN
Collegian Sports Editor

Owning a two-game lead in the Big Eight basketball race, the K-State Wildcats will try to break a six-year home-court drought against Kansas university tonight when they host the Jayhawks in Ahearn field house.

Kansas has won every game here since 1952, when the Wildcats handed the future NCAA champion and Olympic-bound Jayhawks an 81-64 setback.

Kansas, apparently, has never forgotten this loss, because it has been all KU ever since.

Even K-State's conference championship teams have been unable to beat the Jayhawks at Manhattan, bowing, 91-86 in 1956, and 61-44 last year.

Kansas, in fact, has lost only twice in Ahearn field house since the 12,500-capacity arena was opened. This is the main factor in the Jayhawker dominance which has given them 11 of the last 13 decisions in the intra-state rivalry.

"We expect plenty of trouble from Kansas tonight," said Tex Winter, Wildcat coach. "They have good personnel, and if they should ever find themselves, they would be very tough. I just hope they don't do it tonight."

The Wildcat coach said the Jayhawks' success at Manhattan could be contributed in part to the fact that Kansas has nearly always been favored when the teams met here.

This time, however, the odds must lay with the Wildcats. Undeclared in seven Big Eight games, they boast an overall record of 17-1 and have won their last 13 games. A win tonight would break the all-time record for a K-State winning streak, which this year's team shares with the 1950-1951 Big Seven champions.

The Jayhawks, still struggling at 7-10 to reach .500 this season, haven't been such a deep underdog in the series since 1948, when they tied for last while K-State was starting to build their present basketball prowess with its first conference crown since 1919.

The Wildcats won that meeting, 48-29, in old Nichols gym.

Kansas holds down the third spot in the Big Eight with four wins against a pair of setbacks. A defeat tonight would all but end their already slim title hopes.

A Jayhawk win, however, would put Kansas in the thick of the conference race and elevate them to a second place tie with Colorado, at 5-2.

The Jayhawks will rely on a 1-2-3 punch of Ron Loneski, Bill Bridges, and Al Donaghue for most of their scoring.

Loneski, Kansas' all-American candidate, is leading the team with a 19-point average, while Bridges, one of the league's best rebounders, is averaging 12.2.

Donaghue has averaged only 9.8 overall, but has been the Jayhawks' top scoring threat in their last several games.

As a team, the Kansas is having its poorest shooting season in several years, hitting only 33.8 per cent on field goals and 60.7 per cent on free throws.

Winter will go along with his four regular starters, but his fifth man will depend on the defense he plans to utilize. If he chooses to start out with a man-to-man, Bill Guthridge will open at guard, but if he plans to use a zone, the nod will go to Cedric Price.

In a preliminary game to start at 5:30, the K-State freshmen will take on Washburn varsity "B" squad.

It will be the second game for the Cat frosh, following their 72-57 loss to the Kansas freshmen Monday night.

Probable starting lineups:

K-State	Pos.	Kansas
Frank (6-8)	F	(6-4) Donaghue
Douglas (6-4)	F	(6-4) Loneski
Boozar (6-8)	C	(6-5) Bridges
Matuszak (6-0)	G	(5-11) Billings
Guthridge (5-10)	G	(6-2) Hickman

Cavanaugh Quits as Assistant Coach; Notre Dame Aide Named Line Coach

Ed Cavanaugh has resigned his post as assistant line coach at K-State to take a similar position at Arizona university. Bill Walsh, line coach at Notre Dame for the past four seasons, has been named K-State line coach.

The change was announced late yesterday by H. B. "Bebe" Lee, K-State director of athletics.

Cavanaugh's resignation was the second by a K-State assistant coach in the past week. Bob Reynolds announced his resignation as backfield coach last Thursday.

Cavanaugh, who was K-State freshman coach for three seasons before being promoted to assistant varsity coach last season, will be joining Jim LaRue at Arizona.

LaRue coached Cavanaugh when both were stationed at Bainbridge (Md.) Naval Training center in 1952 and 1953. A former assistant to Bill Meek at Southern Methodist, LaRue was appointed head coach at Arizona recently.

Cavanaugh played guard during four years of college football at Duke, where he was tutored by the renowned Wallace Wade.

After his discharge from the Navy, Cavanaugh stepped into his first coaching job at Petersburg, Va., high school. He had a 5-5 record there and moved to K-State in the fall of 1954.

"I have been a close friend of Jim since I played for him at Bainbridge," Cavanaugh explained. "And, of course, I am looking forward to coaching with him."

"At the same time, however, I am sorry to be leaving K-State because of the many attachments we have formed here in the past five years. I leave with only the best feelings for Bus Mertes and K-State."

Walsh played six seasons of professional football with the Pittsburgh Steelers before joining Terry Brennan at Notre Dame ahead of the 1955 season. The 31-year-old coach was graduated from that school with a degree in physical education in 1949.

Bus Mertes, Wildcat head coach, said Walsh would mean "a terrific boost to K-State football."

"Bill is an outstanding coach and person," Mertes said. "He is a great student of football, having had 15 years experience as player and coach. I know Bill well and have seen evidence of his coaching ability. We couldn't be more pleased."

Walsh played in every one of Notre Dame's 38 games while he was in school from 1945 to 1949. He also started at offensive center in every game of his six-season pro career. He was a member of three undefeated Notre Dame teams and a member of two national championship teams there. During his pro play he was named all-league in 1954 and played in the pro bowl in 1951 and 1952.

Boozer has tossed in 154 field goals and has converted 139 of 178 free throws for a total of 447 points in 18 games.

Arlen Clark of Oklahoma State is second in the league with 313 points and an average of 19.6. Clark is the Big Eight's most accurate free throw shooter, with 125 in 147 attempts good for 85 per cent.

Kansas' Ron Loneski is third high scorer in the league with 100 field goals and 66 free throws for a 19-point average.

Grandelius Named To Buff Grid Post

Everett "Sonny" Grandelius, backfield coach at Michigan State university, was named head football coach Monday at the University of Colorado.

The 29-year-old Grandelius was named to the post by President Quigg Newton on the recommendation of a special section committee and a faculty athletic committee.

Newton said the Michigan State assistant coach was recommended by Colorado university Director of Athletics Harry Carlson and by Warren Thompson, Big Eight conference faculty representative for the school.

Grandelius, who will take over the post immediately, will succeed Dallas Ward, who was fired by the Board of Regents January 23.

A starting salary for the new coach was not announced.

KS Third in Polls

The K-State Wildcats are still the nation's third best basketball team, according to the weekly United Press International and Associated Press polls.

Kentucky and North Carolina remained first and second, respectively, in both polls, which were taken before Kentucky's 66-58 loss to Mississippi State Monday night.

Michigan State skidded to 12th in the AP poll after its 85-81 loss to Purdue last Saturday. The Spartans, however, remained seventh in the UPI balloting.

Winter Pleased With Cage Test

Tex Winter, K-State basketball coach, called Monday night's experimental game between the Wildcat varsity reserves and a group of ineligible K-Staters a success, but said he would have to see a lot more of it before he would favor it over the present system.

The reserves beat the ineligible in the game, 60-38. The first half ended when one team had scored 25 points, and the first team to score 60 points was declared the winner. No clock was used.

Only one official was on the court, but two were stationed in a booth about 75 feet above the court.

"For one thing, the officials were too far from the floor," said Winter. "I would like to put them on platforms about 10 feet from and on either side of the court."

Changeable Local Weather Problem to Hawaiian Student

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Wednesday, February 11, 1959-8

"I never know what the weather is going to be like tomorrow here at K-State," says Louise Kusuda, HEN Fr, a Hawaiian student. "It may rain one day and then the sun may shine the next day here, but in Hawaii the weather is the same from one day to the next. There we wear cotton dresses all year, so when I got ready to come to K-State, I had to buy many new clothes suitable for the colder weather."

Louise commented that K-State is a much bigger school than she has ever attended and that she has to study much harder than she had to in Hawaii. Louise can speak three languages—English, Spanish, and Japanese. She took Spanish while she was in high school and learned Japanese in a church program.

In Hawaii, Louise attended the Lahainaluna high school which had about 500 students. The Lahainaluna school was established in 1831 by the American Board of Missionaries to provide literary and religious education for Hawaiians so they could become teachers and ministers.

While she was attending the Lahainaluna school, Louise's counsellor told her about the School of Home Economics at Kansas State, and so Louise decided to come here. She is studying to be a nurse and would like to work as a nurse here in the United States.

Louise is from Lahaina on the island of Maui. In Lahaina, which has a population of approximately 5,000 people, her father is a policeman and her mother is a supervisor in a pineapple factory. She has a sister who is 26, living in El Paso, Texas, a brother, 24, living in Honolulu; and another brother, 20, attending A&M college in New Mexico.

Here at K-State, Louise is an honorary member of the Cosmopolitan club and a member of the Home Ec and Nursing club and the YWCA. Last week, she helped with the presentation of a program for the Feast of Nations. Of course, she did the hula.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

High School Instructors Receive Research Grant

A $16,330 allocation from the National Science foundation will enable 15 Kansas chemistry or physics teachers to work with Kansas State college scientists on research this summer, according to T. D. O'Brien, director of academic research.

The allocation has been made to K-State for a "research participation program for teacher training," O'Brien said. Offers for the nine-week summer program, which will begin June 8 and end August 7, will be sent to teachers in mid-March.

O'Brien, head of the Chemistry department, stated that K-State has offered a combined seminar and lecture-type course for high school physics teachers for the past four summers, while last summer the Chemistry department began a limited teacher participation program.

High school teachers accepted for research participation will work directly with a K-State scientist on professional research. The teachers also will spend several hours a week in seminars on general problems and on research to be conducted by Robert Katz, physics professor.

The $16,330 grant is the second to be received from the National Science foundation recently for summer teacher training programs at K-State. Earlier K-State received $56,500 to support a summer institute for high school mathematics teachers. Approximately 50 teachers will participate in this program.

House Committee Okays 'University' for K-State

The Kansas House Affairs committee approved a bill to change the name of Kansas State college to Kansas State University of Agriculture and Applied Science yesterday.

A letter read to the committee indicated 76 per cent of the school's student body favored the change. A special campus vote was 4,682 for a change and 379 against it.

Alpha Chi's House To Be Built Soon

A contract for the $165,000 Alpha Chi Omega, social sorority house, was signed yesterday. Ground breaking is scheduled for the near future.

The house, to be finished by the start of the school term next fall, is under contract by Hunter and Lundberg of Manhattan.

J. W. Radotinsky, one of the architects for the 52-girl house, is the father of Sandra Radotinsky, FN Sr, an Alpha Chi.

The house will be situated west of the Gamma Phi Beta, social sorority house, and will face north. The building lot that the Alpha Chis purchased is 230 by 200 feet. This area will include a 28-car parking lot.

The front of the house will have accents of cedar paneling and green siding to represent red and green, the Alpha Chi colors. The entrance will be flanked on one side by solid native stone, which will serve as the background for the Greek letters.

It is designed for privacy—the north frontage uses strip windows and unbroken stone panels. The south side has lots of open glass areas.

Students Stage Bonfires Following K-State Victory

About 500 college and high school students staged bonfire celebrations last night in Aggieville after K-State's 82-72 victory over KU. No estimate of the damage has been made, according to Police Chief Leo Osbourn.

Two bonfires, one at Manhattan and Moro and the other at 12th and Moro, were fed with wood and trash from alleys, beer cans and bottles, picket fences, saw horses, wooden signs, two utility poles, and a tree.

Students also damaged a pickup truck owned by Ted Stickle, 1501 Denison. The tailgate was broken, the hood was torn off, the rear window broken, and the air let out of two tires.

Three K-State students were taken into custody by Manhattan police for tearing down a sign in the Campus theater parking lot. They were released later.

Police first thwarted an attempt to start a fire at 12th and Moro about 9:30, but at 9:50 a fire was started at Moro and Manhattan. Both Manhattan and campus police tried to keep things under control but had little success.

Most of the crowd dispersed by 10:45, with the exception of about 100 persons who started another fire at 12th and Moro.

BONFIRE CELEBRATIONS in Aggieville followed K-State's 82-72 victory over KU last night. Dean of Students Herbert J. Wunderlich (foreground) termed the demonstration by some 500 students "a poor tradition."

KANSAS GOV. GEORGE DOCKING (left) and K-State Pres. James A. McCain exchange a hearty handshake before the K-State-KU basketball game last night. Governor and Mrs. Docking arrived on one of seven buses which brought Kansas Legislators and their wives to Manhattan for a buffetaria in the Union and the game.

McGee To Keynote LUNA Assembly

Gale McGee, Democratic Senator from Wyoming, will get the Little United Nations assembly underway at an all-College assembly in the Auditorium next Friday at 9:30 a.m.

McGee, 43, a member of the Senate Appropriations committee, was elected to his first term last November. A former professor at the University of Wyoming, he exemplifies the trend toward younger men in the Legislature. He is slated for a major foreign policy speech on the Senate floor this week.

McGee will discuss strengthening the position of the U.S. in the UN at a LUNA session at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Students who will participate in the Little United Nations assembly February 19, 20, and 21, are studying intensively this week so they will be prepared to present the national views of the countries they will represent.

Delegates will have their first chance to present these views at the opening session of LUNA, Thursday night, February 19.

To get information about the countries they represent, delegate chairmen have used the resources of the library, have studied books and periodicals owned by Dr. Joseph Hadja, assistant professor of history and government, and have even written to the United Nations delegations in New York.

At the first session, all of the 82 member countries of LUNA, corresponding to the 82 members of the United Nations, will be represented, according to Dr. Hadja.

National costumes and songs will add to the air of festivity and will help to make a colorful opening.

President James A. McCain will extend a welcome to the delegates from the college at the Thursday night assembly. Gov.

George Docking will then extend a welcome to the delegates from the state of Kansas.

Michael K. Newton, British Information officer from Kansas City, who covers the midwest and mountain area, will give a "British View of the UN Today" at the evening session.

Eleanor Roosevelt To Talk in Topeka

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will speak on her recent trip to Russia tonight at 8:15 in the Municipal auditorium in Topeka. Mrs. Roosevelt's topic will be "Russia, the Country and the People as I Saw Them."

Tickets for the address will be sold at the door.

Mrs. Roosevelt is being sponsored by the Topeka chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, national women's education fraternity.

Draft To Avoid Students

Kansas State men who are wondering how the draft will affect their finishing school can quit worrying, in most cases, according to Mrs. JeJan Beeler of the Riley County Draft board. The average age of men inducted through the local board is 22—which means that usually only seniors are in line for induction. The average age of inductees in other Kansas counties is also 22, Mrs. Beeler said.

Seniors usually can finish school since men receiving notices to report during a fall or spring semester are allowed to complete that academic year of work. But no allowance is made if the notice comes while students are attending summer school, Mrs. Beeler says.

While married men are not being given any draft advantages merely for being married, those with children are not being taken. Fathers aren't being taken as enlistees unless they make high scores on enlistment exams.

Although the monthly draft quotas across the country average around 7,000 to 10,000 (the Kansas quota for March is only 87), the proposed four-year extension of the peacetime draft law seems likely.

Students—and others—who find that two years of active military service does not fit into their future plans, have two possible alternatives. They can qualify for a critical skills classification or they may serve only three months or they can get into the Army's six-month program for its reservists and National Guardsmen.

Grievances, Complaints, Gripes; It Seems Everybody Has 'Em

By Sara Schultz

Grievances, complaints, or gripes, no matter what you call them, everybody's got them. All but one of the students interviewed had a gripe about school, K-State or Manhattan. And of course everyone had a complaint about the weather.

ROGER MOCHAMER, BAA Jr—Anderson Avenue should be fixed.

BEN BRENT, AH Sr—Manhattan is too small for a college town and does not provide enough entertainment.

WALT BESECKE, EE Soph—The streets are too narrow, and I don't like getting a social permit for every little thing.

ELAINE HENDERSON, TxC Fr—I think the cab service in Manhattan is too slow and I think they should charge by distance rather than the number of passengers.

PATSY DUNNING, Eng Fr—I love school, classes, activities, the basketball team, and everything but the weather.

ELAINE SMITH, TJ Fr—I dislike teachers who keep you in class after the bell rings.

KILO HOBBS, EE Soph—I think we need more sororities.

MAX MATTSON, DM Jr—Why be a nonconformist? I'll agree with everyone else.

MARY MOLINE, SED Fr—I wish there were more to do than just going to movies.

ALYCE MOTTESHEARD, HE Fr—There should be bus service on Sundays.

LARRY JONES, EE Sr—Student instructors should be better informed on the subject they are teaching.

KARLA WHITE, Gen Fr—Money should be spent for new class rooms rather than an addition to the Union.

SARAH HYBSKMANN, HET Fr—The college should have a bookstore, possibly in the Union.

CHESTER GOOD, Agr Sr—The Student Union parking lot should be cleaned up and the surfacing should be finished.

JACKIE DEWEY, Gen Fr—The boys should stop worrying about the ratio of girls to boys and date more.

JANET NELSON, SED Soph—Physical education should not be compulsory.

DELTA SIGS—The girl situation is our biggest gripe.

Senator Calls for UN Conciliation To Reduce Tension in Germany

Compiled from UPI
By JOHN HOKANSON

Washington—Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) called today for United Nations conciliation to unify Berlin and ease a German crisis which threatens war or a "disastrous diplomatic retreat."

The assistant Democratic leader and Foreign Relations committee member said the time has come for positive action and "a great deal of talk" between East and West Germans. Berliners should start negotiating now, Mansfield said.

He outlined nine "essentials" for a new Western policy on Germany, including careful consideration of proposals for a demilitarized zone in middle Europe.

"We are approaching the beginning of the end, the beginning of the end of two Berlins and of two Germanies," Mansfield said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery.

He said the U.S. policy of "standing fast in Berlin" is just a slogan and is "not enough." A policy which does not go beyond demands for free all-German elections is a "straitjacket," he added.

Bonn—Soviet diplomats here hint that their price for dropping threats of a new Berlin blockade might be cancellation of Western plans to provide atomic weapons for West Germany's growing army.

They say that plans to supply West German troops with American-made atomic weapons cause the Kremlin much more concern than the presence of token U.S. British and French forces in Communist-encircled West Berlin.

The diplomats say privately that a Western promise to abandon these plans might well be matched by a Soviet "counter-concession"—a promise to drop the idea of handing over control of West Berlin traffic to local Communists on May 27.

May Learn of Convention

Washington—The Senate Rackets committee promised to reveal for the first time today part of the inside story of what went on at the secret 1957 "underworld convention" at Apalachin, N.Y.

Chief Counsel Robert F. Kennedy tipped newsmen that this disclosure was coming as the committee pushed deeper into a juke box jungle inhabited by New York hoodlums and labor racketeers.

The committee heard testimony that underworld figures in all parts of the country have fattened their money belts on the nickels and dimes pouring into juke boxes, pinball games and vending machines.

Resist REA Money Shift

Washington—The National Rural Electric Cooperative association today urged Congress to resist Administration attempts to shift financing of rural electric systems from government to private sources.

Specifically, NRECA asked Congress to oppose any and all proposals which would raise the present 2 per cent interest rate on Rural Electrification administration loans. It also asked congressional protection from an Eisenhower administration proposal which would send the rural systems into the private money market for their loans.

These requests to Congress, in resolution form, were regarded as a slap in the face of the administration.

Congress To Meet Jointly Today To Honor Memory of Lincoln

By UPI

The Congress of the United States gathered in joint session today to honor the memory of Abraham Lincoln.

The occasion: The 150th anniversary of the birth of the first Republican president in a Kentucky log cabin.

Southerner and Northerner—Democrat and Republican—came together to hear poet Carl Sandburg praise Lincoln as the man who enabled that Union to prevail.

The last time Congress met in joint session to honor Lincoln was a cold rainy Monday, February 12, 1866.

The great Civil War had ended less than a year before. Lincoln was dead—murdered. The south was a wasteland—conquered. Hate seeped through the land.

Now... 96 years after Gettysburg... 98 years after Bull Run... a century after John Brown... Congress met in joint session again.

But the full measure of the tribute to Lincoln was to be seen on Capitol Hill.

Poet Carl Sandburg today told a joint session of Congress the "most enduring memorial to Lincoln is in the hearts of lovers of liberty."

The Congress met in pomp and humility to honor the memory of the Civil War president on the 150th anniversary of his birth in a Kentucky log cabin 20 years after the founding of the Union that he later preserved.

Southerner and Northerner—Democrat and Republican—sat side by side as Sandburg praised Abraham Lincoln as the type of man who appears "here and there across the centuries." Earlier, the Army band crashed out "Dixie" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Sandburg, Lincoln's most famed biographer, described the first Republican president as a man of "steel and velvet... hard as rock and soft as drifting fog." He said Lincoln stood for "decency, honest dealing, plain talk and funny stories."

CONNIE CRISTLER, EEd Fr, practices her winning style in Nichols gym. She hopes to add to her collection of 70 trophies when the tennis season opens.

Girl Tennis Player Owns 70 Trophies

Philadelphia, St. Louis, Dayton and Louisville are just a few of the places which have become familiar to Connie Cristler, EEd Fr, as she tours the country playing tennis. Connie has been playing tennis for six summers and is now ranged second in the Missouri Valley conference and twenty-first in the nation.

Connie has played in several national championship tournaments on grass courts in Philadelphia. She has been a member of the Missouri Valley girls intersectional team for three years and captain for the past two years. Before going to Philadelphia she played at Wilmington, Del., so she could become accustomed to grass courts. The week after playing in Wilmington her team won first in the consolation of the girls intersectional team matches at Philadelphia.

Connie, who has collected approximately 70 trophies, (she's lost count) is a member of the Plaza tennis club in Kansas City. She has won most of the Kansas City tournaments and has also won the Midwest tournament at Omaha several times.

Ice skating was Connie's original interest, but when the rink in Kansas City was closed she turned her spare time to tennis.

Two of the biggest thrills which tennis has brought her were staying with the DuPont family on one of her trips to Wilmington, and meeting Ricky Nelson at the Kentucky State Open.

After graduation she plans to teach elementary school during the winter and tennis during the summer. Until then she is working out with the K-State varsity tennis team.

Radio, Television Students Gain Experience . . .

A student-operated radio station and closed channel TV offer students in the Department of Radio and Television at K-State a first hand look at what goes on in the field in as realistic a manner as possible.

According to Corky Hudiburg Sp Sr, students in this department begin by taking survey courses in radio and TV and courses in basic writing and speaking techniques for these specific media. Courses are offered in different types of special program writing and in continuity writing, which includes commercials and outlining program structure.

In the dramatic techniques and TV production classes, students write, direct, and act in programs which are produced on-camera over the closed TV channel. The department has two cameras and lighting similar to that in a commercial TV studio.

KSDB-FM, the student operated radio station does actual broadcasting and college credit can be received for participation. Students may have their own shows, such as news, sports, or weather.

A student manager is in charge of the station, and daily directors keep a log of the shows that will be produced each day. The actual directors of the shows are departmentalized under the headings of programs, continuity, sports, music, traffic, news, publicity, special events, dramatics, and women's program directors. These directors are responsible for all shows and spots in their specific categories.

Corky said in interviewing for a job in TV in Washington, D.C. last summer, she received favorable comments on the courses she had taken at K-State. Her interviewer felt that K-State offered everything a college should in the way of preparation for work in the field and that the K-State department was quite well rounded.

After she graduates this spring, Corky hopes to work in Kansas City, both writing for TV and doing some on-camera work. She said that many K-State graduates in radio-TV have been employed in Topeka and over the state.

According to Corky, the department at K-State prepares men well for sports and news announcing and for TV directing. Many women, she said, work in the field of women's program and TV writing in general.

The student-operated station also offers students a chance to get practical experience in operating technical equipment for radio and TV as well as writing and programming. Student-operated equipment may include anything from controls to cameras.

Bob Boozer Leads Wildcats To 82-72 Victory over KU

Bob Boozer scored 20 points in the second half last night to lead the K-State Wildcats to their first home-court basketball win over the Kansas Jayhawks in six years, 82-72.

It was the 14th straight victory for the Wildcats, breaking the all-time record for consecutive wins for a K-State team held by the 1950-51 squad.

With this win, the Wildcats stayed undefeated in the Big Eight title race and stretched their lead over second-place Colorado to 2½ games.

Kansas jumped off to a 1-0 lead on a free throw by Bob Billings, but Wally Frank and Boozer hit jump shots to put K-State into the lead.

The Jayhawks went back in front at 8-7 on a fielder by Bill Bridges and built their lead to 11-7 as Ron Loneski hit a free throw and Bridges added a field goal.

Kansas led by as many as six points during the first 10 minutes, until Wally Frank followed a jump shot with a free throw to reduce the lead to 18-15.

Frank tied the game at 19-19 with a pair of charity tosses after being fouled by Al Donaghue with 9:06 left.

Matuszak hit a layup to put K-State in front, but the score changed hands six times during the next four minutes.

Bridges' field goal gave Kansas its last lead of the half, 28-27.

Cedric Price and Steve Douglas then scored fielders to boost the Wildcats into a three-point lead with 4:23 remaining.

After an exchange of baskets, Boozer extended the K-State lead to 36-31 with a free throw and a 15-foot jumper.

A pair of free throws by Monte Johnson and another by Bridges reduced the gap to 36-35 and closed out the first half scoring.

After using a man-to-man defense in the first half, the Wildcats switched to a zone in the final period. Bridges scored a fielder to give Kansas the lead, but Frank cranked through a jump shot to put the Wildcats out in front for good.

With 16:04 left, Boozer canned a jump shot and the K-State lead widened to 47-41.

The Wildcats kept the pressure on, and with deadly shooting by Boozer, began to build a lead. With 10:55 left, Boozer scored from down under to make it 61-49.

K-State enjoyed its largest lead of the night at 70-15, but the Jayhawks began a mild comeback which pulled them to within nine of the Wildcats at 74-65.

But free throws by Heinz and Don Matuszak plus a layup after a steal by the Wildcat guard iced the game at 78-65 with only 1:10 remaining.

The Cats had one of their best shooting nights of the year, hitting 33 of 71 for 46.5 per cent. The Jayhawks were nearly as hot, with 25 of 59 for 42.4 per cent.

"K-State's zone defense killed us," said Dick Harp, Kansas coach, after the game. "We hadn't played against a zone since the North Carolina State game, and we went flat when the Wildcats changed their defense."

The Jayhawk coach believes Bill Bridges' effort was the best ever by a Kansas player against K-State. "It's just too bad we couldn't have had a little more effort from someone besides Bridges," said Harp.

"It was easily Bridges' best effort of the season," he added.

The Jayhawk center nearly matched Boozer basket for basket, ending up with a total of 28 points against 33 for the Wildcat star.

KU No. 2 in Conference, Says KS Coach Winter

Coach Tex Winter, relieved and happy after the Wildcats' 82-72 win over Kansas university last night, their first home win over the Jayhawks since 1952, called KU "the second best ball club in the league."

"They're the best offensive rebounding club we've faced all year," Winter said, "and they played exceptionally well tonight, perhaps the best they're capable of."

"It's hard to see why a team like that doesn't have a better record."

"When we moved out to a five or six point lead at the start of the second half, it was hard for them to work the ball for quick shots and pull back," Winter said.

Winter thought the Cats played a good game, along with the fact that they got quite a few easy shots.

"Boozer had a fine second half," Winter said, "but it wasn't his best night because he didn't do as well defensively and at rebounding as he could have."

Winter credited Don Matuszak with exceptional performance and also said Mickey Heinz as a reserve did a good job.

Wildcat Freshmen Humble Washburn

K-State's freshman cagers defeated the Washburn "B" squad, 83-49 last night, in a game which preceded the K-State-Kansas game in Ahearn field house.

It was the season's second game against outside competition for the young Wildcats, following their 72-57 loss to the Kansas frosh Monday.

The Wildcats had little trouble after building up a 44-17 halftime score. Mike Wroblewski led the Cat scoring attack, which had six men in double figures.

Freshman Coach Ernie Barrett was pleased with his team's victory. "We were more relaxed to night than we were against Kansas last Monday," he said.

"We gained a lot of experience tonight," he added "I only wish we could have had this game under our belts before we met Kansas."

Barrett was especially pleased with the play of Warren Brown. "Brown handled our fast break real well," Barrett said. "He showed a lot of improvement over his play Monday."

Small-College Cager's 70 Outshines NCAA Powers

By UPI

Kansas State, St. Louis, and Texas Christian seem headed for post-season basketball tournaments, all right, but they almost had their basketball thunder stolen last night by a young man who scored 70 points and grabbed 36 rebounds in a single game.

Those amazing figures were turned in by 6-5 Paul Wilcox of Davis and Elkins during a 116-90 victory over Glenville.

Wilcox, a native of Pittsburgh, took 44 shots and sank 32 of them. He added six free throws for his 70-point total which shattered the West Virginia conference record of 63 (which he held), was the highest by any collegian this year, and was the sixth highest total ever recorded in small-college cage history. Wilcox, a junior, is the nation's leading small-college scorer.

St. Louis, ranked ninth nationally by the UPI Board of Coaches, took over second place in the Missouri Valley conference by beating eighth-ranked Bradley, 72-53, at St. Louis.

Texas Christian opened a two-game lead in the Southwest conference race by trouncing Texas A. & M., 80-61, at Fort Worth. H. E. Kirchner set a season high for TCU players with 31 points, sinking 14 of his 18 field goal attempts. The Frogs, now 8-1 in the loop, need to win only three of their last five loop games to clinch the crown and an NCAA tourney berth.

Villanova, which already has accepted an NIT berth, ran its season record to 16-4 with a 57-48 win over Canisius.

Teams entered are: Southeast hall, Northwest hall, Van Zile hall, Waltheim hall, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Gamma Phi Beta, Alpha Delta Pi, three teams from Chi Omega, and the Blitz Babes, an independent group.

Dick Boyd Winner Of Roundball Picks

Dick Boyd, TJ Sr, missed the actual score by only one point as he won yesterday's Roundball Picks contest with his prediction of an 83-72 K-State win over Kansas. The actual score was 82-72.

Boyd guessed that Bob Boozer would be the top K-State scorer with 27 points. Boozer scored 33.

A new record of 55 contestants submitted entries. Of these, 50 picked a K-State victory and five predicted a Kansas win.

Brad Bochow, Psy Soph, Terry Knowles, TJ Jr, and Bob Vernon tied for second place. Bochow guessed the score to be 78-72, Knowles, 86-72, and Vernon, 82-68.

Bochow, however, was given the nod on his prediction of Boozer to score 30 points. Vernon guessed Boozer at 21, and Knowles guessed Boozer at 26.

Cat Swimming Team To Meet ES Tonight

Carrying a 4-5 record, the K-State swimming team will meet Emporia State in a dual match at Emporia tonight.

It will be the second meeting of the teams this year. The Wildcats won the first match, 73-13.

K-State will be weakened by the loss of Craig McNeal, who won the 60-yard free style and was a member of both winning relay teams in the last meeting between the teams.

Dallas Chestnut, undefeated Wildcat diver, will not make the trip because of scholastic tests. Dave Noblitt, who placed third in the teams' first match, is being counted on by Coach Bill Thrall to fill the gap left by Chestnut.

"We are counting on Dave Hinderlitter to replace McNeal, said Thrall. "He will have to carry a big load, because we are counting heavily on him in the 100-yard free style and in the relays.

K-State entries:

440-yard medley relay—Dave Leavengood, Al Rader, Dave Hinderlitter, Jerry Fitzgerald.

220-yard freestyle—Tom Coblenz.

50-yard freestyle — Gordon Harper, Chuck Englund.

Diving—Dave Noblitt.

200-yard butterfly—Fitzgerald, Englund.

KS Faculty Starts Weekly Luncheons

K-State faculty members have started the tradition of having informal luncheons in the Union cafeteria every Friday. Each week, a different department will act as host.

"In addition to providing an opportunity to get better acquainted with the members of other departments, these luncheons provide an opportunity to chat informally with the President and administrative officers about matters of importance to the faculty," says Ollie White, Union program director.

The talent show will give two performances in Ames tonight, and will complete its tour in Lincoln, Sunday.

City Police To Arrest Four K-State Students

Dean of Students Herbert J. Wunderlich this morning released the names of four K-State students who will be arrested for their part in the student rioting in Aggieville Wednesday night after the K-State-KU basketball game.

Wunderlich reported that he did not know whether warrants had been served on the students yet, but that they would be prosecuted in the Riley County Police court and will be dealt with "sternly" by the College tribunal next week. Police Chief Leo Osbourn reported this morning, however, that warrants had not yet been served.

Names will not be published until complaints have been signed and warrants served.

Eleanor Roosevelt Tells Of Soviet Land, People

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking at the Topeka Municipal auditorium last night, called upon citizens of the United States to "commit ourselves to spiritual guidance" in an effort to make the world a better place for every human being.

Mrs. Roosevelt, whose speech topic was "Russia, the Country and the People as I Saw Them," stated that to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev war is unthinkable because in war he would suffer equally with his enemies. "Khrushchev," she said, "is more interested in reaching his objective of a Communist world through economical and cultural means."

The Soviet Union uses education in its struggle to gain the majority of the uncommitted areas of the world, Mrs. Roosevelt said.

The Soviets claim the brotherhood of man as one of the basic tenets of Communism, according to Mrs. Roosevelt. "The only thing I saw printed in the Soviet Union about the U.S. was a report of the Little Rock incident with no comment," she said.

The Soviet also appeals to the two-thirds of the people of the world who go to bed hungry. They say "Your people are hungry—41 years ago (before the revolution our people were hungry too)." "If you were hungry," said Mrs. Roosevelt, "how would you feel upon hearing that the U.S. government is paying to keep land out of production?"

Two K-State Professors Join Preservation Group

Alden Krider, associate professor in the department of Architecture and Allied Arts, and Prof. Morris H. Beckman have been appointed preservation officer and assistant preservation officer, respectively, for Kansas in the American Institute of Architect's national preservation program.

The AIA, through its Washington, D.C. office, appoints two officers in each state to investigate any buildings of historical or outstanding interest in the state.

This survey is a long-range program, which was started in 1933 by architects of the National Park service, for assembling archives of early American architecture in the Library of Congress.

The selection of subjects is largely a local responsibility of the state officers. Emphasis is placed on early structures and those likely to disappear soon.

The preservation officer decides which buildings are worth being recorded and preserved and a complete file is compiled on each one that is destined for preservation.

Beckman noted that, as yet, there are no recordings of Kansas buildings in the Library of Congress.

Valentine Greeting Forms Vary Among KS Couples

By HELEN SPLICHAL

K-State couples have many ways of exchanging valentine greetings.

The "true-sweet" valentines remain the favorites among the twosomes. In fact, they are out-selling the contemporary cards ten to one. The bigger and better the valentine is, the better it sells.

Candy in heart shaped boxes is a popular gift for men to give their girls. If heart shaped boxes are too expensive, plain boxes with valentines and cupids on the wrapping are proving to be satisfactory substitutes.

Jewelry and traditional flowers are other ways to say "Be my valentine." Red and white carnations and red roses are the most popular flowers, but potted plants are being given more and more.

Married couples tend to be more economical in their valentine greetings than single couples. One thrifty K-State wife is giving her husband a slide rule, and a husband reported that he was giving his wife a textbook.

Tokyo—The Republic of Korea broke off negotiations aimed at establishing normal relations with Japan in a rapid-fire reaction today to Japanese cabinet endorsement of a plan to repatriate Korean residents in Japan to Communist North Korea.

Yiu Tai Hai, ROK minister to Tokyo, informed Japanese Vice-Foreign Minister Hisanari Yamada that the Seoul government considered the talks "ruptured."

The Japanese cabinet endorsement of Foreign Minister Aichihiro Fujiyama's repatriation plans came in spite of stiff warnings of possible consequences by the Republic of South Korea.

Lady Senator to Peruse Stewart's Qualifications

Washington—The lady Senator from Maine today was weighing once more the wisdom of giving movie actor James Stewart an Air Force general's star.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) said she was going to "check the records" to determine the merits of President Eisenhower's second nomination of the slow-talking film star for promotion from colonel to brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve.

Crook Gets Away with Nearly 1500 Empty Cigarette Packages, That Is!

By Margaret Cooper

THE PHI KAPPA PSI fraternity of Iowa State has lost all hope of winning a hi-fi set by turning in the largest number of empty cigarette packs. Between 1,000 and 1,500 empty packs were stolen from them during the early hours of the morning. At least someone is going to have a pretty good chance to win the prize!

A REVOLUTION not quite equaling the Cuban revolt is taking place at the University of Minnesota. A protest to the inefficiency of the All-University Congress is being waged by the "Pig and Coffee Club." Posters reading "What has AUC done for you?", "AUC is Dead," and "AUC is Illegal" were carried through the Union lunchrooms. The tall bearded student leader says that he can't even invite his girl to his apartment for a drink, because the Student Activities bureau says he isn't qualified. Nor can he continue to live in his rented apartment, as it has no fire escape. This supposedly adult man has apparently forgotten that he is a member of a very large organization which must have some rules in order to protect others from people like himself.

THE OHIO STATE Morning Lantern offers advice to young couples considering marriage—plan to spend between $10-$15 a week for the food bill. This figure, it observes, will rise when baby comes along. There are ways however to minimize grocery costs. For instance, good management and a liking for hamburger served in various forms!

FROM the University Daily Kansan — Trouble strengthens character, the old adage says. So you see it isn't inefficiency that promotes problems and dilemmas during enrollment. It's just the administration's way of improving our character.

THE seniors have been referred to as apathetic but the senior men, after gazing on the crop of senior girls, would like to eliminate the first "a."

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Wunderlich Finds No Routine As Kansas State Dean of Students

By DORIS MILLER

"There are no dull moments—it is a very exciting job," says Dean of Students Herbert J. Wunderlich about his position. "If I were to list the things a dean of students is supposed to do, I'd probably have a list of 52 or 53 different jobs."

All of the student service agencies are co-ordinated through the dean of student's office. These services are those such as health, counseling, housing, religious activities, food, and the Union.

"This leads to certain basic responsibilities for the selection of staff, policies, budgets, and program. These are all administratively co-ordinated through this office," Wunderlich added.

"A dean of students has to be constantly alert to be thinking and planning for areas that will serve the students in recreation, personal growth, and general welfare, with an awareness of the relationship of these services to the education of the students."

"I have to be always thinking ahead to plan the extracurricular and educational activities close to the needs and desires of the students. Keeping in touch with student needs and desires involves a great deal of paper work such as surveys and statistical data, which our personnel services gather, enabling us to analyze these needs and desires."

"An example of this is housing. We have to anticipate the need for it in the future. And our college aptitude tests help us to find scholastic abilities, which aids in the advising and selection of scholars."

"This office is also responsible, under the designation of President McCain, for disciplinary life on campus. However, it is often a misconception of the students that this is all we do. Actually this is the least of our business. Students at K-State have a deep sense of personal responsibility for everything they do. They are concerned about their personal growth and reputation and are always seeking improvement. This probably comes from student religious convictions, family backgrounds, and stable communities."

"When we do have a disciplinary problem, we think of it as a process of rehabilitation rather than punishment. Whenever possible, though, we function like a public health program—in preventive areas—to minimize the need of discipline. We co-operate and work with several self-governing units, such as the residence halls, IFC, Panhellenic council, AWS, Tribunal, and others."

"Planning an organization close to student needs and developing extracurricular areas adds to the welfare of students in an educational way. If the student is well fed, well housed, and is in good health emotionally and physically, it makes for a much better student," he added.

"We are unique here at KSC in that we have this co-ordinated student personnel service. Each service helps one another. For example, if a student is having trouble with his grades, it could be the fault of poor health. The counseling center can help the student improve his grades and the Student Health service can help restore his health. We all work together this way."

Wunderlich came here in 1955 from the University of Montana where he held the same position. He received his Masters degree from Harvard and his Doctors from Stanford.

"Only in the last quarter century has any student been given to preparing for student personnel work," he says. "Industry and the military make great use of this in the training of employees. The original field of training for a dean of students can be anything from chemistry to journalism to English. However, one usually finishes off his field with studies of psychology, sociology, education, administration, or something similar."

"But one of the most important things is that a dean of students has to have a liking for and a liking to work with people. He has to be able to withstand the rigor of his office and enjoy it day and night, seven days a week."

"He not only has to take care of others' problems, he has his own to cope with and there is no one to help him with his. It takes much more than training; individual personality counts heavily in determining the success of a dean of students."

SGA Fund Auction Nets $212

"Going once, twice, sold for $20 to the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity—enough Alpha Delta Pi's to decorate for a party or special event in the next three weeks!" announced auctioneer Dennis Owen, NE Fr, at the SGA Funds Drive auction in the Union lounge yesterday afternoon.

A total of $212.45 was received from services such as house cleaning, odd jobs, entertainment, and meal service, sold by several organized houses. The most expensive item was Sigma Phi Epsilon pledges to do chores sold to Kappa Kappa Gamma for $28.

A unique item was the Kappa's offer to sell a girl to act as housemother for a Saturday afternoon. The Sig Ep's bought this, in addition to girls for chores at the house, for $12.25.

Pi Beta Phi will serve a meal, draw caricatures, and give a fashion show of bathing suits and sport clothes for the Sig Ep's for $3.50.

Fraternity pledges were sold in abundance as Chi Omega bought Kappa Sigma pledges for $25; Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledges were sold to the Kappas for $28; Waltheim bought 10 Sig Ep pledges for $26; and Kappa Kappa Gamma also bought 10 Sig Ep pledges for $22.

Joyce Rodgers, Mth Soph, said that she expected better response from the fraternities. "However, I was quite pleased with the results for the first year and I hope it will become an annual event," she added.

Later in the Spring, the SGA is planning a sacrificial dinner to take place in the organized houses. "In a sacrificial dinner, the students will eat the equivalent of what a foreign person has to eat in one whole day. The money that is left from preparing the meal will go into the Drive fund," Miss Rogers explained.

The collection that was planned to be taken at the K-State-KU game was called off at the last minute when it was found that soliciting at games is against faculty rules.

The committee in charge of the auction was Ron Welling, Mth Gr; Dennis Owen, NE Fr; Bill Benson, EE Fr; Joleen Irvine, MGS Fr; and Miss Rogers.

KS Players To Present Students' One-Act Plays

If you have ever felt like writing a play, now is the time to do it, according to Assoc. Prof. John Robson.

The K-State Players will present a series of original one-act plays April 25 and 26. The scripts for these plays will be due in Mr. Robson's office March 15.

The only requirements are that the person entering is enrolled in one class at K-State, that the play is an original, not an adaptation, and that it has not been presented before. Collaborations will be allowed.

The plays should be from 20 to 40 minutes in length and should include stage directions. It is preferable that they be typed as well.

Mr. Robson will gladly discuss any plays with the author before the deadline.

Three or four of the plays will be presented this year, but some of the good ones that are not used this year may be used next year.

Cats To Tackle Hank Iba's Cowboys In League Cage Tilt Tomorrow Night

With Wednesday's 82-72 win over Kansas under their belts, the K-State Wildcats will meet the only Big Eight team they have yet to beat when they host Hank Iba's Oklahoma State Cowboys tomorrow night in Ahearn field house.

The Wildcats, with six conference games remaining, need only four more wins to assure themselves a share of the Big Eight title. The Cats are 8-0 in league play and lead second-place Colorado by two and one-half games.

This will be K-State's first Big Eight meeting with the Cowboys, who joined the conference only this year. The teams, however, faced each other last March in the Midwest Regional NCAA tournament at Lawrence and the Wildcats came out on top, 69-57.

Counting that win, the Cats now own a 10-2 lead in the all-time series with the Cowboys. Oklahoma State's last win over K-State was back in 1928, and the Wildcats have won all of the nine games since then.

Tomorrow night's contest will feature the meeting of the Big Eight's top two scorers in K-State's Bob Boozer and the Cowboys' Arlen Clark. Boozer has the edge so far, with a 25.3 average in 19 games, while Clark is scoring at the rate of 19.8 points a game.

Clark is third in the all-time Oklahoma State scoring parade. The 6-8 senior has 1,025 in his career, against Bob Kurland's 1,669 and Bob Mattick's 1,378.

Boozer already owns most of the Wildcat scoring records. His 1,474 career total is far in front of the previous best of 1,184 by Jack Parr. Boozer's 680 in Big Eight play is another K-State all-time mark.

He now has his sights set on the one-season conference total of 268 set by Dick Knostman in 1953. Boozer has 200 in eight games this season.

Wildcat Coach Tex Winter is expected to go along with the lineup which has started the last two games. This would be the tall frontline trio of Boozer, Wally Frank, and Cedric Price, along with Don Matuszak and Steve Douglas at guards.

Although this unit averages slightly over 6-5, the Cowboys can come within an inch per man of matching it. Iba will probably give the starting nod to 6-4 Bill Clarahan and 6-6 Dennis Walker at forwards; Clark at center; and 6-2 Lew Wade and 5-10 Don Heffington at guards.

In a pre-game attraction starting at 6, the Wildcat freshmen cagers will meet a team of K-State football players.

Probable starting lineup.

K-State	Pos.	Okl. State
Frank (6-8)	F	(6-4) Clarahan
Boozer (6-8)	F	(6-6) Walker
Price (6-6)	C	(6-8) Clark
Matuszak (6-0)	G	(5-10) Heffington
Douglas (6-4)	G	(6-2) Wade

New York university clamored today for a berth in the National Invitation tournament on the strength of its streak-busting upset of West Virginia.

"This win bears out what I've been saying all along," said first-year coach Lou Rossini of NYU after his Violets nipped 10th ranked West Virginia, 72-70, in overtime at Madison Square Garden last night.

"We have only a so-so overall record of 8-6," Rossini admitted, "but I think we deserve N.I.T. consideration because of the tough schedule we play. And I think we proved that last night."

Cal Ramsey was the Violets' high scorer with 30 points. He sank three free throws in the last 78 seconds to give NYU its winning margin.

Wildcat Swimmers To Meet Nebraska

Following last night's 66-19 dual-match victory over Emporia State, the K-State swimming team will meet Nebraska at Lincoln tomorrow in another dual.

Dallas Chestnut, undefeated Wildcat diver who missed the meet last night, will compete against Nebraska and will join Dave Noblitt, last night's diving winner, in that event.

Craig McNeal is still out of action due to illness of undetermined origin. According to Bill Thrall, K-State coach, McNeal might be lost for the year.

Tom Coblentz was the only double winner last night. He won both the 220-yard freestyle and the 440-yard freestyle events. His time of 5:08.1 in the latter set a new K-State varsity record.

Last night's win raised K-State's record to 5-5. Thrall said that Nebraska has a strong team, and that the Wildcats would have to do their best in order to win the meet.

KS To Meet Cowboys, KU In Track Meet at Lawrence

K-State's indoor track team will meet two of the Big Eight's powers tomorrow night when it invades Lawrence for a triangular meet with Kansas and Oklahoma State.

Because of the Jayhawk over-all power and a handful of stars boasted by Oklahoma State, Ward Haylett, Wildcat coach, doesn't give K-State much of a chance to finish with team honors.

"We have good boys, but not enough of them," said Haylett. "We lack depth and it will certainly hurt us."

Haylett sees a classic mile

League Cagers To See Action In Four Games

All eight conference teams will be in action tomorrow night as the Big Eight basketball race passes the halfway mark.

While most of the attention will be centered on the Kansas State-Oklahoma State meeting at Manhattan, the second-place Colorado Buffalos will be fighting to remain in the running when they host the Missouri Tigers.

A Missouri win tomorrow night would nearly end the Buffaloes' already dying title hopes.

Kansas, meanwhile, will try to get back in the winning column when it meets Nebraska at Lincoln. The Jayhawks, who share third place in the Big Eight with Oklahoma, will be shooting for their fifth conference win against three losses. The Cornhuskers are 3-4 in league play.

Seventh-place Iowa State will journey to Norman in search of its third league win against six losses. The Sooners must win if they hope to strengthen their position in the Big Eight's first division.

"I think the mile relay could turn up some great times," he said. "It is not inconceivable that all three teams could run under the Big Eight indoor record of 3:20, particularly on the larger track at Kansas."

The Cat coach bases much of his feeling on last week's results at the Michigan State relays. There the Wildcat mile relay team covered the distance in 3:19, only to be edged out by the Kansas entry, which clocked 3:18.8.

Jim Cain, K-State's ace shot-put artist, appears to be the top man in the field. Cain has reached 53-5½ this year at Michigan State and holds the school record with a toss of 53-9¾ last season.

With DeLoss Dodds and Jim Vader, the Wildcats stand a good chance in the 440-yard dash. Dodds was timed in 50.7 in a meet at Omaha this year.

A pair of sophomores, Rex Stucker and Bob Groszek, shoulder K-State's hopes in the hurdles and the 880-yard run. Stucker has been clocked in 7.0 in the 60-yard lows and 7.5 in the 60-yard highs. Groszek won the half-mile in 1:59.3 in the Omaha meet.

The Jayhawks boast another outstanding sophomore, Dan Ralston, two-miler, who won the event at Michigan State in 9:13.5. This is the best time ever for a Big Eight sophomore in the event.

Oklahoma State has a pair of fine pole-vaulters in Aubrey Dooley and Jim Graham, 1956 Olympian. Both have vaulted over 14-2.

Kansas, Sooner Bowlers Meet K-State Tomorrow

The K-State bowling team will be in action for the first time this semester when it hosts Oklahoma State and Kansas in a match in the Union Bowling alley tomorrow afternoon.

The Jayhawks won an earlier meeting against K-State in Lawrence last semester.

In tomorrow's match, each bowler will roll six lines, and the six-man teams will compete against each other in singles and doubles matches.

The top five on each team will then compete against a sixth team,

Gymnasts To Take 3-1 Record Into Meet at Lincoln Tomorrow

Boasting a 3-1 record, the Kansas State gymnastics team travels to Lincoln tomorrow for a triangular, double-dual meet against Nebraska and Minnesota State college. The Huskers are the only team to defeat the Wildcats so far this year.

"This will be our toughest meet of the season," said Coach

Frank Thompson, "as Minnesota State is considered a little stronger than Colorado or Fort Hays. We will need top performances from all 10 men on the squad to win over Minnesota State. Nebraska's depth and manpower, however, are too much for us, and we concede to them."

The high-point man for the Cat team so far is Captain Ivan Loomis, who has a total of 47 points for all meets. Richard Rood, Mike Dziura and Domokus Hajdo are pushing Loomis hard for scoring honors. All three have been consistent scorers for K-State.

According to Thompson, this is a rebuilding year for his gymnasts. Most of the team is composed of sophomores who have taken first places in all events in various meets. The only senior on the team is Ron Leslie.

"Definite improvement has been made by all 10 team members," said Thompson. "If this keeps up, we should have another strong team by the end of the season."

K-State entries and events:

Free exercise — Dave Cudney, Domokus Hajdo, Mike Dziura.
Trampoline — Dale Patterson, Richard Rood, Ivan Loomis.
Side Horse — Cudney, Hajdo, Ron Leslie.
Hi-Bar — Don Krasko, Roger Pine, Loomis.
Parallel Bars — Krasko, Hajdo, Dziura.
Flying Rings — Bob Rector, Rood, Loomis.
Tumbling — Dziura, Hajdo, Patterson.

CHEVY'S NEW HI-THRIFT 6

More miles are back in a gallon of regular-grade gas—up to 10% more—and Chevy's new Hi-Thrift 6 engine puts them there. It also gives you more "git" in the speeds you drive the most.

Here's an engine that always seems able to coax extra miles out of a tank of regular-grade gas. In fact, if you're one of those drivers who keep tab on things like gas mileage, you'll soon see for yourself that this new Hi-Thrift 6 gets up to 10% more miles a gallon.

Another thing you'll like about this 135-h.p. 6 is the extra pep it gives you for passing and climbing hills. This is due to higher torque at normal speeds.

It may be hard to believe anything that looks and moves like this '59 Chevy can be such a stickler for economy. But—whether you pick the Hi-Thrift 6 or a vim-packed V8—this is just one more reason Chevy's the car that's wanted for all its worth. Stop by your dealer's and see.

Riggert New Head Of Lutheran Group

Roger Riggert, EE Jr, has been elected president of Gamma Delta, Lutheran Student organization, for this semester. Other new officers are Larry Wolgast, SS Fr, vice-president; Louetta Berschauer, HT Jr, secretary; and Linda Ahlstedt, HT Fr, treasurer.

Although Gamma Delta has been referred to as University Lutheran, the correct name is Gamma Delta. It belongs to a national society of the same name, a Greek organization for Lutheran students.

February 22, the K-State chapter will go to Lincoln, Neb., for a workshop retreat with the University of Nebraska association. Members are working to make these chapter retreats yearly affairs.

Members of the K-State chapter of Gamma Delta are making plans for a regional convention which will be in Manhattan next fall. Tentative dates, September 26-29, have been set for the gathering which will include members from a five-state area.

Delegates from Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Nebraska, and Wyoming will meet for the three days to participate in leadership workshops, social activities.

The K-State chapter deviates a bit from the national pattern as they do not follow a pledge system. The national organization makes use of a pledge-active system in most of its chapters.

The local chapter is located in the St. Luke's Lutheran church at Sunset and Delaware. A student center in the church basement with TV room, kitchen, and meeting room is designed to accommodate the 35-member society.

The Rev. Robert Rosenkoetter is the pastoral advisor and Bob Cochran of the KSC statistics and math department is the faculty advisor.

Hillel One of Smallest KS Religious Groups

One of the smallest campus groups is the Hillel foundation, social, cultural and religious organization for Jewish students, which was formed in 1946. The national head of the foundation is B'nai B'rith fraternal lodge.

Every second Sunday of the month the group meets at the Jewish community center, 910 Lee, for a program or supper. Last Sunday, Dr. Fred Parrish of the History, Government and Philosophy department spoke on his recent trip to Europe and Asia.

Hillel sponsors social, cultural and religious activities for the students. Last fall the foundation brought Irving Levitas to the campus for a review of Russian author Boris Pasternak. Each year, during the spring semester, members of the foundation have a group meeting with members from KU. The meetings alternate between the two schools each year. This year's meeting will be at KU.

The foundation is active in promoting observances of the Jewish holidays, especially Passover and the Jewish new year. Two years ago the group sponsored a Passover supper in the Union for all the students on campus.

There are approximately 20 students who belong to Hillel. Officers for the spring semester are David Garfinkle, DM Fr, president; Robert Stroh, PrV Fr, vice-president; Leon Yawitz, Ar 01, treasurer; and Susan Abrahams, PrV Fr, secretary. Max Milner, professor of milling, is faculty advisor.

Beware the "Blue White" diamond

If you see a diamond advertised as "blue-white," be careful. Too many diamonds masquerading as "blue-white" are inferior to gems that are colorless or nearly so. The way to be sure of true diamond value for your money is to select your jeweler carefully. We know and guarantee the quality and value of every diamond we offer for sale.

KS Singers Will Give Benefit Show March 1

A benefit program will be presented by the K-State Singers Sunday, March 1, in the Auditorium at 3 p.m. Proceeds from the program will go into a music scholarship fund to provide for four or five music scholarships.

Tickets for the program may be purchased for 50 cents from the members of K-State Singers or the members of a cappella choir. They are also on sale in the music office in the College auditorium.

This will be the second benefit program that has been presented by the K-State Singers. A similar program which was presented on March 1, 1957, netted $900. These proceeds were used to send the K-State Singers and the a cappella choir on a spring concert tour.

"Archie and the Mehitabel," a musical story, will be the feature of the program. It is the story of a cockroach that falls in love with an alley cat. Joan Taylor, MGS Sr. and Ernie English, MGS Jr., will be the guest soloists.

A harmonica team from Fort Riley, Linden and Lass, will be special guests and will provide several extra numbers between the regular numbers on the program.

Also included on the program will be a group of tunes by George Gershwin and several of the old favorites of the Singers.

Chess Club

Free chess hours are being sponsored by the Chess club every Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. for the rest of the semester, excluding Easter vacation. The hours are open to anyone who wants to play chess or who wants to learn how to play the game, according to John Totten, IE Soph, president of the club.

Nuclear Reactor

Representatives from the Nuclear Development corporation of America, White Plains, N.Y., discussed possible plans for a critical reactor with members of the K-State nuclear reactor group yesterday.

Steve Randolph and Tony Staphoplos, from the corporation, explained their proposal for a heavy water modified nuclear reactor.
